Like a Sucking Dove.
Unpleasant Crime.
Topsy-Turvy Russia.
Hard to Pronounce.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE STOCK market started business for 1933 yesterday, and, like the gentleman in "Mid Summer Night's Dream," proved that it could roar as gently as any sucking dove. The old lion-like five-million shares a day roaring seems to be over, for the present.

But better times are coming, even in Wall Street.

SOME MODERN bandits seem hardly to deserve the kindness that meets them in some jails, or the tender solicitude that sometimes supervises their punishment.

Consider the gang of five who held up thirty-five patrons of a Brooklyn resort yesterday morning. While the thirty-five, unresisting, stood against the wall and were robbed of $1,000 in money and jewelry, the criminals abused them with obscene and insulting language. When the job was finished one said:

"Let's plug them, anyway, just for luck."

To reform such gentlemen with kindness would seem difficult.

THE LAND that our "best minds" describe as "half mad, topsy-turvy Russia" does things that seem strange to "best minds."

Yesterday the Soviet court sentenced to death by shooting three of the most important officials of the Communist party. They will be dead when you read this, probably.

They didn't commit murder, but were "guilty of treason" in connection with grain production and distribution. In other words, they made it hard for the poor to get bread, difficult for the country to prosper.

They execute you if you engage in grain speculation or sabotage, which makes bread scarce, more expensive.

Possibly the angels also are "topsy-turvy" and agree with the Russian government that to deprive millions, including women and children, of bread is as serious a crime as depriving one individual of his life.

GRAND DUKE CYRIL of Russia dreams dreams, sees visions and expects to sit on the Romanoff throne some day. He says, "The national conscience is gaining strength in Russia," and, solemnly, "Russian soldiers, I address you!" then calls on Russia's army and navy to bring back the czars. The gentleman doesn't know the Russian army and navy.

If a czar comes back, which is probable, it will not be one of the old type, but rather something new, like Napoleon, who took charge of France after the French revolution.

Napoleon's task would have been too much of a job for any Bourbon, although the old kings did come back, for a little while, after Napoleon had left the French thoroughly tired, first of revolution and then of glory.

SENATOR COSTIGAN, Democrat from Colorado, says there are twelve millions idle now. Gov. Lehman says New York State will need help from the government, and it probably will, like many other states. By the time the government finishes "helping," it may need help itself.

OUR "LITTLE depression," still going on with prosperity just around the corner, is puzzling.

It reminds you of a gentleman dragged to a New York police station on a charge of vagrancy. Such gentlemen must be "booked," their names written down by the police sergeant.

After a couple of attempts the police sergeant handed over the book to the vagrant, saying:

The vagrant wrote G. Grungennettezzeeaua. That describes our depression well.

NEW YORK's new mayor, John P. O'Brien, started work yesterday. Everybody likes him, and three clergymen, one Catholic, the Rt. Rev. Mgr. William E. Cashin, one Protestant, the Very Rev. Milo H. Gates, dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, and one Rabbi, Israel Goldstein of the congregation B' Nai Jeshurun, prayed or spoke.

No one can complain of that arrangement. One good Tammany man remarked:

"It ought to bring good luck, although two of them were unnecessary."

Mayor O'Brien promises economy, the thing that New York and many other American cities need.

CHINA AND Japan continue fighting, Japan pushing the attack by air, land and water, seven bombing planes are disturbing the peace of the Chinese city, Shanhaikwan.

The Japanese avoid the use of poisonous gases which could easily destroy every living creature in the Chinese city, and they deserve credit for that.

Some Western nations will not be so polite when war comes again. It is to be hoped that some of our numerous "observers" who have been sent to Japan come back and tell our Army, Navy and government what airplanes mean in modern fighting.

FUGITIVE TAKEN IN FAY MURDER

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Under the direction of Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney, police and detectives today checked and re-checked that "I don't remember" story of Edward Maloney, 36, sought since Sunday night in connection with the murder of Larry Fay, Broadway racketeer, night club promoter and sometime bright light playboy.

Maloney, a doorman at Fay's Casa Blanca night club, where the boss racketeer was felled by five bullets Sunday night, walked up to Officer Arthur McCloskey, directing traffic in Greenwich Village last night, and said:

"I'm Maloney. You know, Mulrooney wants me. I've been to confession, and I wish you'd take me in."

The incredulous officer took some time to digest the statement. Then he hurried Maloney to a station house, where he was soon closeted with Mulrooney, detective inspectors and representatives of the District Attorney.

After prolonged questioning, Mulrooney issued a statement quoting Maloney as saying he remembered nothing after leaving Fay's night club early Sunday.

Maloney, according to police, was advised to surrender by a priest to whom he had gone to confession. Maloney, a former prohibition agent in Buffalo and before that a member of Troop K of the state police, was still held incommunicado today. There was no charge against him.

Holy Year to Revive Business, Pope Says

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The certainty that the new year will be better spiritually and economically than the last as a result of the Holy Year was expressed today by Pope Pius in responding to greetings by the Roman Patricians headed by Prince Colonna. The Pontiff said:

"The Holy Year beginning in 1933 will bring a spiritual revival. This will restore the world's confidence and induce economic revival, too."

BLONDE WIFE SHOT AFTER PARTY

Backs Husband's Story That Wounding Was Accidental

Mrs. Marie Moyer, 25, blonde mother of two, of 1940 Broadway, Beechview, was in a serious condition in South Side Hospital today suffering from a bullet wound in her lung and left shoulder.

Her husband, Howard S. Moyer, 30, an undertaker, was held over to await the outcome of his wife's injury at a hearing before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court today. Bail was set at $1,000. Homicide Detective Frank Crowley substantiated Moyer's story that the shooting was accidental.

ADMITS DRINKING

The husband testified he couldn't remember a "whole lot about it" because he had been drinking.

Describing the shooting as accidental, Moyer said it occurred in their bedroom as he attempted to demonstrate the rapidity with which he could remove the cartridge clip from a .45-caliber automatic pistol he owned.

As he started to remove the clip, two shots rang out. One of the bullets entered the ceiling over the couple's bed; the other grazed Moyer's right arm and struck Mrs. Moyer. It entered her shoulder and was believed by hospital attaches to have pierced her lung.

QUIZZED BY SLEUTHS

Questioned by detectives in South Side Hospital, Mrs. Moyer told the same version of the shooting.

Police also questioned Miss Hazel Crow, 15, who makes her home with the Moyers. She said she was in the kitchen at the time of the shooting. She said the Moyers had not been quarreling.

Earlier in the evening, Mrs. Moyer told detectives, as they were preparing to go out a friend paid them a visit and bought a pint bottle of liquor. Mrs. Moyer drank a highball and her husband drank a few more, she said.

30 Feared Killed in Ship Fire

International News Service.

CHERBOURG, Jan. 4.—Belief that 30 members of his crew were lost when the 42,512-ton French luxury liner L'Atlantique burned in the English Channel was expressed tonight by Capt. Schoof, commander of the ill-fated vessel, on his arrival here from the scene of the disaster.

Capt. Schoof told International News Service when he reached Cherbourg aboard the Dutch rescue ship Achilles:

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Abandoned to a fiery doom, the luxurious French steamship L'Atlantique drifted in a pall of smoke and flame tonight 15 miles northwest of the Island of Jersey in the English Channel.

Aboard a specially chartered plane, an International News Service correspondent flew through the smoke arising from the blazing inferno of what had once been the largest and finest liner in the South Atlantic service.

Most of her crew of 260 men, who were taking the liner to Havre for overhauling, were believed picked up from lifeboats by Rescue vessels. No passengers were aboard.

JOHNSON FOR REPRISALS ON DEBTS

Senator Denounces Advocates of Reduction

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Notice was served upon the Senate today by Senator Johnson that he would demand legislation to bar American resources from "nations that do not honor their obligations."

He refrained from detailing provisions he had in mind.

California's Independent Republican, in the first speech that has broken the Senate silence on war debts this session, assailed those who favored cancellation or revision and said the American people had beggared themselves to buy bonds so this country could make the loans.

SENATE TENSE

He said:

"There was no question then of cancellation or revision. No voice was heard demurring."

An intent Senate listened while he recited the history of the war loans.

Johnson, with pointed index finger moving up and down, said Claude G. Bowers, the writer, aptly termed those urging cancellation or revision "The American Foreign Legion." He added:

"This is so apt that I hope my brethren here will compliment Mr. Bowers for so describing those who cannot see America and have thoughts only for those across the seas."

"How I recall the bitter anguished cry from France when America entered the war that 'our backs are to the wall!' I recall when the first engagement

WON'T VETO BLUE LAW CHANGE

Governor Opposed to Commercialization Of Sabbath

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—Gov. Pinchot, it is learned on the highest authority, will sign a bill modifying the blue laws of 1794, so long as there is no commercialization of Sunday through open theaters and indoor amusements.

The Governor will favor a bill to permit Sunday baseball and other outdoor recreations, even though admission is charged, provided there is no interference with church attendance. He would approve a regulation which would permit recreation between the afternoon hours of Sunday.

LIBERAL ATTITUDE

It is understood that William W. Roper, of Philadelphia, prominently identified with the movement to modify the blue laws, has discussed the subject with the Governor, and is satisfied with his attitude in the event a liberal bill can be thrust through House and Senate.

An effort is being made to collect the signatures of a group of liberal clergymen to a proposal to liberalize the Sunday laws. With such a document, the Governor would feel fortified in signing a bill such as that introduced yesterday by Representative Joseph G. Steedle, of McKees Rocks, or a companion measure presented by Representative Louis Schwartz, of Philadelphia.

AGED PHYSICIAN DENIED DIVORCE

Dr. Leon M. Thurston, 68, of 1238 Monterey street, was denied a divorce from his 38-year-old wife, Margaret I. Thurston, today by Judge Harry H. Rowand. Thurston's suit, alleging cruel and barbarous treatment, was contested by his wife.

Reviewing a picture of family strife, Dr. Thurston testified his mother-in-law, who also was his sister-in-law through marriage to his brother, moved into his home following his brother's death.

His wife was uncivil to his patients and accused him of being too friendly with other women, Dr. Thurston testified. He said:

"The trouble was she thought more of her family than of me."

The couple was married March 16, 1925.

TROOPS CALLED IN MINE WAR

TAYLORSVILLE, Ill., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Five companies of the Illinois National Guard were ordered into Christian County today as the state attempted for a second time to bring peace in the troubled coal fields of Central Illinois, where a man and a woman were killed and several shot last night and where two more were shot and wounded today.

Fighting broke out anew this morning among hostile union miners as members of the United Mine Workers started for the shaft of Peabody Mine No. 7 at Kincaid.

From both sides of the mine shots burst out, wounding two.

Deputy sheriffs, who patroled the Taylorville-Kinkaid highway all night as a result of yesterday's fatal fighting, reported they were targets for sniping.

State's Attorney John W. Coale said he would take legal action against members of the Progressive Mine Union as a result of the slaying of Vincent Rodems and Mrs. Emma Comerlotto, 51.

Alien Steel Harm Cited In 'Buy American' Drive

A symposium in which a steel chief, four city councilmen, a township commissioner and a group of war veterans give their views on "Buy American" today gave evidence of the widespread belief in the principle that Americans should buy American-made goods and start the factories working.

He said:

"On account of the depreciated currency abroad, which had the effect of actually lowering the tariff, steel of all grades, including tin plate, is being imported into the United States at the present time. The placing of an order with a foreign producer of a single carload of tin plate weighing 50 net tons amounts to a loss of $1,200 in wages in Weirton to tin mill and steel workers alone. This is equivalent to 400 men working one day of eight hours, at the rate of $3 per day; or one year and four months' work for one man working full time at the rate of $3 per day. The greater part of this $1,200 of wages is lost in the tin mills, but it also works back through the steel

Bill Would Transfer School Taxing Power

Proposes Shifting Authority to City Council

A bill which would take from the Pittsburgh Board of Education the right to fix the school tax rate and place that responsibility on City Council is ready for introduction in the State Senate next week, according to word from Harrisburg.

Informed of the purpose of the new bill, President Marcus Aaron, of the Board of Public Education, said:

"I can comment on that bill in a few words. It is utterly destructive and ruinous."

Council President John S. Herron failed to see logic in the plan. He commented:

"That is the first I've ever heard of it. I cannot see the logic of the bill. We have a real task taking care of our own job."

GARLAND OPPOSED

Councilman Robert Garland declared:

"That would necessitate an amendment to the school code for first-class cities. My idea would be to leave the code just as it is. Certainly I would not want to share any responsibility of legislating for or administering the affairs of the Board of Education. We have trouble enough of our own. I'm also strongly in favor of an appointive board, as it is now."

TAX CUT REFUSED

The proposed legislative action follows a refusal by the board to reduce its 11¾ mill tax rate for 1933, and unanimous decision by City Council to reduce city taxes approximately 10 per cent.

The same bill would also take the right to fix the tax millage

PICK 5 POLICE STATIONS TO GO

Five police stations were designated to be eliminated today by Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh, to conform with the new 1933 city budget setup. On other station must be eliminated under City Council's ruling.

The stations which will be dismantled within the next few days are:

No. 13, Woods Run; No. 15, Hays; No. 14, Carrick; No. 16, Overbrook, and No. 10, Hazelwood.

Walsh said he was undecided whether to name No. 3, Penn avenue, or No. 5, Forty-third street, as the sixth station to go.

Announcement of the eliminated stations was made following a conference between Walsh and Henry Angloch, superintendent of the Bureau of Electricity, concerning the cost of transferring the electrical equipment from disbanded stations to new headquarters.

'Fixless' Tags at Last! First Victim Peeved

A motorist parked on Diamond street, near Grant, at noon today and got "non-fixable" tag No. 1—The first of the new series to be issued by the police department.

The honor of being the first was unimpressive to him.

Noting the tag on the windshield, he snapped it off and cried:

"Hell, I'll send them a buck."

Which proved that if the tag wasn't "non-fixable," at least there was no attempt to be made to fix it.

The motorist immediately pulled his car away, refusing to give his name. State records show the license was issued to Philip H. Ecker, 305 Second avenue, Rankin.

Traffic Patrolman Henry Pieper served the tag.

Edward Ecker, a brother, declared Elmer Ecker was driving, and had just stopped for a minute. It was the first tag he got this year—but not the first tag, his brother said.

BEER'S FATE TO GOVERN DEMOCRATS ON BUDGET PLANS

U. S. SHORTAGE MOUNTS OVER BILLION

Roosevelt, Leaders Prepare to Meet Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—How the Democrats attack balancing of the budget, in the words of Speaker Garner, depends largely on whether beer is legalized and how much economy is effected at this session.

A treasury statement today showed the deficit for the first half of this, the 1933 fiscal year, stood at $1,159,286,502.

Getting ready for the meeting to be held in New York tomorrow by President-elect Roosevelt, the Speaker told newspapermen at the Capitol that it had been impossible to ascertain how much revenue was needed to balance the budget because experts disagreed on the amount of the prospective Treasury deficit.

Garner said:

"It is all a guess, and Secretary Mills agrees with me."

If President Hoover signed the beer bill, he went on, it would bring in about $200,000,000 in revenue.

The Senate Economy Committee is expected by Garner to recommend economies of between $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 in expenditures, and he said these would go a long way toward balancing the budget.

Secretary Mills has estimated that the deficit under present business conditions during the next fiscal year would amount to $307,000,000, provided the foreign debtors paid the $329,000,000 due, and the federal gasoline tax was continued. Garner continued:

"Under present business conditions, present taxes, and present expenditures, in my judgment, the budget will not be balanced—I think it ought to be balanced."

PATMAN LIKELY TO PUSH NEW BONUS BILL

Studies Drive for Cash As Others Demand Sharp Economies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Veterans' supporters on Capitol Hill will decide in a few days what to do about the bonus—whether to try to force its passage this winter in the face of certain presidential veto or to wait until the new Congress meets.

With the turn of the week, Representative Patman (Dem.), of Texas, said today he and others who want to pay immediately the adjusted compensation certificates hope to make their decision. He declared:

"We know that we already have enough bonus advocates in the House to force action on a bill, and we feel sure that we have not lost any strength since the measure passed last session."

When the bill was defeated in the Senate last year, Patman immediately introduced an almost identical measure.

$85,000,000 CUT URGED

Meanwhile an immediate $85,000,000 slash in the veterans' administration's expenditures was proposed today by the chairman of the House veterans' appropriations sub-committee as a temporary measure to achieve some economy in ex-soldiers' benefits.

The chairman, Woodrum, of Virginia, announced his purpose to newspapermen and said he would put it up to his committee and the House. His plan contemplates a 10 per cent cut, for the next fiscal year only, in World War compensation and disability allowances, Army and Navy pensions, emergency officers retired pay and similar items.

He advanced this plan while the joint congressional committee on veterans was hearing proposals from the National Grange for big permanent slashes in veterans' funds. This organization was the latest of a long list appearing in opposition to continuance of benefits to former soldiers whose claim is not based upon injury or illness attributable to active service.

Byrd to Give Up Pension If Legion Aids Economy

BOSTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd has pledged himself to give up his status in the Navy and "all that goes with it" if the American Legion will favor before Congress repeal of the law "which grants pensions to veterans of all our wars who received no injury or disability from war service."

Admiral Byrd made the pledge in a statement last night in answer to criticism given yesterday both in the House and Senate at Washington because he was receiving $4,200 annual retirement pay from the government while acting for the National Economy League, of which he is chairman.

The statement specifically answered Senator Robinson, of Indiana, who demanded on the floor of the Senate that he return his "pension" to the government.

JAPS CAPTURE CITY IN 3-DAY BATTLE

Graphic Details of Shanhaikwan Fighting Given

Associated Press.

Shanhaikwan, scene of the latest outbreak of hostilities between China and Japan, is completely in the hands of the Japanese after a three-day battle.

Word from Tokio said that the Japanese command had been warned that nothing must be done to extend the battle zone and that every effort must be made to "localize" the hostilities.

Chang Hsiao-Liang, the Chinese commander-in-chief, reported to his government, however, that the troops which evacuated Shanhaikwan were intrenching northwest of there, awaiting reinforcements and preparing to resist any Japanese advance up the Lan River into Jehol.

Fragmentary reports of the fighting at Shanhaikwan indicated that the Chinese had put up a good defense. The casualties were variously estimated at between 300 and 2,000.

Japanese men-of-war lay off Chinwangtao, not far from Shanhaikwan, and two British vessels were ordered up there today to protect foreign residents.

Horrors of Shanhaikwan Bombardment Revealed

SHANGHAI, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—A graphic picture of the Japanese bombardment and resultant capture of Shanhaikwan was slowly forming today through fragmentary dispatches which trickled in from Shanhaikwan and Chinwangtao.

A day of horror preceding the fall of Shanhaikwan was being revealed, in which the casualties were reported to be high. When the Japanese infantry swept into the half-ruined city following a naval aerial bombardment, fierce hand-to-hand fighting resulted in which 300 Chinese soldiers were reported killed. Other advices stated that 2,000 were slain.

Advices indicated the Chinese were defeated by force of superior armaments, the reports saying that the Chinese and Japanese infantry strength were about equal, but the Japanese used naval guns, field guns and air bombers, which rained death and destruction, overpowering the Chinese, who used rifles, hand grenades, machine guns and mortars.

Advices relating to the army actions of the Chinese troops portrayed acts comparable to those of the 19th Route Army defending Chapei last February. The Chinese clung to their defenses in the face of a terrific bombardment from land, sea and air. Shells destroyed the city wall, while incendiary bombs started numerous fires within which resulted in scenes reminiscent of those in Chapei after the Japanese incendiary bombs were put into use.

LEHMAN URGES BEER SALE

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Speedy enactment of legislation to pave the way for the sale of beer in New York State in the event either the present or the next Congress modifies the Volstead Law was recommended today by Gov. Herbert H. Lehman in his annual message to the 1933 Legislature.

A state tax on the sale of beer, the new Democratic Governor revealed, would help greatly to wipe out the state's present $100,000,000 deficit and balance the 1933 budget. Such a levy, it has been estimated, would yield the state annually about $25,000,000.

Sweeping changes in the laws regulating public utilities were recommended by Gov. Lehman. He proposed that either whole or part of the cost of regulating utilities by the Public Service Commission be borne by the utilities.

Col. Lehman urged enactment of legislation to permit municipalities to purchase or sell electric power, providing such action is first approved by the voters in a referendum.

He said there was nothing that would bring about a greater respect for law than a reorganization of our system of administration of justice, so as to make it more economical, more certain, more business-like and more speedy."

"There was no question then of modification or cancellation. No voice was heard in demurring. They walked up to the counter, all of them, signed their obligations for the face value of the loans and 5 per cent interest."

Johnson asserted:

"The only question is, 'who pays?' Shall America pay her just obligations or shall America pay Europe's just obligations to America? There should be no difficulty in answering that question today."

Declaring the "story of France and her debt is a sad tale," Johnson said that contry not only had been granted special consideration by America in charging two and a fraction per cent interest, but this country had paid France in cash for "everything we occupied in France during the war."

He repeated, again and again, rather solemnly:

"France defaults.

"It is a sorry thing for international integrity and international obligations. France does not honor her own signature. She practically dishonors it."

Johnson urged quick action on his bill offered last session to prevent loans to those countries which have defaulted in their payments to the United States.

Home Bank Scored By Social Worker

Scoring the Home Loan Bank for its apparent failure to function, Rose M. Stein, research secretary of the League of Social Justice, last night, in the Y. M. C. A., declared the bank "has utterly failed to meet the situation."

Established to protect home owners, Miss Stein said "three months after its opening not a single home owner has received aid either directly or indirectly." She said the ever increasing foreclosures of home mortgages can be curbed only by reducing interest rates and stopping "the insane deflation of real estate values."

SENATE DELAYS REPEAL PLAN

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Final decision on the method of submitting prohibition repeal to the states for ratification was postponed today until tomorrow by the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee, charged with drafting a repeal resolution.

A majority of the subcommittee, headed by Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, apparently favor ratification by state legislators as has been the custom ever since the original Constitution was adopted. Some wet leaders have insisted, though, on ratification by specially called conventions to be elected solely on the prohibition issue.

The Blaine subcommittee held a brief session this morning, debated the question and adjourned until tomorrow. Blaine announced:

"It is my hope the subcommittee will conclude its work tomorrow. If it does, we ought to have a vote in the Senate before the end of this month."

HALLORAN JURY PROBE ORDERED

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Waging a bitter fight to quash the indictment charging J. J. (Happy Jack) Halloran as an accessory in the Winnie Ruth Judd "trunk murders," his attorneys succeeded today in having a searching investigation ordered on the formation of the grand jury which indicted him.

Superior Judge Howard Speakman ordered the Maricopa County Sheriff, the county clerk, the Superior Court clerk, and the county recorder to appear before him to describe the method used in the selection of names for the county grand jury.

Ex-Judge Frank Smith, chief of counsel for Halloran, contended that the names were improperly drawn.

Judge Speakman indicated that he may call together the grand jury to ascertain if it was biased and prejudiced as alleged by Halloran's lawyers.

Hunt Jilted Suitor And Kidnaped Child

LONG BEACH, Cal., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—An itinerant gambler and a 4½-year-old girl he is alleged to have kidnaped were sought by police throughout Southern California today.

The child is Shirley Yvonne Shanks, daughter by a former marriage of Mrs. Furel June Sights. The woman reported the gambler, a former suitor, visited her and her newly acquired husband yesterday afternoon and asked to take Shirley to the store to buy her some candy.

Kline Jury 'Fixer' Retu. as to Prison

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Howard Gross, sentenced to a year in prison after pleading guilty to jury tampering in the trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline, of Pittsburgh, is back in County Jail today after a four-month furlough.

DUQUESNE LIGHT PROFITS HOLD

Duquesne Light Company, the electric power subsidiary of the Philadelphia Company group of utilities, was the principal sustaining influence in the parent organization's earnings in the face of depression influences, it was shown by the reports of the companies for the 12 months ended November 30, released today.

Gross income of Duquesne Light of $25,450,803 was only 9 per cent under the amount for the preceding 12 months. Net income, after providing for all expenses and charges except preferred dividends, was $12,122,623, a drop of 16.2 per cent.

The Philadelphia Company's share in Duquesne Light's earnings was $10,747,623, a decline of 17.1 per cent.

The Philadelphia Company reported consolidated gross earnings of all its subsidiaries of $48,264,781, a decline of 15.2 per cent. Its net income after deducting all charges was $5,402,429, which represented a drop of 51.8 per cent.

H. Hobart Porter, chairman of the board of the West Penn Electric Company, today said that in the 12 months ended November 30, 1932, the net earnings after deducting all charges, including reserves for renewals, amounted to $4,304,382, or 1.9 times the annual dividend requirements on both classes of preferred stock.

SAND COMPANY GETS RECEIVER

Receivers were appointed today for the Iron City Sand and Gravel Company with the consent of its president, George Vang. Vang was named a receiver, along with V. L. P. Shriver, by Federal Judge R. M. Gibson.

The receivership was asked by the Union Trust Company of Maryland and Stein Brothers and Boyce of Baltimore. The Baltimore firm, owner of 650 shares of stock in the Vang company, reported the Iron City Sand and Gravel Company's assets of $2,270,000 were much more than its liabilities, but that it had insufficient cash to meet its obligations. These statements were admitted by Vang. The bank reported that the company was unable to meet the interest on its debts.

Vang recently has been fighting a court battle with John Douglas, Jr., over rights on the city wharf.

The company announced that the receiver will continue to operate pending plans to reorganize.

200 Attack Workers Building New P. O.

WHEATON, Ill., Jan. 4.—(INS.)—One man was believed fatally injured today when 200 men, hurling stones and swinging bats and shovels, raided the $1,000,000 postoffice under construction here and drove 75 workers out of the building.

It was reported the attack was brought on by reports that men on the construction project were receiving only half-time pay for full time work.

BENEDUM GAVE PARTY $22,700

A contribution of $22,700 by M. L. Benedum, Pittsburgh, to the Democratic campaign and a loan of $15,000 from him to the Democratic National Committee were reported in the announcement of the committee to Congress today that it spent $1,638,177 last year.

A contribution of $5,000 by M. H. McCloskey, Jr., of Pittsburgh, also was announced.

The report of the committee showed receipts for the year totaled $1,708,507, leaving a balance of $70,330. However, it also listed unpaid obligations of $839,385, so, deducting the balance from these, the net deficit appeared to be $769,055.

Bernard M. Baruch was listed as the heaviest contributor, having donated $53,000 to the campaign. Vincent Astor gave $35,000. Other large donors were William Randolph Hearst, $25,000; Pierre S. du Pont, $14,500; James W. Gerard, New York, $17,528; Morton L. Schwartz, $20,000; John J. Raskob, $25,000, and Peter Gerry, Providence, R. I., $22,000.

RELIEF NEEDS HELD BILLION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Direct unemployment relief during 1933 will require an expenditure of one billion dollars, Harry L. Hopkins, executive director of the New York state temporary relief administration, declared today at Senate hearings on the $500,000,000 La Follette-Costigan relief bill.

He said:

"Ten per cent of the total population will be dependent on charity.

"Unemployment needs have increased beyond the capacity of the cities and states to meet them.

"The federal government should join in meeting the burden. It should pay half the cost."

Phila. Movie Tax Held Not Legal

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The city today abandoned a proposed two-cent tax on motion picture theater tickets, originally intended to become effective January 1. City Solicitor David J. Smyth ruled that the levy, as passed by City Council, was not legal.

MULDOWNEY FIGHT OPENS

Mrs. Anne E. Felix, defeated Democratic candidate for Congress from the Thirty-second District at the last election, today charged Councilman M. J. Muldowney's victory was accomplished by fraud, in initiating a contest for the seat before the House of Representatives.

Her votes were shifted to Muldowney after threats and bribery were used to intimidate members of election boards, Mrs. Felix alleges in her formal complaint, sent to Washington by her attorney, G. Malcolm McDonald.

A notice of the forwarding of the complaint was to be served on Muldowney.

Namesake of Penn Facing Trial Here

Hospitable old William Penn probably would have turned over in his grave today if he could have read the trials listed for Criminal Court.

A namesake, William Penn, of Carnegie, was listed as a defendant in a case based on the roof over his head. Penn is charged with fraudulent conversion. His attorney, James A. Wright, said the charge was based on the alleged removal of furniture from his house while he was in arrears in rent.

T. R.'s Bodyguard Dies in Huntington

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Frank H. Tyree, 60, who was a bodyguard for President Roosevelt, died today from heart disease.

Roosevelt Boys 'Razz' Father in High Hat

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—High hats were smashed, at least dented, in a family kidding match as President-elect Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt walked out on the children last night in their reunion at their New York City home.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt provoked the jollification as they passed the dinner table all dressed up in formal attire en route to a dinner by relatives.

The jibes from the table caused Mr. Roosevelt to switch his high hat for a derby of the youngest son, John. In the uproar another of the boys got hold of the high hat and the President-elect was forced to plead he needed the tall headpiece for an impending ceremony in Washington before he got it back.

Marlene in Trousers 'Exquisite'—Sternberg

For Josef von Sternberg, noted German director now in Berlin, had placed the stamp of "unauthenticity" on reports that the breeches worn by Marlene Dietrich, exotic German screen star, had brought about a breach between the actress and her director.

When Paramount studio sued Miss Dietrich for approximately $200,000, alleging breach of contract from the studio said Von Sternberg, who has directed Miss Dietrich in all of her pictures, had refused to direct her last one "for personal reasons."

It was then that the report sprang up. But in Berlin Von Sternberg declared Miss Dietrich wore trousers "exquisitely."

GERMAN SUBMARINE CHIEF TELLS OF SINKING TUSCANIA

'PURE LUCK,' HE INFORMS SURVIVORS

Former Commander Clears 15-Year-Old Mystery

(Editor's Note—A 15-year-old mystery of the Great War was cleared up for the first time today when Capt. Wilhelm Meyer, retired commander of the German submarine U-77, revealed that his sinking of the British transport Tuscania on February 5, 1918, with a loss of 204 American lives, was "sheer good luck."

At the time of the disaster, the sinking was put down to the work of German spies in the United States, who were accused of divulging the Tuscania's departure and her position on the high seas.

Capt. Meyer, who has been invited to attend a meeting of the Tuscania's survivors in Chicago on February 5, discloses in the following article, written exclusively for International News Service, that he stumbled across the transport after weeks of fruitless searching for prey in Irish waters.)

By CAPT. WILHELM MEYER,
Retired Commander of the German U-77.

BERLIN, Jan. 4.—Survivors of the Tuscania were kind enough to invite me to their meeting on February 5, commemorating the sinking of the vessel by my submarine, the U-77.

The invitation stresses the fact that there are no thoughts of bitterness or revenge lingering in the hearts of the survivors of that catastrophe. They recognize that I and members of the crew of the U-77 merely did our duty as duty was understood at that time.

The U-77 was ranked as a class B submarine. Of 500 tons displacement, it was placed in service in 1917. It had five torpedo tubes and carried a crew of 34 men.

My submarine saw 32 months of service without receiving a scratch. It was a tragedy that the craft had to be handed over to the British as a result of the Armistice terms.

GIVES DETAILS

The sinking of the Tuscania was laconically mentioned in German admiralty reports, which were necessarily brief. In view of the friendly invitation I believe that a friendly resume of the details of the sinking would be interesting.

The sinking was pure luck from our point of view at the time.

We had been cruising off the Northern Irish coast for several weeks, without once having to dive to save ourselves from attacks by British cruisers, which were supposed to be as thick as fish in that region.

Having given up hope of sighting prey in that area, I decided to head for the entrance to the North Channel, intending to enter the Irish Sea from the north.

At 5:50 p. m., on February 5, 1918, I decided to scan the horizon for one last look at the Atlantic.

With surprise and trembling I spotted an enormous cloud of black smoke on the western horizon, heading directly toward us.

I immediately ordered the U-77 swung around and headed directly toward the smoke cloud, which was advancing southeasterly toward the channel, evidently having taken the extreme north route across the Atlantic.

Soon I was able to detect a

GEORGIA PRISON PROBE ASKED

ATLANTA, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—A legislative investigation into charges of cruelty in Georgia prison camps had been requested today by 16 prominent Georgians.

The request was made yesterday by mail to incoming legislators. Photographs of alleged torture of prisoners accompanied the requests. The General Assembly meets next week.

The committee requesting the investigation says charges against the state's prison camps have been given national publicity.

Allegations against the Georgia penal system, the committee says, have been made by John L. Spivak, author of "Georgia Nigger." The committee says:

"Spivak presents alleged photostatic copies of official prison records, indicating the use of double shackles, racks, barrels and other methods of torture."

Aged Farmer Held In Sailor's Slaying

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—T. Milton Kelly, aged farmer, is held for court today in connection with the slaying of his youthful neighbor, Frank Rossi, 21. Kelly was arraigned on a charge of murder late yesterday.

Death Takes Widow Of Hoosier Author

6 MAIL BANDITS GET $170,000

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Six shotgun bandits who robbed a clerk at the Milwaukee Railroad station here last night of four bags of registered mail escaped with at least $170,000, postal inspectors announced today after a hasty checkup.

Investigation disclosed that at least that sum in bonds, currency and negotiable securities was obtained in the daring robbery, the inspectors said.

The mail bags, waiting to be put aboard a train for Chicago, were taken from George Lonquist, transfer clerk in the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific station.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Two daring bandits who invaded the Southern Pacific Railroad station and took a registered mail sack from two armed guards were sought today by Federal Postoffice inspectors, working together with police and deputy sheriffs.

Original Christmas Seals Counterfeited

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Counterfeiters have turned their attention to charity stamps. The National Tuberculosis Association warned stamp collectors today that a bogus 1907 Christmas seal has been discovered. The 1907 issue is valued by philatelists, the announcement said, because it was the first sold in the United States.

TILTONVILLE, O., Jan. 4.—Blinded and maimed by a mine explosion 37 years ago, Alex Zlotorvinski, 78, is dead of a heart attack. He was fatally stricken yesterday.

'DOYLE' MURDER BALKS YARD

LONDON, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—A murder mystery with a distinct Conan Doyle touch baffled Scotland Yard detectives today as they sought to unravel the slaying of Dr. Angelos Zemenides, court interpreter and teacher of the Cyprian language.

Dr. Zemenides, well-known in political and intellectual circles, was shot to death in his rooming house at Hampstead on the outskirts of London.

The only clue to his murderer was the testimony of nearby residents, who said they saw "a dark man of foreign appearance" run from the house a short while after the fatal shot was fired.

Theory that there may have been a political motive behind the shooting was strengthened by the revelation Dr. Zemenides was recently attacked in a continental newspaper as a "tool of the British government" in Cyprian difficulties.

GIRL, MAN FALL 400 FEET, LIVE

NORTH CONWAY, N. H., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—A 400-foot fall down a boulder-studded shoulder of Huntington ravine on Mt. Washington nearly ended fatally for the daughter of a Harvard professor and a Yale graduate student, who today were recovering from serious injuries in Conway Hospital.

Miss Jessie Whitehead, daughter of Prof. Alfred Whitehead, and Walter K. Sturges, a Harvard graduate and a student at the Yale Graduate School, were brought down the mountainside last night on stretchers made of poles, clothing and odd bits of rope.

They fell down a sheer, snow-capped shoulder of the ravine late yesterday. Miss Whitehead was rendered unconscious by the fall. Sturges staggered a quarter-mile down the trail for help before collapsing.

The couple were climbing Mt. Washington's most dangerous trail when they lost their footing. Other climbers estimated they fell vertically 300 feet, then bumped over another 100-foot slope, which was studded with ice-sheeted boulders. They were caught finally in a thick growth of bushes, where 14 other climbers rescued them.

Chicago Group Buys Potter Palmer Home

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The Potter Palmer residence in Lake Shore drive, known as "The Castle," has changed hands again.

It was sold yesterday at an unannounced price to a small syndicate of Chicagoans, who purchased it for speculative purposes from Vincent Bendix, wealthy head of an aviation company, who bought the world-known residence in 1918 from Potter Palmer, Jr., for $3,000,000.

AWAIT FINDING OF LEAP VICTIM

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 4.—George B. Lashley, railroad man, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. T. B. Smith, of Zanesville, O., today are awaiting word of the finding of the body of Mrs. Irene Lashley, 37, who was reported as having leaped from the Liberty Bridge, Pittsburgh, Monday night. Lashley said:

"I did not go to work Monday night, expecting to spend the evening at home with Irene. I expected her return at any time and was looking forward to an enjoyable evening with the family."

A woman's purse, found near the bridge railing by a man who witnessed the leap, was turned over to county police. It contained photographs of her two children and notes to her husband, and a woman in Columbus, which told of her suicidal intentions.

Youth Dies, Liquor Sale Suspect Held

BEAVER, Pa., Jan. 4.—Karl Munsell, 38, proprietor of a bath house, was committed to jail in default of bond by Justice of the Peace David Stewart, on charges of possessing liquor and furnishing it to George Menges, 20, who died in a hospital. An autopsy revealed traces of wood alcohol in Menges' stomach.

Girl Asks New Trial In $10,000 Balm Suit

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Jan. 4.—Miss Ann Ruth Lemley, 19, Gilmore Township girl who refused to give the details of the courtship of Mark Barnes when her $10,000 breach of promise suit was heard, wants a new trial. A motion for a new trial was made on the contention that the court erred in granting a nonsuit.

'TRIANGLE' SEEN IN MURDER OF BANDMASTER

Love Affair of Widow Linked by Police in 'Ride' Mystery

By WEST PETERSON
International News Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 4. — Your husband was killed becaus some other man was in lo with you!

This statement of Poli Capt. John Stege to a pret 24-year-old widow today gave a sensational turn to the probe of the execution of Edwin O. Schildhauer.

Search was pushed for Paul Walton, described as a "close friend of the family." Another "friend," Carl Bradberry, former deputy sheriff, was detained for further questioning.

Bradberry's automobile was located by police today, and dark red stains were found on the front seat. An analysis of the stains was ordered. After Schildhauer was murdered, Bradberry's card was found in his pocket.

EVADES QUESTIONS

The widow, Mrs. Frances Schildhauer, meanwhile aggravated detectives by what police termed evasions and contradictions, and by her fainting spells at critical stages in the inquiry.

In what was one of the most baffling mysteries of the tag end of the old year, Schildhauer, stalwart and handsome high school bandmaster, was slain in typical gangland style just 25 days ago. His bullet-riddled body was found in a desolate section of Cicero a short time after he was kidnaped from in front of his home.

Schildhauer was insured for $38,000, including sums payable under double indemnity clauses. The policies made Mrs. Schildhauer the beneficiary.

When Capt. Stege voiced his belief that it was a "love slaying," Mrs. Schildhauer tearfully denied there were any other men in her life. However, intimates declared that Walton, a former lawyer, paid marked attention to her. Questioned about this, the widow fainted.

GIRL SOUGHT

In addition to Walton, police sought Charlotte Holland, girl friend of Bradberry. It was said that Miss Holland and Bradberry went on "double dates" with the Schildhauers when Mrs. Bradberry was out of the city.

To police, one of the unsatisfactory explanations of Bradberry during questioning concerned his disposition of a revolver following his resignation as a deputy sheriff in November. He said he had given it to another deputy, but borrowed it back about a week later.

There were discrepancies in Bradberry's account of his whereabouts the night of December 10, when Schildhauer was slain.

GERMAN TELLS OF SINKING TUSCANIA

huge seagoing caravan, headed by a medium-sized vessel, followed by a larger white vessel with two smokestacks, a large cruiser with four smokestacks and from six to eight smaller vessels.

The whole caravan was flanked with what looked to us like myriads of destroyers.

At 7 p. m. I resolved to attack.

STEERS NORTHEAST

I steered northeast. Dusk made visibility poor. There was constant danger we might underestimate the speed of the transports and be run down in their wake.

I had decided to attack without submerging. Suddenly, however, the destroyers pulled up all along the line, so that the leading destroyer was abreast of the leading transport. I thought we had been detected. We might easily have been seen because we were directly ahead of an advancing triple line consisting of a destroyer, a transport and another destroyer.

When there was no further sign that we have been detected I decided to submerge. The U-77 went under at 7:25 p. m.

By this time darkness had fallen, and sighting through the periscope of the U-77 was almost impossible.

I had taken a good look at the largest transport before submerging but once we were beneath the water, I could not find it through the periscope.

My hands trembled as I moved the sightinging apparatus, because I knew that if I stayed much longer where we were, the submarine would be rammed and sunk.

GHOSTLY SHADOW

Suddenly a vague ghostly shadow crept across the sighting mirror. Then atop this shadow appeared the outlines of a smokestack.

I recognized this shadow as the largest transport.

I immediately ordered two torpedoes fired. It was than 7:40 p. m.

The crew and I listened in suspense for many minutes. Then a terrific detonation told us that we had hit our target.

Judging from the time the torpedoes were under way before they struck, we were 4,000 feet away from our prey. We waited breathlessly for the shock of depth bombs which destroyers customarily dropped against submarines after their presence was noted, but we felt nothing. Probably it was because we were too far away.

At 7:57 p. m., we returned to the surface. We saw the stricken Tuscania listing heavily to starboard.

(Editor's note: The remainder of Capt. Meyer's graphic story will appear tomorrow.)

Tuscania Carired Many American Troops

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—The British Anchor liner Tuscania, sent to the bottom by a German submarine on February 5, 1918, was the first liner carrying American troops into the war to be sunk by a U-boat.

The ship, a luxury liner of 14,000 tons, left secretly late in January, 1918, carrying a total complement of 2,179 officers and men as well as a general cargo of merchandise. The troops were listed as passengers, and included detachments from Wisconsin, Michigan, Texas and other parts of the country.

The sinking of the Tuscania aroused a storm of protest in this country. Particular indignation was expressed because of the fact spies were at the time held responsible for divulging the Tuscania's departure and location at sea.

'BUY AMERICAN' POSTER

SOCIETY GIRLS AID 'BUY U. S.'

Two Pittsburgh society girls, Mary and Katherine Kuhn, have embarked in business.

Stimulated by the "Buy American" campaign, they have designed a card for American businessmen, merchant, hotelkeeper, banker, farmer and industrialist, to slip into the envelope with his regular correspondence. The midget poster has on it in red and blue enough words to remind their friends and customers that "Buy American" and "Spend American" are two valuable ideas for Americans.

The girls, who reside with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Kuhn, Parkman avenue, have hired office space in the Oliver Building. They have sent out letters advocating their midget poster. With the copyright applied for, they hope to encourage businessmen and others to obtain prints of the poster, only $1 a year being charged. The sisters will either furnish the cards for an additional sum or permit the companies to have them printed.

Plan for Reopening Of Braddock Mills

The Braddock mills of the Carnegie Steel Company, subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, may reopen within a few weeks, but officials of the organization have not reached a definite decision, it was said at the offices of the company today.

The date for resuming operations and the number of men to be called back to work will depend on the booking of some rail orders now under negotiation.

W. H. HAWS DIES IN JOHNSTOWN

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Jan. 4.—William Hamilton Haws, 79, widely known as "Bert," whose research work in brick manufacturing brought him patents worth millions which he passed along to the trade, is dead today, the result of injuries suffered when struck by an automobile.

A few weeks ago he was granted a patent on an improved "hottip," a brick and steel covering for ingot blooms that were to be manufactured on a large scale.

Born in Bradys Bend, his father, Andrew Jackson Haws, brought him here 75 years ago. The family founded the Haws Refractories and for more than half a century supplied the steel industry with firebrick.

WASH OUT YOUR K-I-D-N-E-Y-S— SLEEP FINE

No More Getting Up Nights

So you feel achy all over, miserable and blue? Your head feels "crowded" your nerves quiver, you have pin-and-needle cramps—your appetite has gone and you feel weak as a cat. Don't fill your stomach with tonics or laxatives or rheumatism remedies. How can they help if it is your kidneys.

The job of the kidneys is to strain the uric acid and other poisons out of your blood. They purify your blood, that's all. Now you must not let these acids stay in the kidneys or they'll get back in the blood and poison your whole body. That's why your kidneys must pass 3 pints of "water" a day. Let them stall and you know it. Your appetite goes back on you, so does your pep, your sleep, and your nerves—your back hurts, your ankles and feet may swell up and you feel cranky and sick.

Now see what a wonderful change takes place after you start on Foley Pills. Kidney action increases at once. Out go those acidity. Burning stops. Sleep is sounder, and none of them getting up business. You feel like "somebody."

Your druggist has Foley Pills. Sells a lot of them, because most people know how good they are. Don't cost much, either—but they certainly do a grand job. If they don't, your money back any time you want it. © 1932

FLOUR HEIRESS TO WED CLERK

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 4.—(INS.)—A quiet unassuming clerk in the reference division of the Yale Library will wed one of America's wealthiest heiresses, it became known today with the announcement of the engagement of Charles B. Hogan, of Yale, to Carolyn Christian Crosby, of Minneapolis.

Miss Crosby is the daughter of Franklin Muzzy Crosby, head of the Washburn-Crosby Flour Mills, the General Mills Corporation and director in scores of industrial and traction firms. He is regarded as one of the wealthiest men in the Mid-West.

Ferguson Indorses General Sales Tax

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Ex-Gov. James E. Ferguson, husband of Gov.-elect Miriam A. Ferguson, had expressed approval of a general sales tax today.

In addressing a farmers' meeting, Ferguson also proposed abolition of interest charges, the nonissuance of tax exempt securities and inflation of the currency.

Same Thug Robs Grocer Twice In 10 Days

As he was making change for a $20 bill, the man poked a revolver into his ribs and stole $247. Then Friefield said:

The robber replied:

"Yes, and I'm coming back again."

Mine Death Convicts Free Pending Appeal

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Nine defendants, convicted of manslaughter in connection with the Arnold City mine riot in June, 1931, and sentenced or placed on parole, are free under bond today pending an appeal.

Judge D. W. Henderson imposed a term of from 2½ to 7 years in Western Penitentiary on John B. Yoder, coal and iron policeman, yesterday, and paroled the remaining eight for three years.

3 GIVEN TERMS FOR ARSON

A woman and two men, of Brackenridge, began serving terms of two and one-half to five years in the workhouse today after being sentenced by Judge Frank P. Patterson on pleas of guilty to arson. The arrests were made by Fire Marshall Thomas L. Pfarr.

Mrs. Helen M. While admitted she had paid W. E. Chahoc and Floyd H. Spence each $100 to fire her house, which she had insured for $5,000. The case against Mrs. While's husband, Joseph, was dropped, and a parole was granted his brother, George While.

Two Suspects Held In Pantages Plot

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—A plot to extort $50,000 from Alexander Pantages, multi-millionaire theatrical producer, had resulted today in the arrest of Ernest Blanchard, 38, unemployed Oakland truck driver, and Moxley Stark, 25, an ex-marine.

They were trapped, detectives asserted, as they schemed to force their way into the Pantages mansion, subdue servants and occupants by armed force, compel Pantages to sign a $50,000 check and make him telephone his bank to honor it.

CADILLAC

*presents a new V-8 * V-12 * and La Salle*

AT DECIDED REDUCTIONS IN PRICE

Re-styled completely in a mode quite obviously their own . . . endowed with performance more brilliant and alluring from every standpoint . . . and enriched throughout in those fundamental qualities which set Cadillac-built cars apart from all others in the world—a new Cadillac V-8, a new Cadillac V-12 and a dashing new La Salle now make their bow to the American public. ☆ ☆ ☆ And they come not only as the finest cars that Cadillac has ever built, but as by far the greatest values—for every model in all three lines is offered at prices decidedly reduced. ☆ ☆ ☆ At no time in its history has Cadillac made a more significant step toward its goal of perfection than in these three distinguished cars. In everything that they are and do, they represent definite advancement over their distinguished predecessors. ☆ ☆ ☆ They are infinitely more beautiful—not only in the sweep of their lines, but in the contour of radiator, fenders and mouldings. And their beauty is individual, lending a distinction apart from all other cars on the highway—as you would expect of a Cadillac or La Salle. ☆ ☆ ☆ Every performance factor is decisively improved and refined. The engines are more alert and dynamic—not only in speed, but in response to the throttle as well. The overall quietness is even more pronounced, actually approaching complete silence of operation. Comfort is the nearest approach to the ideal the motor car has ever known. And there is a quick, certain and unlabored response to brakes and steering wheel that removes from driving the last vestige of effort. ☆ ☆ ☆ And Cadillac is especially proud to provide, alone of all the cars in its price field, that vital health and comfort feature—Fisher No-Draft Ventilation, individually-controlled. It may be said definitely that, without this feature, no car can give you the satisfaction you now have a right to expect in a fine automobile. ☆ ☆ ☆ These three unusual cars are now on display at Cadillac-La Salle showrooms everywhere, and Cadillac joins with its dealers in extending a most cordial invitation to see and inspect them at any time.

As previously announced, the 1933 production of the Cadillac V-16 will be limited to four hundred cars, custom built to individual order—each car to be serially numbered and inscribed with the owner's name. The coachwork will be designed and executed by Fleetwood and will be mounted on an improved 16-cylinder chassis of even greater performance and mechanical excellence. For those who seek the acme in personalized transportation, the Cadillac V-16 comprises its highest interpretation.

SEES DECREASE IN LIQUOR USE

Liquor consumption has decreased 70 per cent, Cameron Ralston, national field director of the National Reform Association, said at an institute meeting in the Community House, 801 Union avenue, North Side, yesterday. He disputed the belief that prohibition is the cause of crime.

Ralston also spoke at a meeting of young people's groups at the Seventh United Presbyterian Church last night, which was followed by a general discussion of the liquor problem. A debate on the Eighteenth Amendment will be held Friday night in North Side Carnegie Hall, with Ralston taking the affirmative and Attorney John M. Henry the negative.

Holy Rosary Players To Give 3-Act Play

The Holy Rosary Players will give a three-act play tonight at the Holy Rosary Hall, 7114 Kelly street. After the performance a dance will be held in the hall.

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

DOAK TO PROBE 'PRINCE MIKE'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Secretary of Labor Doak today instructed his special assistant, Murray W. Garsson, to make an investigation to determine, if possible, the birthplace of Harry Gerguson, alias "Prince" Michael Romanoff, held at Ellis Island, N. Y., on a charge of being illegally in the country.

Gerguson has been deported several times, but has managed to slip back into the country. He claims he was born in New York City and also claims he could furnish witnesses to prove that fact.

Doak said there had been so many conflicting reports concerning Gerguson's birthplace that he felt an official investigation should be made.

CK PICKFORD BURIAL IN U. S.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—The body of Jack Pickford, film actor, who died yesterday in Paris, will be returned to Hollywood.

His sister, Mary Pickford, last night cabled representatives in Paris to bring his body to the United States as soon as legal formalities can be completed.

Interment, Miss Pickford said, would be in a crypt in a mausoleum in Forest Lawn Memorial Park beside the crypt of their mother, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford.

'Count' Arrested As Counterfeiter

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—A man described as "Count" Enrique von Buelow, otherwise known as plain Hans Dechow, was held incommunicado today in connection with a large scale counterfeiting ring which operated in half a dozen countries.

Dechow was seized last night by secret service agents as he arrived in a plane from Montreal.

Watches Ships 37 Years; Never On One

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—James Gould, a telegraph operator in the lookout tower at Quarantine, has spent 37 years watching the ships come in from Europe but has never been aboard one in his life.

Gould's job is to flash the news of a ship's arrival as soon as she comes in sight, so the people on shore can get ready.

Plans to Kill Self, Does It Year Later

CAMBRIDGE, O., Jan. 4.—J. C. Steele, 65, veteran teacher, committed suicide here a year after he had first planned to take his life. On January 7, 1932, Steele handed a note to a publisher, giving details of the proposed suicide. Friends obtained his rifle. Steele finally shot himself with a revolver.

New Year Baby Prize Waits Tardy Stork

PITTSBURG, Kan., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The New Year is three days old and thus far the stork has made no efforts to co-operate with merchants who have gifts ready for the first child born in the city in 1933. A claimant was believed to have arrived last night when Mr. and Mrs. James Manion announced the birth of a son, but a check showed that the family lived just outside the city limits.

With Flu Around All Colds Now More Dangerous

Colds Lower Body Resistance and Often Pave the Way for Flu and Its Serious Complications.

EXTRA PRECAUTIONS URGED

With flu increasing in many sections of the country, health authorities urge everyone to take extra precautions against colds just now.

The safest course to follow is that outlined in Vicks Plan for better Control-of-Colds. Briefly, it is this:

To Prevent Many Colds.

At that first feeling of stuffiness or nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze—Nature's usual warning that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose and Throat Drops, the new aid in preventing colds. Vicks Drops aid Nature in throwing off the infection that threatens. They prevent development of many colds.

To End a Cold Sooner.

If a cold has developed or strikes without warning, vigorous measures are necessary. At bedtime, massage throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub. It acts two ways at once to bring relief: By Stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster; and by Inhalation of its medicated vapors direct to irritated air-passages. During the day—for added comfort and relief—use the convenient Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed.

Plan Tested and Proved.

In clinical tests among thousands, last winter, Vicks Colds-Control Plan reduced the number and duration of colds by half—cut the costs and dangers of colds more than half. How you can follow the Plan in your home is fully explained in each Vicks package.

CIPHER BRINGS CALLS FOR AID

By KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor

Having trouble? Thought you would. Cipher No. 35 is tough. The mail man brought several letters this morning and all contained the same thing, which was:

"We want help."

Alfred D. Reid, who submitted this cipher, says:

"I believe this should give your fans a couple of good headaches before they arrive at the solution."

The key, of course, is to be found on the dial of every dial phone. The dial contains every letter of the alphabet except "Q" and "Z." Therefore as there are no letters on the figure one we will leave that to take care of the letter "Q," while "Z" will take the place of "operator."

Woman's Death Leap Foiled by Guard

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Miss Catherine O'Brien, 54, probably owes her life to the prompt action of a Fairmount Park guard.

She was rescued from a small branch of the Wissahickon Creek into which police said she had jumped last night. Park Guard Vaughan plunged into the water, fully clothed, and brought her ashore.

Boy Slayer Grins As He Gets Life

MUSKEGON, Mich., Jan. 4.—(INS.)—James Regis Martin, 16-year-old Iowa City (Ia.) high school boy, was sentenced today to life imprisonment for first degree murder.

The boy grinned at the sentence. He admitted the slaying of Hans Neilsen, a filling station operator, in an attempted holdup November 4.

"To produce this 50 net tons of tin plate it takes approximately 56 gross tons of sheet bar, which means work for the men in the soaking pits, blooming mill and bar mill; also about 66 gross tons of ingots, which creates work in the open hearth, and to produce these ingots it requires 42 gross tons of pig iron and 42 net tons of coke—this being labor in the blast furnace department as well as at the coke plant.

AGRICULTURE INVOLVED

"There is also required 85 gross tons of iron ore, 27 gross tons of limestone, 30 gross tons of scrap, 160 net tons of coal, 2½ net tons of sulphuric acid, 2,500 feet of lumber, $1 worth of cotton cloth in discs, which are used for the cleaning of the tin plate, and 66 gallons of lubricating oil. The last two items mentioned, of course, are of great benefit to the cotton growers and textile mills, while the oil is no small item when it comes to the question of benefit to the refiners and owners of the wells which produce the oil. Another item of great importance to make this carload of tin plate is the use of 1,000 pounds of low grade flour, middlings or the equivalent, which is produced from approximately 17 bushels of wheat. It is understood that a good average in the United States for the farmer's production of wheat is about 24 bushel to the acre, therefore, it will be seen that about ¾ of an acre of wheat is necessary to produce the cleaning material used in the manufacture of this single carload of tin plate.

"There are a great many other materials and supplies used in the production of this 50 net tons of tin plate. The estimate of the total amount of material to make 50 tons of tin plate is 350 tons, which total tonnage would make a fair size railroad train. This is equivalent to 20 carloads of material.

RAILROAD FACTOR

Twenty carloads of material or one train, is of very great importance to the railroad men required to transport these materials. Likewise, the labor necessary at other points should be considered—such as the transportation by water of iron ore and the labor necessary in the mining of the iron ore, limestone and coal, not forgetting the lumberman and his mills in the forests and, as stated before, the farmer who is responsible for the wheat and the cotton grown in the south, as well as the others who are obtaining employment and benefit from the miscellaneous materials and supplies not mentioned.

"It is therefore most important that very careful consideration be given to the benefits which we derive from the production of materials in our own country, bearing in mind that products of the United States sold in this county keep both the material and the money here, while imports from foreign manufacturers only give the United States the material and the people of other countries the money."

W. E. Armstrong, president, Allegheny County Association of Township Commissioners, said:

"Owing to the financial sacrifice involved in some instances, the success of the 'Buy American' movement at this time would definitely indicate that we are not only the greatest preachers of patriotism in the world, but in our lucid moments occasionally practice it."

COUNCILMEN SPEAK

President of Council John S Herron:

Councilman P. J. McArdle:

"I've been following the Buy American plan and the need for it is greatly stressed at this particular time. I can see no need for closing our gates to immigrants to save American labor from their competition and at the same time spend our money employing the same labor in foreign countries while millions of our own are idle.

"America can hardly be expected to prosper by sending its capital to be invested in foreign manufacturers while American citizens supplying their own needs from the products of foreign labor, at a time when capital invested at home is idle and the labor needful to production is also idle and, as a consequence, non-consuming."

Councilman Harry A. Little:

"I favor the Buy American plan and will do everything in my power to make it successful. Most people, in my opinion, recognize the fact American labor will benefit by such a movement."

Councilman William J. Soost:

"Any American citizen ought to buy American goods in order to give employment to American labor."

KOPPEL, Pa., Jan. 4.—The Beaver County committee of the American Legion at its meeting here indorsed the movement to "Buy American." Resolutions were unanimously adopted urging all Americans to "Buy American" to support American industries and help workers to recover their jobs.

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Jan. 4.—The Beaver Falls City Council has indorsed the "Buy American" movement, which is meeting with widespread favor in the Beaver Valley.

Tin Plate Trade Shows Need of Higher Tariffs

Business leaders continue to rally in support of the proposal of William Randolph Hearst to increase tariffs to a point which will offset depreciation in foreign currencies and protect American industry and workers.

E. R. Crawford, chairman and president of the McKeesport Tin Plate Company, declared:

"Imports of tin plate have not reached large proportions up to the present time except on the Atlantic Coast, but they are becoming a greater menace every day.

"The depreciation in British currency has made it possible for them to deliver tin plate in this country at less than our production cost since they are paying their labor in money which no longer has its former value. The depreciation in currency, amounting to about 30 per cent, has wiped out the protection in the existing tariff.

"Unless our import duties are increased sufficiently to balance the low prices being quoted by British producers of tin plate, prices must be reduced by American producers and business will be lost to mills in America. This will have an inevitably adverse effect on American wages and the amount of work which can be given to American workers."

"The slogan 'Buy American,' if followed by everyone, would help to correct the situation, but we need the additional concrete protection of higher tariffs.

"Unless this protection is given to the steel industry, production will decline and American workers will suffer."

Resolve For 1933 to buy only good things from reliable stores whose trustworthiness is above doubt, and be assured an honest return for your money in every purchase. The January Sales at Horne's provide this assurance in an unusual measure.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter Of the Sun-Telegraph-Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Friends.

Every day a toy donkey that was placed under Billy Immel's Christmas tree disappeared and a little red elephant appeared there in its place. His mother, mystified by this seeming magic, questioned her young son, who admitted:

"I took it away, mother. We are Republicans and we don't want a donkey under our tree."

* * *

James Byrnes, of Campbell street, Wilkinsburg, says that a horse standing on a hill and holding a wagon does not work, because work is force through distance and the horse is not moving. Well on the other hand, you wouldn't call it play, would you? Thanks, Jim.

* * *

We managed to cause trouble some place by that announcement New Years Eve about holding a dollar in your hand at the stroke of midnight to encourage prosperity for 1933. Carol Dickson, of Mount Lebanon, and three girl friends, after explainin- the idea, requested a dollar from each of their escorts. After the ritual was completed they made sure of prosperity by pocketing the dollar, to the apparent consternation of the males in the party. That accounts, perhaps, for that strange telephone call advising me if I have any more good ideas will I please keep them to myself.

* * *

A couple of birds that are always listening in are the two canaries of L. J. Greenawald, of Walter street, South Hills. Owner reports that they never sing unless the Globe-Trotter is broadcasting. If they were cuckoos, this never would have been printed.

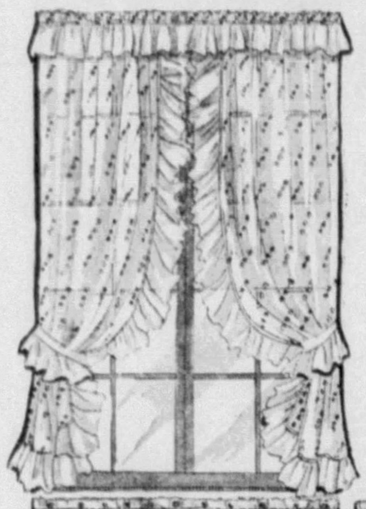
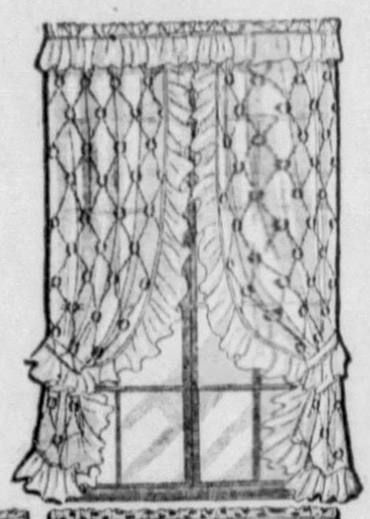
Sale—Fine Ruffled Curtains

Made to Sell at $3.75 and $4.00

$1.65 Pair





We cannot recall ever being in position to offer such high grade Ruffled Curtains at such a low price. Unusual patterns and color combinations only found in the higher grade materials. Six months ago they could not be bought to sell under $3.75 pair. But the maker anticipated a demand that did not materialize. We took them off his hands at a mere fraction of their original prices. See them tomorrow. You'll be every bit as enthusiastic as we are!

'AMERICAN WEEKLY' ON AIR

Crosby Back; Downey Stars With Novis

Tonight is "First Night" on the air for six new or revised features.

Opening the new series of American Weekly presentations offered over a large group of stations throughout the country by 17 Hearst newspapers including the Sun-Telegraph, "It Might Be You," an article revealing the tactics of unknown tax collectors who rob the public pocketbook, is dramatized on WCAE at 6 p. m. The American Weekly broadcasts will be presented twice weekly on WCAE—Wednesdays at 6 and Saturdays at 7. They also will be carried by WFBG, Altoona, Thursdays at 3 and by WALR, Zanesville, O., Fridays at 5. The musical portions of the programs are provided by a symphonic dance orchestra under the direction of Gustave Haenschen.

Mr. Murray.

Ken Murray, whose original type of comedy has brought him rapid fame on the stage, heads the new Royal Vagabonds show featuring a large cast of singers and players supported by an orchestra which comes to an NBC-WEAF network including WCAE tonight at 8 o'clock.

That popular young romantic singer, Bing Crosby, returns to radio after a long microphone vacation spent on movie lots and in vaudeville, on WJAS at 9 p. m.

KDKA at 10 offers the inauguration of David Wark Griffith's new series of programs picturing Hollywood as he knows it in a fast-moving series of dramatic episodes.

Morton Downey and Donald Novis, two of radio's most popular tenors, are co-starred on the same program for the first time when their new Wednesday broadcasts, recently announced in this column, have their premiere on KDKA at 9:30 tonight.

Rejoined by Frank Luther, the "cowboy" tenor, Carson Robison and his Buckaroos inaugurate a new broadcasting schedule on KDKA at 7:15 tonight.

The Lombardo-Burns and Allen show shifts from 9 to 9:30 on WJAS.

Program Pointers

Alice Duer Miller, noted novelist and playwright, appears as guest speaker during a dramatization of her story, "Mother Announcing," on KDKA at 7:30. The play, one of this week's Five Star Theater offerings, has a lovable old mother who has unselfishly and quietly devoted herself to making her family happy as its central character . . . The concluding installment of "Ear Witness," the initial NBC-WJZ Crime Club offering, with Edward Reese and Georgia Backus playing the leading roles, is listed on KDKA at 8.

Miss Backus

Issay Dobrowen, who has been guest conductor for the Philadelphia, the New York Philharmonic and the San Francisco symphonies, wields the baton for the NBC Symphony concert on WCAE at 9 o'clock.

"The Monkey's Paw," weird mystery play concerning an aged couple's belief in the power of a little monkey's paw to grant their wishes, is the Miniature Theater offering on WCAE at 10:30.

Nino Martini's interpretations of "Piacer' d'Amore," by his "Overtones" and "Princesita," by Serrano, are WJAS-at-11 highlights.

Mabel Fiscus, soprano and local Atwater Kent audition winner of a few years ago, presents a quarter-hour recital from the studios of WWSW at 5:45 today.

A real old-fashioned amateur night, complete with a hook and an audience to cheer or boo, has been arranged as a feature of the Corn Cob Pipe Club broadcast at 10 on WCAE.

The life stories of the Grimm brothers, whose fairly tales have delighted children for the last century, are dramatized during the "Sheer Romance" presentation over an NBC network from the studios of KDKA at 6:30.

Listening In—

Lucrezia Bori Booked; Amos 'n' Andy Tragedy; Julia and Frank Moving.

Frances Langford, the Florida songster discovered by Rudy Vallee, is being featured with Jesse Crawford in the latter's new Sunday night organ recitals . . . Lucrezia Bori is to sing on next Sunday's "Circle" program . . . Dean Fossler, long an Amos 'n' Andy fan, thought he'd be in a seventh heaven when he became their organist because he could see them in action . . . And now he doesn't even hear them—the console is a half mile away from the studio and Fossler's cues are flashing lights.

Miss Langford

Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit apparently are done with Dunrovin', the house they built near Springfield, Mass., when they retired from the stage. Frank has decided it's too far from his favorite golf course and so work will start this month on a new home just across the road from the eighteenth hole.

* * *

"I can spell New York."

"How do you spell it?"

"WJZ—New York."

* * *

* * *

Frank Crumit has written a new Abdul song, "Minnie Skavinsky Skavar," which recounts a meeting between Minnie and Mabel Abulbul Amir. You'll hear it this month.

Everyone in Pittsburgh and Sewickley's who's who was at the holiday ball in the William Penn's Chatterbox last night, the grandest climax a social season could aspire to, and a benefit so successful as to be referred to in glowing terms for a long time to come. The Allegheny General Hospital will receive the financial returns of the evening.

In spite of a week of balls, everyone looked fresh and gay and ever so smart with the dancers so interestingly attired that they often outshone the costumes worn by a group of the younger set and young matrons in the fashion show.

In the fashion show quite the most fetching costume was the orange chiffon, all be-ruffled, modeled by smart Nancy Byers. It had a cape scarf of ruffled yellow chiffon.

And Evelyn Evans was fetching—didn't you think, in her beach pajama costume of block-printed dull red and brown heavy silk with a huge floppy hat to match and a huge bag to match, and trick sandals, also matching?

Beach Pajamas

And Katherine Collin was intriguing in a gray jersey suit for southern wear, having a perky blouse of gay red printed with blue and white circles and a saucy fabric hat to match the blouse.

Since the fashion parade was set for 11 o'clock, most folks arrived before the hour, and spent the interim in dancing, chatting in the corridors and tripping to the popular oyster bar.

Next to blue, red was the favored shade for evening frocks, too. Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife looked ever so distinguished in bright red crepe and a white ermine coat. Clodagh McCune chose black tulle and crepe with puffed tulle brief sleeves.

Gowned In Red

Katherine Collin had on one of the best-looking evening wraps I've seen in ages. It was of American beauty red velvet having a cape decorated with groups of intricate shirring. And her gown was red crepe.

Wear Satin

Mrs. David Meade Gilmore chose candy-pink satin; Mrs. Alex Hunter, blue satin having a high draped neck-line in front; Mrs. B. F. Jones III, in chartreuse green pebble crepe having a cape edged with kolinsky; Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson, emerald green crepe with a cape of the same material; Mrs. Ledlie W. Young in bright pink satin; Mary Franklin Robinson in blue crepe.

Just before the fashion show Betty McKay arrived with Mrs. James McKay and Mrs. Leonard S. Mudge. Betty was in bright blue rough crepe, Mrs. McKay in holly berry red crepe, and Mrs. Mudge in white satin.

Visitor At Ball

A lei of black ostrich feathers with more black ostrich at the hip-line distinguished Laura Evans' black crepe gown. Evelyn Evans, Laura's sister, looked charming in pink satin; Adele Lippincott was in ice-green satin; Gretchen Bickford in heavy white lace; Mrs. T. J. Hilliard in deep, deep red velvet with a cape bordered in kolinsky; Mrs. Gordon Fisher, Jr., in black crepe; Mrs. T. Howe Nimick in beige pink satin; Susan O'Neil in white crepe having silver sequins on the bodice; Mrs. Blair Childs in white crepe.

Among late arrivals were La Salle Dorrance in red crepe and satin, who came with Mrs. W. L. Mellon, Jr., in white crepe; Mrs. John W. Lawrence in red crepe; Mrs. Willis McCook Reed in moonstone blue crepe; Louise Reed in pink satin and an ermine wrap; Helen Tunnell in bright robin's egg blue crepe with a cape of transparent white beads tying in the back.

The Jenkins sisters were there, Elizabeth in red velvet with brilliants, and Clara Dorothea in black crepe with a brief train, and the Rust sisters, with Alice in a gown having a skirt of red satin and a bodice of white, and Mary Lee in pale blue satin.

Sisters Attend

Louise Baton was in pink rough crepe and a candy-pink velvet coat, Ruth Willock in black crepe having orange velvet, shading to yellow, crossing the bodice to give a wide-shouldered effect, and tying in the back.

And, oh, there were ever so many more there—Mrs. W. C. Robinson, Mrs. Robert Milligan, Mrs. Maitland Alexander and Mrs. C. I. Shannon, long associated with the work of the Allegheny General Hospital; Rebecca Doyle in hunting-green crepe, Mrs. F. I. Merrick, Caroline Mitchell, Mrs. Gordon King, Mrs. George H. Love, Virginia Doyle in brown crepe having brief-flared sleeves faced in light green; Althea Robinson in black velvet.

MISS GEORGIANNA COLLIN

'Buy American' Plan Backed by Club Women

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—(Universal.)—By a unanimous vote the San Francisco City and County Federation of Women's Clubs, at a board meeting adopted a resolution indorsing the "Buy American" movement as advocated by the Hearst newspapers.

The resolution urged members to buy, wherever possible, only American-made goods, for the revival of American industry and the relief of American unemployment.

It was offered by Mrs. A. W. Stokes, first vice president of the San Francisco Federation district.

Said A. D. McDonald, president of the Southern Pacific:

"Mr. Hearst has struck a happy note in a time when encouragement means much. His suggestion is practical and helping carrying it out will be good for all of us."

Sir Frederick, Lady Whyte to Be Guests

I have just heard that the John W. Lawrences are to entertain at dinner tomorrow night at their home, "Hartwood," in honor of Sir Frederick and Lady Whyte, who are arriving in Pittsburgh that evening.

Sir Frederick is coming to Pittsburgh, you know, to lecture before the Friday Morning Club, and after his lecture he and Lady Whyte will be guests of honor at a luncheon in the Twentieth Century Club. This will be given by the Allegheny County League of Women Voters, with Mrs. George S. Oliver acting as hostess.

Miss Elizabeth Pollinger Becomes Bride of Laurence Welsh

Miss Elizabeth Pollinger, daughter of Mrs. Mary Pollinger, of Thorn street, Sewickley, became the bride of Laurence Edwin Welsh, of Oil City, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Welsh, of Coraopolis, on Monday morning at 9 o'clock in St. James' Church, Sewickley. Officiating was the Rev. William Curtin.

The bride wore a gown of ivory pebble satin with the high neckline banded with Kolinsky, and a turban of white satin. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses and baby's breath. Miss Mary Louise Welsh, sister of the bridegroom, was the bride's only attendant, and wore silver gray chiffon with a small turban of shirred wisteria chiffon, and carried orchid sweet peas. John Pollinger, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Only members of the families and a few friends attended the reception and wedding breakfast, after which Mr. and Mrs. Welsh left for a motor trip. They will be at home in Oil City.

Mr. Welsh attended Notre Dame University and served in the Aviation Corps of the United States Army at Brooks Field, Tex.

Dorothy Hugo Has Church Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Leo J. Hugo, of Gass avenue, North Side, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Hugo, to James S. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Thompson, also of the North Side, which was solemnized at 6:30 o'clock Saturday evening in the Shadeland Avenue Christian Church, with the Rev. J. A. Garshaw officiating.

The bride wore a gown of brown transparent velvet with a matching turban and carried yellow rosebuds. Her sister, Mrs. Viola Thompson, was matron of honor, and wore hyacinth blue crepe with a gray hat. Her corsage was autergio rosebuds. William Thompson was his brother's best man.

The wedding dinner was held in the Hugo home. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside in Bellevue.

Sarah Haddock Engaged To G. Pearson Rhodes, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. William S. Haddock, of Dormont, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Sarah Haddock, to G. Pearson Rhodes, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Rhodes, of Wilkins avenue.

Gossipy Chat With Nancy Jane

To open a "soup kitchen" in one of the public schools is the Birmingham School Alumnae's New Years resolution, made at the holiday luncheon a few days ago.

But the "soup kitchen" won't serve soup. Hot cereal and milk will be its menu, instead, for undernourished children.

Yellow chrysanthemums and gold pine boughs used as decorations for the luncheon reproduced the school colors.

The alumnae will have a newspaper, too—the Birmingham Alumnae News, with Anne Ruud as Pittsburgh editor.

* * *

The young things turned over its earnings, $296, to the Welfare Fund.

And the committee wants us to give Harry Dangerfield a hand. He furnished the lemons for the punch.

* * *

Orchid and white—that was Lucretia Billings' color scheme for the Princeton Triangle affairs. With her gown of white crepe she wore orchid slippers and an orchid brocade evening wrap.

Did you notice that Althea Robinson's ever-so-good-looking long cranberry red velvet evening wrap not only had a cape collar of ermine, slit in back as well as in front, but a little upstanding collar of the ermine, too?

VARIETIES OF VELVET WEAVES FASHIONED FOR SPRING WEAR

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Jan. 4.—It would seem that Paris never tires of finding new ways to use velvet. Further than that, the French are continually making new kinds of velvet. The advance fabric collections for spring include dozens and dozens of new weaves of glossy velvets, dull velvets, velvets that look like furs or like satin, velvets in tweed and plaid patterns, velvets actually made of cotton, wool or silk, or mixtures of all three. Many of the new fabrics are velvets with ribbed woolens. Many are closely cut textures that look more like broadcloth than anything else.

* * *

SO MANY are the varieties of new velvet weaves that they continue to fit into every scheme of clothes and fashions that the Paris dressmakers can think of. Important among the new ones are velvets in the beiges and beige-greys that are forecasted as outstanding spring colors.

* * *

A CLOSELY-CUT, dull-finish velvet that looks, at a distance, a great deal like the heavy broadcloth called "Leda," is used by Vera Borea to make a street costume that is neither coat nor dress, but may serve as either. It is in a new beige, with clever use of brown fur on cuffs and collar. She relieves any monotony of design by using a roll of fabric to edge the fur cuffs, and a band of fur to edge the fabric collar.

* * *

BRIGHT, GLOSSY velvet in black has been chosen by Marcevle to make the turban sketched at the left; the velvet itself has a crushed effect like a crepe. The other Marcevle hat is done in one of the new felts, beige with darker clouded spots dotting its surface.

City Club Drama Group Meets Tuesday

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The first event of the new year at the Woman's City Club is a special meeting of the drama group on Tuesday afternoon at which Mrs. Anne Morrison Chapin, Pittsburgh playwright and actress, will discuss current New York successes. Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby is to serve as chairman that day.

The parliamentary law class under Miss Hannah Patterson will convene next Wednesday morning and again on the twenty-fifth. Miss Margaret Scott, of the Pittsburgh Y. W. C. A., is scheduled to give a current events discussion at the club luncheon on the fourteenth, with Mrs. E. J. Searles as chairman.

The musicale for the month is set for Sunday, the fifteenth, the program to consist of baritone solos by Cass Ward Whitney and two-piano numbers by Miss Marie Vierheller and Miss Margery Selkovitz.

The regular meeting of the drama group comes on the twenty-fourth, and the following evening there's to be a meeting at which Mrs. L. Gerald Firth will give a lecture on French chateaus, illustrating it with colored slides made from photographs which she took. The health meeting, called for the twenty-seventh, will be addressed by George A. Jones.

Foster Concert Announced for January 13

In the absence of Mrs. Elmer W. Flaccus, president of the Tuesday Musical Club, yesterday Mrs. Romaine Smith Russell, first vice president, presided and announced the annual Stephen Collins Foster memorial concert to be held January 13 in Carnegie Music Hall. The concert will be open to the public without fee.

The club opened the new year with a most attractive program arranged by Mrs. William F. Herron and Mrs. Charles H. Barnard. Harvey B. Gaul, music critic, gave the address of the afternoon, taking for his subject, "Static," and stating as its definition, "a series of ugly sounds"—which he says are heard every day on the radio.

Following the program, tea was served, with these members at the tables: Mrs. Robert I. Cunningham, Mrs. Allan S. Davison, Mrs. Charles De Shon, Mrs. Robert J. Dodds, Mrs. S. W. Cunningham, Mrs. H. P. Eckhardt, Mrs. W. H. Garrett and Mrs. Robert Geddis.

Catherine J. Monahan Heads C. D. A. Benefit

Miss Catherine J. Monahan is general chairman for the card party, sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of America, for the benefit of the Little Sisters of the Poor, at Oppenheim Collins auditorium Saturday afternoon, January 14, at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Elizabeth Casey, district deputy of Sharpsburg, is in charge of prizes; Mrs. Irene Scholze, grand regent of Court Bellevue, will be in charge of bridge; Mrs. Anna Caldwell, district deputy of Swissvale, is in charge of "150;" Mrs. Ella Coleman, grand regent of Court Carnegie, will have charge of eucre; Mrs. Elizabeth Neuner, grand regent of Court South Hills, in charge of old maids, and Miss Rose Murphy, grand regent of Court Pittsburgh, will handle the tickets and patronesses. Miss Elizabeth O'Neil, grand regent of Court Allegheny, has charge of publicity.

Joseph K. Loves and Son Sojourning at Pinehurst

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph K. Love, of Johnstown, Pa., and their son, John E. Love, spent the holidays in Florida and are now registered at The Carolina, in Pinehurst, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Winsor, of Forbes street, have been guests at the Hotel Lexington, New York.

Milwaukee Girl Guest Of Honor at Bridge

Miss Marie Brown, of Miwaukee, who is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Zwetz, of Pittsburgh, was guest of honor at a bridge party given by Miss Ellen Brennan recently, in the home of her sister, Mrs. D. O. Regan, of Brentwood.

VAPEX GETS TO THE SEAT OF A COLD

TESTS PROVE SUPERIORITY OF VAPEX

Unbiased tests by a prominent medical research laboratory prove that the vapor of a single drop of Vapex kills dense colonies of germs present in head-colds. In exactly similar tests, other inhalants (often offered as substitutes for Vapex) were shown to be greatly inferior in germ-killing power.

Many cheaper imitations of Vapex are said to be "just as good." But Science proves they are not. Vapex has a remarkable germ-killing power. This is the extra value that Vapex brings you at very little extra cost.

AN UNBIASED medical research laboratory favors Vapex as a safe, effective way to relieve the distress of a head-cold.

This decision is based on two important facts. First, that breathing the Vapex vapor penetrates to the seat of a cold — the hidden breathing-passages — where drops, sprays, gargles, and salves are less likely to reach. Second, because Vapex has remarkable germ-killing power.

Breathing Vapex is as refreshing as breathing mountain air. There's no muss . . . no fuss. Mothers say it's ideal for children because it's so safe and effective.

Now you'll find that Vapex is sold at a reduced price — only 75c a bottle. Keep one handy for all the family. At the first sign of a cold, sprinkle a few drops on the handkerchief and at the ends of the pillow. A few breaths bring prompt relief.

Domestic Life Made Unhappy By Chronic Pouters

He is old enough to vote. He looks grown up, and thinks he is grown up—but almost ever since they got married he has been acting like a 2-year-old with a chronic tantrum.

He—but we'll let Connie tell it herself. Here she is,

Dear Elsie:

I am coming to you for advice, and I hope that you can help me, because I don't know what to do.

I have been married nearly a year. Before I married Ray we agreed that we would stay with my mother and father, because if I went to housekeeping they would be alone. He didn't have work for a while, so we had to stay there, anyway. But I said that whenever he did get work, with wages we could live on, we would go to housekeeping. My folks were simply wonderful to him. He says so himself.

DISAGREEABLE

But we were married only a few weeks when he became very disagreeable. He takes spells when he won't speak to me or my parents for a week or more at a time. We can't understand him at all, as he will have no reason at all for pouting as he does. He is so jealous, too, that I don't dare speak to even any of my girl friends, and I can't even talk to my mother when he is around.

He won't allow me to go outside the house without him. If I go shopping with my mother, he pouts, and won't even answer me when I speak to him. Mother doesn't ask me to go any more, because she doesn't want to cause trouble. This hurts me a lot, because I went everywhere I wanted to with her before I was married.

He often goes out himself, and doesn't ask me along or tell me where he is going. If I ask him where he just says "Out." If I ask him where he's been, he doesn't let on he has heard me. If I find out where he has been, he always denies he was there.

VERY UNREASONABLE

He has a job now, but he won't give me any money or tell me what he gets. He won't buy me any clothes or things I need, at all. He says I don't need them, since I am married, because I don't need to go out. My folks buy me what I have to have or I wouldn't have anything.

He even wants me to stop teaching my Sunday School class, because he has to work some Sundays and can't be around to take me there. I refuse to do this, as the church is in the next block, and I see no reason why I can't go alone. I wouldn't do anything to hurt him, and he knows it. But he is too stubborn to give in.

Now he wants me to go housekeeping in the country, where there are no neighbors within a mile and it is not handy to his work. There are plenty of cheap houses in town, but he refuses to rent one and won't give any reason.

I want to keep house, but I've never been in the country, and I know I would die of loneliness. I know he wants me to go away out there so I couldn't go anywhere without he takes me. He says he will buy all the groceries so I "won't need to go to the stores, and won't need any money."

I love him and don't want to leave him, but I don't see how I can go on like this. I am the only daughter, and my folks would be terribly hurt if we parted; but I can't stand anyone pouting like he does. I coax and plead and cry, but it doesn't do any good. Even his mother has talked to him, but he just got sore at her, too. She tells me not to pay any attention to him, but it is terribly hard not to.

What shall I do? I am 19 and he is 22. CONNIE.

FIGHT FOR RIGHTS

What shall you do?

Stand up for your rights, youngster, and tell him that if he can't treat you decently he can go peddle his papers until he is willing to.

No girl with an ounce of self-respect could put up with such treatment from any man, and if he wants to have you go on loving him and living with him, he should act like a man and not like a baby.

He had no business to marry you if he didn't expect to give you a break. Tell him that if he isn't willing to recognize you as a partner, and treat you as such, you're through until he is. And also inform him that you married him because you thought he would be a treat—and that he can't stick around if he's going to be a Pain in the Neck instead.

And if that doesn't jar him up and make a Regular Guy of him? Then leave him and his pouts, girlie, and go pick yourself some nice cozy job, like rock-breaking or deepsea-diving. Anything will seem like a snap, compared to living with a Chronic Pouter.

Flirting Is Silly and Dangerous for Those in Love, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Nothing is sillier and more dangerous than for a young couple in love to flirt with others just to make each other a little jealous.

They do this to prove how attractive and desirable they are. It is so unnecessary.

When one is in love, one quite naturally supposes that everyone else sees the loved one in the same rosy light. We cannot imagine anyone finding our loved ones less attractive and desirable.

Therefore it is so needless to risk the happiness and harmony of two hearts just to prove what is already an accepted fact.

Loyalty and devotion to each other prove better than anything else that though many might be interested, the loved one alone is interesting!

Do not flirt!

Knowledge of Code Message Concealed from Brixton

Lillian sprang to her feet, her poise, which had been steeled to bad news, breaking at the assurance in my father's voice and words.

"What do you mean?" she cried. "That you will attempt a rescue? But won't there be the chance of failure, and then won't—"

My father put up his hand in smiling protest.

"Everything, of course, will depend upon Richard," he went on. "If he is able to spot this hideout from Marion's data, and if the place lends itself to an ambuscade, the task will be a comparatively easy one. Now, if all these premises are correct, and if upon consultation with Richard, Harry and you we all agree that an attempted rescue is feasible, will you give your consent to the essay?"

"You know that," Lillian said earnestly. "And I suppose that there really is less danger in an attempted rescue than lies in the chance that these devils may double-cross us when we have paid the ransom."

"That is just the thing which has been in the back of my mind," my father said soberly. "We have no certainty that the girls will be returned to us when the ransom is paid. Of course, all the probabilities are that these men will keep faith with us, but there is always the possibility of treachery on their part. Believe me, dear child." He looked intently at Lillian's suddenly pallid face—"I would not say this to you if I did not wish to make you see that there is no more danger in attempting a rescue than there is in paying the ransom demanded."

VERITZEN OFFERS AID

Harry's knock upon the door put a period to his sentence. When I sprang to open it, forestalling my father, not only Mr. Underwood, but Philip Veritzen also, came into the room.

"My dear girl!" For once the great theatrical producer wasted no time in his customary flamboyant salutations. Passing me with a friendly but hurried nod, he crossed the room to Lillian and grasped both hands in his.

"I have no words," Philip Veritzen said at last. "I only want to tell you what I already have told Harry. There will be no question of advance or repayment between us. Whatever you need is yours—freely given. I am only thankful that I am what is called a rich man."

Lillian suddenly raised herself on tiptoe and kissed him.

"You have robbed me of all speech, Phil," she said, "but I think you know. Sit down, both of you. We have something vital to tell you."

Once more I went over the story of the concealed code in Marion's letter, and my father asked their opinion concerning his plan to rescue the girls, provided Dicky was able to locate their prison from the air.

TO HOLD INFORMATION

Both men gave their unqualified approval to the project, and one could almost feel the gradual dispelling of that fog of terror and bewilderment that had enveloped us all.

For myself, I could not help a heady little thrill at the undeniable fact that this new optimism was predicated upon faith in Dicky's ability to find the secluded mountain prison in which the girls were held.

"As soon as Richard arrives, and we can get hold of Hugh, we'll go into executive session," my father said; and Lillian, with a glance at the closed door, said guardedly:

"What about Sam and Helena—and Mary, Ronald and Noel?"

My father hesitated, and looked at each of us in turn.

"I may be unjust—prejudiced," he said at last, "but I should be most reluctant to let the Brixtons know anything whatever of the information that Marion's secret code has furnished us."

I saw the same relief in the other faces that I knew mine expressed, and Lillian spoke quickly for us all.

"I'm so glad you feel that way. But—how are you going to manage it? I warn you, I know Sam. The rest of you don't. It won't be easy to sidetrack him."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Varicose Veins and Phlebitis

Dr. Copeland

Many persons confuse a disease called "phlebitis" with a different ailment called "varicose veins." I receive many letters requesting information about varicose veins. Yet the symptoms given are typical of phlebitis. Undoubtedly these sufferers have phlebitis, rather than varicose veins.

In varicose veins there is an unnatural swelling of the veins. They are large, stand out prominently and obstruct the normal flow of the blood. The trouble may occur anywhere in the body, but most commonly in the legs and thighs.

Phlebitis, as its name implies, is really an inflammation of a vein. Varicose veins may be the ones to become inflamed. Indeed, they are particularly liable to phlebitis.

The inflammation may be traced to rheumatism, gout, an infectious disease of some sort, or to an injury. Phlebitis may be encountered after an abdominal operation with injury to one of the large veins leading to the extremities. It is often seen during or after childbirth, when it is spoken of as "milk leg."

Phlebitis is more commonly seen in women than men. Poor circulation, anemia, faulty elimination, posture and improper diet, are factors.

The disease is ushered in by chilly sensations, chills and fever. The afflicted leg or other part becomes painful. The pain may be dull or sharp and is made worse by walking. Within a short time the tissues become red, extremely sensitive and swollen. In severe cases the adjacent glands are enlarged and tender.

Immediate and intelligent care is imperative. A system already weakened by circulating poisons has little if any ability to combat a new infection. Complete rest in bed is essential. The involved part should be elevated.

Apply cold applications during the first 24 hours. A hot water bag or electric pad may be used after the acute symptoms subside. Flannel bandages are often beneficial. Of course, if the underlying cause can be traced to a gouty or rheumatic condition, special measures will be advised by your doctor.

Bear in mind that involvement of the deep veins of the leg may cause prolonged swelling and delayed recovery. If the part becomes seriously infected and pus develops, an operation may be necessary. It is a simple operation, however, and need cause no alarm.

Household Hints

Mix tar and yellow ochre together. It will be a good green color, and is excellent for painting rough woodwork or iron.

Milk puddings taste much better if a little finely shredded suet is added along with a good-sized knob of butter.

SYLVIA EVERSON
Route 4, Wisconsin Dells, Wisconsin

When your daughter comes into womanhood, she needs your help and understanding as never before. Get her a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Have her take it regularly for a few months. Tell her why she needs a tonic and regulator at this critical time. Teach her now to guard her health. When she is a happy, healthy, normal wife and mother she will thank you.

"My daughter Sylvia is sixteen. She was rundown and irregular. I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound myself and I knew it would be good for her. It has regulated her and improved her general health. She works hard every day and feels well. We are telling others about this good medicine. —Mrs. Nellie Everson, Route 4, Wisconsin Dells, Wis.

"When my daughter Mary was in school she was weak and had no ambition. We saw the Vegetable Compound advertised. Mary took it with wonderful results. It seemed to strengthen her right off. Gave her a good appetite and good color. She is working now at Appleton and feels fine. We think the Vegetable Compound is a good medicine for both girls and their mothers. —Mrs. Wm. Van Der Wyest, Madison St., Little Chute, Wis.

Contract Bridge -:- How to Play and How to Win

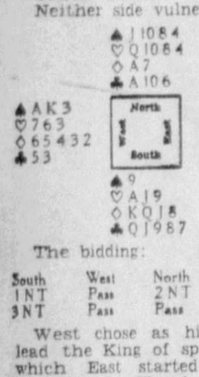
By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Selecting the Right Contract

Players at the Bridge table who persistently open the bidding with notrump, regardless of the fact that their hands do not permit the use of the Approach principle, impose a very heavy burden upon their partners. It is much more difficult to respond to a bid of one notrump than it is to a bid of one in a suit. Thus, over one club, one diamond, one heart or one spade, there is always the bid of one notrump available, which does not increase the contract and still keeps the bidding low; but over the bid of one notrump, there is no other bid available than the bid of at least two in a suit, which increases the partnership obligation to a point which, on weak hands, may be dangerous.

The hand below was played in a Rubber game, and the South player explained that he had as a partner one whose persistent notrumpers as Opening bids and notrump Takeouts of suit bids, when he held biddable suits, had become extremely annoying. Bent on curbing these activities, South decided on the Opening notrump bid on the hand.

South—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

West chose as his Opening lead the King of spades, upon which East started an echo with the 7. The Ace followed, and East won the third round with the Queen, then put Dummy in by leading the fourth round of spades. Since the Declarer was forced to discard at Round 2, it was essential that he determine for which suit he would play and govern his discards accordingly.

Careful analysis discloses that the suit to be chosen was the four-card suit in Dummy, and not the five-card suit in the Declarer's hand. The echo showed that East had the long spade, and thus he was the one to be kept out of the lead. Therefore, on the second, third and fourth tricks, South discarded clubs, and, finding the heart finesse right, was enabled to make four notrump. Had he chosen to play instead for the club suit, the hand must have been defeated as the cards lay, as the finesse in clubs would have lost and East would have made not only the club King but the fifth spade as well.

TODAY'S QUESTION

West bids one notrump and North passes. What should East do in this situation, holding the following hand?

♠ 9 7 3 ♡ 8 5 4 ◇ Q 10 8 7 6 5 ♣ 4

Answer: East should pass, since the minimum requirement for a Takeout with a six-card suit is 1 honor-trick, and this hand contains less than ½ honor trick. If a Takeout of two diamonds is made, and partner then bids two notrump, East succeeds only in making matters worse.

Correct Manners

Wedding Plans

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I am to be married very soon. It is to be a very quiet wedding in the parish house of a Catholic church. Is it proper to have just my immediate family, father and mother, present, and no one else, as the groom's relatives can not be here for the wedding.

2—The wedding will be about 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning. I would like to have my sister as maid of honor and should the groom have a best man, or isn't that necessary? READER.

1—Yes, usually at this kind of wedding, there are only a few people present.

2—It is so the general custom that the groom have a best man, that it would look a bit out-of-order if he doesn't. And this, in the case of your wedding, would seem even more important, since the groom's family are not to be present.

Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be married in about three months. Last Sunday afternoon a few friends had a miscellaneous shower for me as a surprise. They did not invite any of my relatives or other friends.

As I did not have an engagement party, my parents have been looking forward to having a shower so that they could invite our relatives and friends. Do you think it is proper for my parents to do this, after I already have had one shower? B.

The fact that you have already had a shower doesn't make the difference. It isn't supposed to be in very good taste . . . for reasons that are obvious . . . for close relatives of the bride or of the groom to give her a shower. You yourself will have to decide whether you wish to go against this usual suggestion. The shower that was given you by a group of close friends is the usual one, considered in good taste.

3 ANSWER PLEA OF COX FOR TRUCKS

It will be recalled Father Cox said in his Sun-Telegraph Christmas message:

"The heart of the people has not gone cold."

This statement was well proven a day later when he made an appeal through this newspaper for donations of used trucks to expedite his work of caring for the needy. The appeal had not been printed 24 hours before he was presented with a large truck and two small ones—all in good condition.

Father Cox in looking backward finds he has had a breadline for nearly three years and estimates in that time he has furnished more than 2,000,000 meals to jobless men and boys and tens of thousands of baskets of food to needy families. He sees no rainbow in the sky. The breadline seems to get longer every day and the number of families depending on him grows greater every day. In the meantime the sources of his income for food and other supplies seem to shrink as the depression continues.

That's why the Sun-Telegraph continues the subscription drive for the benefit of his unemployment relief fund. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page brings a liberal cash commission to this fund. Another worth-while check from the Sun-Telegraph goes to Father Cox today.

"MOIST THROAT" FOUND SECRET OF COUGH RELIEF

Your throat and bronchial tubes are lined with millions of pores like tiny bottles continually supplying moisture to the delicate tissues . . . until you "catch cold."

Then these "bottles" get plugged up, phlegm accumulates, affording dangerous germs a breeding place. Your throat feels hot and dry. Tickling, irritation and coughing set in.

Your cough will be cured only when the flow of the natural fluid is increased, loosening the phlegm so that it can be expelled. Many cough "remedies" contain numbing drugs which merely deaden the nerves . . . but don't get at the root of the trouble.

PERTUSSIN, a scientific remedy, which doctors have prescribed for many years, is the extract of a famous herb which opens the tiny glands, stimulates the flow of the throat's natural moisture and brings quick relief. It helps nature heal that cough from the inside out.

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes.

Dear D. W.: I thought you'd like my preparing these items so that what chit-chat we had might not go stale on us . . . Did you happen to see that item in "V" about a film for Joan Crawford . . . It ran this way: " . . . previously intended for Joan Crawford, 'Lost' will be adapted for Jackie Cooper" . . . Funny? . . . One of the better known college joke mags may fold. It may also be re-issued as a 15-cent publication . . . The novel, "Marriage License," published a few months ago by Covici-Friede and authored by one Cecil Strange, was written by Vera Caspary, Lester Cohen and Sam Ornitz . . . J. H. Pollack called. Suggested that because The Abbey Players were doing so well he ought to wish them an Abbey New Year . . . And if you don't mind my borrowing the quip nifty, I wish you all the things that the Democrats promised.

Here's a panic! . . . One of the swank midtown speakeasies is being picketed! . . . By a Waiters' Union! . . . Picketing to speak is something new under the sun, what? . . . The reason is that exiled partners of the hot spot are having some revenge . . . There have been some delightful sallies and barbs directed at Roxy's new theaters . . . The red lights, frinstance, on the Radio City Music Hall the other night weren't working so good . . . At intervals only the letters i-o would show up . . . Is this an omen? . . . Marc Lachman trusts that Rockefeller's theme song for Radio City never will be: "Brother, Can You Spare a Dime? . . . Greta Von Rue and Bill Wright of Paramount have chosen Jan'y 10th as The Day.

Congrats on the fake 2c stamp story—it was plenty exciting . . . Nice wives should never say they have a model husband—Mr. Webster says a model is a small imitation of the real thing! . . . Credit Dick Blythe on that one . . . And an orchid to I. Miller's, who gave Rachel Crothers' Stage Relief Society 50 pairs of boots this week . . . And they've marked them so that they can't be brought back for refunds! . . . Dillard Long's "Good Woman, Poor Thing" (a grand title) got swelllegant reviews in Philly . . . J. M. Josefsberg called. Said that he was pursued by women, so he's a fugitive from a Jane gang! . . . Elinson was in and left these . . . Mayor McKee wants the city to wash and scrub all the statutes. I hope that includes the guys who sit in front of them, adds Isadore . . . Also—When the saloon returns I hope to make a lotta money selling rubber swinging doors to nudist colonies . . . And this: I. R. T. salaries have been cut again—and I had to be the first person that subway guard saw just after he heard it! . . . I have good news for Ben Bernie. Stamps will be 2c again. Think of all the coin Bernie is going to save on all these fan letters he sends to himself . . . Adele Palmer sailed on the Europa to marry John Kobler on Jan. 7th. It's John's 23rd birthday, and his newspaper publisher pop is plenty proud . . . Will Osborne, who failed to dethrone Rudy Vallee, is grooming Ronald Brookes, from Brown University, for an air sponsor . . . Brookes is handsome, tall, and has blonde curly hair, etc . . . Talk about good-looking men, Traffic Officer 1783, at 44th and Lexington, has such traffic snarls at lunch hour because of the gaping gals.

I want you to fling a flock of scallions at that famous midtown realtor who gives away toys on Christmas to poor kids—but also sent dispossess notices to tenants, making them vacate their flats the day after Christmas! . . . He also discharged his sup't for not being successful at collecting rents . . . Some happy new year for those people—so let both barrels go, Walter, or I quit! . . . Edna May Oliver won't come to town, as she has announced, altho' her Radio Pictures option has expired . . . This Boston actress, who has been fighting 47 years for fame, is in demand now, and Universal wants her for "Salt Air" and other studios are bidding. Which is the sort of news I like to hear . . . Mrs. Joe E. Brown is in the hosp . . . G[illegible] Comedi, ex-aerial star, and once one of the most famous players in the movie business, got a $10 pay check on a Tom Mix flicker the other day . . . They tell me everything is at a new low in H'wood—and plenty are worried . . . The Alvin (attorney) Van Berghs are anticipating a blessed adventure . . .

Did you know that the movie "Maedchen in Uniform" cleaned up about $300,000 after it was spurned by Para, MGM and Fox? . . . That rates a maedchen in your col'm, no?

After George Robers fired 70 people from the Fox playdate staff, he went into his office and wept like a baby . . . Will Hays is very busy these days "mending his fences" . . . Paramount will shortly inaugurate a businessman president—a man sponsored by powerful money interests—thus avoiding a rumored receivership . . . There will, however, be the usual executive shakeup . . . Walter, you would make a huge hit with Mr. Ochs and the N. Y. Times by stifling the report that was hinted at in other gazettes, and buzzed about in the financial sector, that the Times was for sale, etc . . . It isn't, and the groundless talk has annoyed that newspaper a lot . . . El Patio managed to reopen on time for New Years Eve parties after unknowns wrecked the place the night before . . . Numerous requests from air fans for that stanza of Newman Levy's verse you used the night of Dec. 18th . . . Does it go this way? . . . So here's to the gallant reporters! The boys with the pencils and pads. Those calm, undisturbable, cool, imperturbable, nervy, inquisitive lads. Each time that we pick up a paper—their marvelous deeds we should bless! Those bold, reprehensible, brave, indispensable, sensible lads of the press! . . . Al Klein just killed me with this—"I see by the papers that a Russian scientist is trying to mate a man with an ape. What! Turning out more Congressmen?"—R. C.

Life Scenes To Teach Acting

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 4.—From now on, when you get into a newsreel picture, you may be teaching some Hollywood star how to act.

Carl Laemmle, Jr., young boss of Universal, has instructed the newsreel cameramen of his company to be on the lookout for shots of people showing their reactions to various emotional stimuli. These shots will be sent to the Hollywood studio, and when similar situations come up in a story, the entire cast of future Universal pictures will be asked to examine these real life studies of human emotion.

The first celluloid textbooks selected for the novel acting school are scenes of the grief-stricken men and women affected by the recent mine disaster in Moweaqua, Ill.

Mr. Laemmle

"There is too much 'mugging' in pictures," declares young Laemmle. "I believe that art can be made as realistic as life. This new plan may help us to achieve that end."

"Look at that," snapped Hanlon. "And you know darn well he'd be glad to sign his autograph on a bubble."

In these days, it's a tonic to see anyone optimistic and happy.

Marjorie Rambeau is the personification of both.

The other day I went out to visit Marjorie and her husband of a year, Francis Gudger. She looks five years younger than when I saw her last and she radiates contentment.

Miss Rambeau

"If I ever did anything decent and right in my life, I'm being repaid for it now," she told me.

Many times after her marriage and retirement from acting, I have wondered what outlet Marjorie found for her abundant energy. You'd never guess what it is—needle-point. While her husband was hunting and golfing, Marjorie taught herself this feminine art. She has become very proficient. I've seen a bag and a tapestry to prove it.

Now, of course, she is back in Hollywood to make her return to the talkies.

"It's rather a thrill," she said, "and besides I wanted to spend the holidays with mother."

Chances are Marjorie will stay on to make another picture for Charles R. Rogers. As a former vice president of the old Samuel Goldwyn company, her husband knows about and sympathizes with the feelings of actors.

The Edward Small company, which has been pleading with Claudett Colbert to play the feminine lead in "I Cover the Water-Front," You hear around that Max Miller's fascinating book will be greatly changed in its screen form. The producers hope, however, to retain the flavor of the original.

Screen Shows Roosevelt

THE GLOBE TROTTER

With President-elect Roosevelt and former governor Alfred E. Smith taking a prominent part, colorful pictures of Herbert L. Lehman being inaugurated as Governor of New York, are presented in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. The President-elect pays high tribute to his former Lieutenant Governor. The Globe Trotter describes the striking scenes of the inaugural.

"Prince Michael Romanoff" as he calls himself, but known to the police and immigration officials as Harry F. Gerguson, is seen and heard in a picture made in Paris. "Mike" reached New York on the same boat that brought the pictures but soon fell into the clutches of the law.

Pictures of the semi-annual catch of giant tuna fish in Sicily are presented. There are literally thousands of the monsters, some of which are 10 feet long.

Notes About Stage

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The new Noel Coward play, "Design for Living," co-starring Mr. Coward, Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt, which will be the attraction in the Nixon next week, was given a hearty reception at its premiere in Cleveland Monday. All critics commented favorably in their reviews of the play, described by Archie Bell as the old triangle, "but this time with a wavering hypothenuse and curving sides." The play was written, it is said, in fulfillment of a promise made by the author to his friends, the Lunts, a dozen years ago. The opening was a sell-out and at the conclusion of the play the three stars were given repeated curtain calls. Seats for next week's presentation of the comedy here will be on sale in the Nixon box-office tomorrow.

* * *

Margaret Anglin, who is appearing as guest star of the George Sharpe Players in the Pitt this week, which will be the last for our resident company, is no stranger on that stage, having played there as a touring star and once before as Mr. Sharp's guest. This week she has a high comedy role in St. John Ervine's "The First Mrs. Fraser," the first matinee of which will be given tomorrow.

Comedy

Ann Harding has a leading role in "Animal Kingdom," comedy coming Friday to Stanley screen.

Holmes' World Tour On Card Tonight

Burton Holmes' picturization of his "1932 World Cruise" will be presented in Carnegie Music Hall tonight. This new traveltalk will include views of Death Valley, Palm Springs, the marvelous Hearst ranch at San Simeon, Vancouver, Honolulu, Japan of today, what's new in Shanghai, Hongkong, Singapore, Manila and return to America via the Suez Canal with stops at Naples and Gibraltar. The lecture-recital is illustrated with scenes in color and many motion pictures.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

HOTEL DE PARIS, MONTE CARLO—Walking through the lobby this morning, I ran into Carlyle Blackwell. Carlyle, as most of you undoubtedly remember, was once the idol of movie fans the world over. One of the first of the movie stars, he was the Valentino and the Clark Gable of his day. When he strolled across the silver screen, the flappers shivered and strong women fell off their seats. Quite a hero was Carlyle Blackwell.

Today, although some 14 years have passed, Blackwell hasn't changed particularly. Slightly older, of course, but just as handsome as ever. And a regular guy, too. Decent and kindly and full of the news I like to hear, it was a decided pleasure to meet him again. We must have talked for an hour before we parted.

About what? Who knows? About the last American film he made, in which he wore a leopard skin and carted off the damsel he desired while her husband was out buying toys for the kiddies. About Jimmy Walker. About the last presidential election. About the Gaumont picture company, in England. About—oh, well, about an hour.

"Mark," he asserted, "I'm at home here and you must let me do something for you. Is there anything you want?"

I smiled.

"Nothing much I can think of right now, Carlyle," I replied, "except for one thing. I've got to hop to Paris very shortly. As a matter of fact, I think I'll take the late train tomorrow.

"But before I go I've got to take in the night life in this section. Thus far, I've seen nothing but the inside of the casino. How about meeting me tonight and we'll hop around the town together? Okay with you?"

He nodded.

"Great with me," he returned. "Meet you in the salon privee at the casino at 10 sharp. Right?"

I hesitated.

"All right," I replied dubiously. "But I'm getting a little tired of that casino and—"

I stopped. He was gone . . .

Thus, 10 o'clock found me in the casino again. Nothing was changed. The same faces. The same lack of enjoyment. I doubt whether there is ever much change among these people until they hit the air. Surely that must do something.

At any rate, when Mr. Blackwell dropped into the chair beside me, I was all ready with a question. It was something that had really been bothering me, too.

"Tell me something, Carlyle," I inquired. "That limit they have here—the 24,000 francs, I mean—does that apply to everyone? I mean I've heard so much about the terrific plungers who gamble here on occasion that I don't understand it. Is it possible that all they'll let you lose on a play is less than a thousand dollars?"

Mr. Blackwell was quite definite in his information.

"By no means," was his statement. "As long as they know that you can pay the money if you lose, you can practically set your own limit. I've seen several players in here with a limit of 100,000 francs on each play. They are multi-millionaires, of course.

"The only difficulty with that style of play is that the casino expects you to bet the limit on each play. There was an Englishwoman here this summer who played with a 100,000 franc limit practically every night for almost six weeks. And she bet the limit on each play."

I asked the same question that you probably would have asked. And I received an answer that I know to be positively correct because I checked on it later in the hotel. I don't doubt Carlyle's veracity. But, after all, he was a movie star.

"How much," I wanted to know, "did she lose on the season?"

He shook his head.

"She didn't," was the answer. "She kept an accurate record during her six weeks' play. And when she finally quit after playing for millions of francs a night, she was exactly $450 ahead!" . . .

At 11 o'clock, I suggested to Mr. Blackwell that we hit our first night club.

"Might as well get moving," I said. "I've got to get some night club copy around here. Where to first?"

Carlyle rubbed his chin.

"There's a swell spot over in Nice," he murmured, "but that's closed."

"That's a great help," I chirped. "I'm glad we got out of there in a hurry. Any other suggestions?"

He banged the table suddenly.

"I've got the very place, Mark," he cried. "A grand orchestra, nice people and some talent that you'll like. It's about two miles up and—"

I was already on my feet.

"That's my spot, boy," I enthused. "Let's go."

He arose—and sat down again abruptly.

That was the straw that broke the ice in two. I was rapidly growing desperate. I took my friend by the arm and marched him down the corridor.

"Carlyle," I said, "I've got to find at least one night club that's open in Monte Carlo. I passed a joint today that's only a block or so from the hotel. We're going there right now."

His eyes opened wide.

"Oh, yes," he asserted. "The Knickerbocker. Is that open?"

I was still walking.

"If there's at least a doubt," I replied, "I'm already doing better than you did."

The Knickerbocker had exactly two customers that night. Right you are again. The customers were Carlyle and I. It was so lonesome in there I thought I was in New York.

The manager was most apologetic. A tremendous party had just walked out. Which is the same gag I've heard around cafes since I was an innocent child of four. When a cafe is empty, you have either just missed a big party—or a big party is due any moment. Neither party ever arrives.

The club was well decorated, but it was the same doggone thing all over again. A small dance floor. Shaded lights. A colored combination of three pieces. And the leader—an affable chap named Carpenter—sitting at the piano and singing any song that anyone might request.

After I had Carpenter sing "Melancholy Baby" six times, I marched over to him. I asked him if he came from Harlem. He grinned from ear to ear.

"Yas, suh," he cried. "Ah sho' is. An' Ah'm gonna tell yo' somethin' else. Ah knows yo' from somewhere."

I turned around to make certain that Blackwell was listening.

"Maybe you do," I admitted modestly. "My name's Hellinger."

He laughed loudly.

"Yo can't fool me, mistuh," he cried. "Ah knows Hellinger and yo' ain't him. Yo' looks more like Rudy Vallee."

Did I have to come to Monte Carlo for that? . . .

The Pittsburgh Male Chorus sang its postponed concert last night in Carnegie Music Hall, offering a varied program. It seems to be a tradition of this organization to gather too many soloists into a program, consequently no one, not even the chorus, gets its due, and the program is never restful.

Mr. Lissfelt

The club sang much as usual and still wants a distinctive quality for tone. In such songs as Gretchaninoff's "Autumn" and Sibelius' "The Song Now Stilled" Director Lee Hess Barnes achieves some very delicate effects, and in "Drake's Drum," an old favorite with the chorus and its friends, these men sing with fine vigor.

Rollin Pease, baritone, sang the solo of Bruch's "War Song" and in several groups of excellent music showed a taste for the classic. He is, however, one of those sincere singers who have tremendous limitations, though doubtless he was laboring under severe indisposition last night. He read to piano accompaniment Poe's "Raven" in a rather matter-of-fact manner.

Fred Lotz was accompanist for both chorus and soloist and acquitted himself excellently as usual. He also contributed the first movement only of Beethoven's Sonata, "Les Adieux," and two modern works, the dashing "Gold Fishes" of Debussy and Godowsky's "Whirling Dervishes" known through Ted Shawn's interpretation. Beethoven he approaches with a true scholar's attitude and his moderns have considerable freedom. J. FRED LISSFELT.

April 13 Adjournment Plan Held Gesture

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—The proposal of the regular Republican organization, set forth in both Senate and House caucuses Monday night, that the Legislature adjourn finally April 13, is accepted as little more than a gesture of desire, with no real hope that such expedition of business will be possible as to permit fruition of the dream.

Mr. Shields

When the resolution was offered Monday night it was done with the full knowledge by some of the members, who will be most active in determining legislation, that the goal seemed unattainable. The principle involved was an effort to impress the people of the state with the thought that the Republicans were in earnest in their pledge for a short and business-like session.

Democrats are also for a short session, but there seems to be too much of a controversial nature for this session to permit.

* * *

Sales Tax Collections Not Known Until April

Gov. Pinchot has declared against continuation of the sales tax, which expires the last day of February. It was passed by the special session as an emergency measure to provide funds for unemployment relief. An attempt will be made to re-enact the measure.

The amounts collected under the present law will not be known until April 1. No one can approximate the returns at this date. Yet it is suggested that the Legislature adjourn within 13 days from the ascertainment of the collected revenue. Business representatives at the capitol believe this impossible, explaining that, while they oppose the tax there are members who will want to see what it has done before agreeing to abandon it as a means of raising funds at a time when all revenue expectancies are reduced.

Another problem which the Legislature must tackle depends upon action in Washington, action which is not conceivable until President-elect Roosevelt calls a special session. That problem is beer.

The general impression is that beer will not be legalized at this congressional session, either because of Senate refusal to act or a veto by President Hoover. That would throw the matter into the special session, with a Democratic Senate and House pledged to Volstead modification and a President bound to sign such a measure.

As the bill passed the House, and as it probably will be re-introduced in the special session, Congress deals only with manufacture and the protection of states which wish to remain under the present system. No control of the localized sale of beer was provided.

Under those circumstances, legislation in Pennsylvania would be required, not only as a revenue raiser, but as a regulatory measure to prevent indiscriminate sale. It is true that local legislative bodies, borough and city councils, might be able to set up a license system, but the state will take first crack at the subject, as it did in the days before prohibition.

* * *

No Certainty Of Such Unity

Complicating the unquestionably sincere hope for a speedy session, is the presence of the biggest Democratic minority the Legislature has seen in many sessions. Only a few of these men have previous experience. It will require weeks for this group, no matter how unified it may be in principle, to shake down to a working basis.

And there is no certainty that such unity exists, any more than that there is complete unity within the Republican majority. Indeed, the Republicans are perhaps more widely divided than the Democrats, for Joseph F. Guffey, Roosevelt leader in the state, has the expected federal patronage as a rein on his followers, while State Chairman Edward Martin will lack not only federal patronage, but will receive none from the state so long as Gifford Pinchot is Governor.

Gov. Pinchot already has given plain evidence he would welcome the co-operation of Democrats in a fight against the Republican organization. He made a bid for that assistance yesterday in his biennial message. He will need that help, for the Republican regulars are out to strip him of power.

The most drastic attack on his authority is contained in a bill of Representative Turner, of Delaware, the majority leader, ripping up the present executive board which the Governor dominates through the presence on it of his cabinet members, removable by him. Under the Turner bill no appointive officers would be on the board, which would consist of the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Auditor General, State Treasurer and Secretary of Internal Affairs, all elective, and the majority anti-Pinchot.

This board can fix salaries within limitations, classify state employes, and shift bureaus under the administrative code.

Turner would thus at one move put the Governor in the hands of his enemies. It is a step toward the Republican state committee's demand for a decentralization of government, while the Governor yesterday asked for greater centralization.

In view of these few potentialities, and there are many more it is difficult to see how adjournment can be had April 13, and that observation concedes to the legislators a real devotion to duty and a determination to work at their problems.

EMPLOYE ENDS LIFE LOOKING INTO MIRROR

Dies in Hospital After Shooting Self at Steel Plant

Alexander McIntyre, 67, of 4419 Butler street, who, police said, fired two bullets into his head as he looked into a mirror last night in the structural steel plant of the W. N. Kratzer Company, Twenty-ninth street and Allegheny Valley Railroad, died in West Penn Hospital early today.

McIntyre, a watchman at the plant, shot himself after sending his brother-in-law, William J. Shaw, for a pail of water, police said. Attracted by the shot, Shaw, who lives at the rear 3201 Penn avenue, ran into the office and found McIntyre in a chair, a mirror before him.

McIntyre had been in ill health and was to have undergone an operation in a hospital tomorrow, Shaw told police. In McIntyre's wallet police found a note which read:

"I, the undersigned, being about to undergo an operation, furnish my sister, Mrs. Shaw, with the balance of my account."

After leaving a note saying, "Forgive and forget," Michael Solark, 51, rear of 135 South Seventeenth street, swallowed poison in his home and died en route to South Side Hospital, according to a coroner's report. Solark, unmarried, was found by a friend.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Jan. 4. To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Hello, mister, was you ever asked to make a New Years prediction?

Will Rogers

"Say, I never been asked to eat on New Years."

Have you ever been appointed on a commission?

"No, nor in jail either."

Do you read prominent men's predictions?

"No, I never read fiction."

Have you a job?

"No, I am on a diet."

What does the New Year hold in store for you?

"What New Year?—Have they got another one?"

Do you think the world leaders can get us out of this?

"Nothing you can spell will ever work."

What about the debts?

"Well, I hear England paid 90 million, but it's only hearsay as far as the unemployed is concerned."

Do you think we will get out of this depression just because we got out of all the others?

"Lots of folks drown that's been in the water before."

What will give the unemployed employment?

"If somebody will throw a monkey wrench into the machinery."

Won't light wines and beer be a big aid to the poor?

"They will if they give 'em away."

Won't '33 see a change for the better?

"I don't think so, we haven't suffered enough, the Lord is repaying us for our foolishness during prosperous days. He is not quite ready to let us out of the dog house yet."

Yours, WILL.

Graham Ill, School Election Delayed

Because of the illness of Dr. Ben Graham, superintendent of schools, a meeting of the Board of Public Education to elect a superintendent of buildings, a superintendent of supplies and six associate superintendents was postponed until tomorrow at 4:30 p. m. Dr. Graham was also forced to forego attendance at a conference with Gov. Pinchot at Harrisburg on financing milk for undernourished children.

Officers' Car Check Aids Robbery Victim

With a street car check given him by Patrolman Robert Groves, J. R. Hamilton, of 1461 Alabama avenue, Dormont, made his way to the North Side Police Station at midnight and said he had been kidnaped and robbed of $3 by two armed bandits, who escaped in his automobile.

Hamilton told police he had been stopped by a traffic light at Penn and Barbeau street when the pair stepped into his machine.

HELD IN FATAL FALL OF WOMAN

GREENSBURG, Pa., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Police today held Michael Zguric in connection with the death of Mrs. Cyrus Miller, 45, killed in a 20-foot fall from a rock ledge—the same ledge from which her brother-in-law fell to his death some years ago.

Officers arrested Zguric, who resides near the Miller farm in Salina, immediately after the accident yesterday, claiming they wished to question the man.

They seek to determine, the police said, whether the woman, a widow, accidentally fell or was pushed.

Mrs. Miller, her daughter, Hazel, 24, and Zguric, the officers said, were walking across a field—a shortcut to the Miller home—when the fatal mishap occured. The investigators said the trio were returning from Zguric's home where they had been drinking.

17,000 Picked Here For Jury Service

Seventeen thousand persons in Allegheny County were selected for jury service today upon order of President Judge James R. Macfarlane, of Common Pleas Court. Each juror receives $4 a day.

Judge Macfarlane and Thomas A. Dougherty, jury commissioner, were present at the drawing of the names. Those selected will comprise the grand jury and will serve in Common Pleas, Criminal and the County courts.

May Be Better Now But We Can't Stop to Find Out

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

We have a new mayor in New York City and a brand new governor upstate.

We also have a 1933 budget, a bicycle and a wild desire to succeed.

They say a good soldier never looks back. But neither does a hit-and-run driver.

The experiences of the past are the best guides for the future. And the finest old-time motto was to pay-as-you-go.

Don't forget the railroads were in good shape when we all carried mileage books.

Things look better since the bankers have reduced the rate of interest, but there is still enough red to make the statistics look like a California sunset.

We expect to be okay by summer. But right now we are like the man fighting the grizzly. We can't stop long enough to find out how we are doing.

Fall on Fire Kills McKeesport Boy

One-year-old William Brant, died last night in McKeesport Hospital from burns suffered when he fell against a coal grate in his home, 2323 Fifth avenue, McKeesport, yesterday morning, according to the Coroner's report.

M'NEIL CHOSEN WARDEN AGAIN

John McNeil today had been re-elected as warden of the Allegheny County Jail. His selection was announced at the annual meeting of the County Prison Board. Dr. Charles J. Ellis was re-elected jail physician.

In his annual report Warden McNeil said the population of the jail at the close of 1932 was 659 male and 57 female prisoners against 677 male and 52 female prisoners in 1931.

There were 186 more admitted to jail during the year than in 1931, the total number admitted during the past year being 24,101. The average age of the prisoners admitted was 35 years, 8 months and 7 days.

Ill Boy Rescued From Flaming Bed

Charles H. Smith, Jr., 9-year-old son of a Braddock Park Negro pastor, was carried to safety when a bed where he lay sick in his home, 1163 Pasico avenue, Braddock Park, caught fire last night. Damage to the house was slight, according to North Braddock firemen.

McKeesporters Form Labor Exchange

Plans for the establishment of a barter, labor and service exchange for the unemployed of McKeesport are under way, according to M. E. Goldberg, of 3020 Riverview avenue, McKeesport, naval reserve officer and originator of the plan.

The Allegheny County Emergency Association has promised practical aid if the organization is formed, and McKeesport businessmen have stated that they will finance the exchange.

SHOES MENDED IN SCHOOL

A new classroom has been added to the Penn Avenue Grade School, Turtle Creek, assembling in the boiler room. There eight men are mending shoes for children of unemployed, attending classes upstairs—in their stocking feet.

Since the work began a month and a half ago more than 500 shoes have been repaired.

W. A. Rodgers, supervising principal, said:

"When school opened, 20 children were unable to attend due to the lack of shoes. The 53 teachers in the Penn Avenue and the Electric Plan buildings supplied them with footwear gathered from homes. Other children's shoes were fast wearing out. An idea was conceived. The teachers raised a fund. Unemployed men of the borough, given clothes and food by the teachers, offered assistance in the plan.

Lasts, awls, hammers, nails and leather were purchased and some leather was donated by a manufacturing plant."

Boy, 2, Dies After Eating Ant Powder

MARTINS FERRY, O., Jan. 4.—Chester Conkel, Jr., 2, was dead today, after eating ant powder.

Chester and sister Nancy, 3, were playing in their home. They mixed together the powder and vanilla flavor. Nancy sampled the mixture but discovered it not to her liking.

After Chester had eaten some he became ill. He died last night in a hospital.

Agents Seize Liquor In Two House Raids

Raiding a house in Weier street, prohibition agents found 10 gallons of whisky and 300 pounds of corn sugar and arrested Vincent Sandy, they reported.

A raid on a house in Filmore street yielded the raiders six gallons of beer, two gallons of wine, one pint of whisky, two quarts of gin and 20 gallons of mash, according to their report. They reported arresting Tony Camarto.

WARD LEADERS 'AX' VICTIMS OF BUDGET

Mayview Gives List of Ousted; Health Dept. Names Awaited

Director Edward G. Lang today announced the names of 459 employes in his department whose positions have been eliminated by the 1933 budget. The names of two of those ousted are of special political significance. They are Justus Schroedel, supervisor of grounds and buildings, in the Division of Recreation, who is also Republican chairman of the Twenty-fourth Ward, and Charles A. Hillegas, chief supervisor of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers, a former chairman of the Thirteenth Ward.

With the exception of the Department of Public Welfare, all other city department revised payrolls are yet to be announced.

WELFARE LIST GIVEN

The Public Welfare Department announced the complete list of names of those who have been discharged yesterday as:

Council yesterday received a petition from Dr. James S. Hammers, superintendent of Mayview, in which he asked to retain Mrs. Quigg in her position of director of nurses. The petition was signed by employes of the City Home and Hospital.

An ordinance amending the recently-passed 1933 salary bill also came before Council at yesterday's meeting. The amending ordinance provided for reductions in pumping station chief engineers' salaries. The ordinance, when passed finally, will cut the engineers' pay 16⅔ per cent—the same cut given other city employes in the making of the new budget.

REPORT NOT READY

St. Clair Cooper, chief clerk in the Health Department, announces that the discharged employes of that department have been notified, but added that "the list" is not ready forpublication.

The same condition prevails in the Department of Public Safety. Fire Chief Richard L. Smith said yesterday that the names of discharged firemen and any changes in the department's personnel will have to be announced by Director Clark's office.

In the absence of Clark his chief clerk, Robert Brown, said yesterday that he had no names to give out.

Despite the fact that notifications have been mailed, many of those who interest themselves in the workings of City Hall are considering the possibility of "after deadline" changes in the payroll. Much of their suspicion is based on the department heads' failure to announce the names of those who lost out in the new budget.

'Hill' Woman Held On Lottery Charge

In a raid on a grocery at 700 Fifth avenue, county detectives reported confiscating lottery numbers books and arresting Bella Dobrushin, the alleged proprietress, late yesterday. The raid was made on complaints sent to District Attorney Andrew T. Park. The woman was held for court on a charge of operating a lottery when arraigned before Alderman Thomas A. Flannigan.

Plane Forced Down In Ohio; 4 Injured

MARIETTA, O., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Four persons flying from New York to Cincinnati were injured slightly last night when their airplane, its fuel exhausted, made a forced landing near here.

They were James Kirkpatrick, of Long Beach, L. I., the pilot; Mrs. Kirkpatrick, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harmon, of Rutherford, N. J. None required hospital treatment.

JOBLESS GUARDSMEN IN 'BARRACKS' AGAIN

The Hunt Armory has taken the place of homes, broken up by the depression, for these men. Living on Army schedule, working 25 hours a week for the Armory, they receive three meals a day, sleeping quarters, a chance for extra money in overtime work, and have most of the afternoon and evening in which to look for other jobs.

Col. Eric F. Wood was the originator of the plan of paying jobless National Guardsmen with food and lodging for the upkeep and reconditioning of the Armory and supplies. Starting November 7, the Armory employs as many as possible from its private funds.

Capt. Ralph N. Steimer in direct charge of the men quartered there, says it is planned to increase the number when riding, stabling and polo games bring in more money.

Among other services, Capt. Steimer has established a canteen, where the guardsmen can buy goods at cost, and an employment agency. The agency's activities are chiefly among men the Armory has not yet been able to take in.

Besides the eventual hope of finding work for all his men, Col. Wood finds his plan successful in relieving the soldiers from accepting charity, in accomplishing much needed work, and in keeping up the morale of the regiment.

Bridge Experts Vying In District Match

Hundreds of contract bridge fans who have heard the systems of the experts expounded will do some experting on their own account today as the Pittsburgh district qualifying matches in a national tournament begin. They will play for the honor of representing the district in the national tournament at Miami, Fla., with all expenses paid.

The qualifying matches will be held today, tomorrow and Friday, and the district finals Saturday afternoon and evening. Henry J. Bailey, of the Schenley Bridge Club, chairman of the committee in charge of the tournament here, said there are indications approximately 150 tables will be in play in the district.

Similar district tournaments are being held in other cities. The winner of each will be guests of the Miami-Biltmore Hotel at Miami while the national tournament is in progress. The tournament is open to all who pay the small entry fee.

QUEEN MOTHER WRITES 'TRUE STORY' NOVEL

Royal Court Aroused By Threat of New Scandal

By ALFRED TYRNAUER
International News Service.
(Copyright, 1933, International News Service, Inc.)

VIENNA, Jan. 4.—A new scandal threatened to rock the Rumanian royal court today with reliable reports that the Dowager Queen Marie has laid bare delicate family secrets in a "true life" novel shortly to be published under her own name.

Information received by International News Service indicates that King Carol, Queen Marie's son, is making frantic attempts to suppress the volume.

MAGDA INVOLVED

The novel is to parallel the marital affairs of King Carol and his divorced wife, Princess Helen, with thinly veiled references to the part Mme. Magda Lupescu, the sovereign's favorite, has played in Rumanian affairs.

Queen Marie's book, according to this information, tells the story of a "beautiful, innocent princess" who is unhappily married to the Crown Prince of a mythical realm.

She flees from her palace and the country, leaving behind her young son "to save her honor." Despite the Crown Prince's urging, she refuses to resume her nuptial ties even though by doing so she would become queen.

Princess Helen, it was recalled, acted in the same manner when King Carol, as crown prince, renounced his rights to the Rumanian throne and went to live in exile near Paris with Mme. Lupescu.

LIKE REAL STORY

When Carol's father died, Carol's son, Prince Michael, assumed the throne under a regency. Carol then staged a coup d'etat, dethroned Michael and embarked upon a campaign to win back Princess Helen so they might be crowned together as King and Queen of Rumania.

When Carol learned of his mother's venture in the "fiction" field, he demanded the book be withdrawn from the publishers. He indignantly declared that the novel was merely a thinly-veiled revelation of his own life and contained incidents which Queen Marie learned through her high position and which "should have been kept secret."

Queen Marie, however, flatly refused, declaring the book had already received advance notices in the press and could not be withdrawn "without causing gossip."

Relations between Carol and Marie have been strained ever since Carol seized the throne. During Michael's regency, Queen Marie was all-powerful, but King Carol quickly relegated her to a spectator's role after he had deposed his son.

COAL HERE HELD SUPERIOR TO OHIO GRADE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Pittsburgh and Southern West Virginia coal is superior to that mined in Southeastern Ohio, according to expert testimony before the renewed Interstate Commerce Commission inquiry into recent reduction on Ohio intrastate coal rates.

The rate reduction was first taken by the Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad, increasing the differential from the Pittsburgh and Southern West Virginia districts by 29 cents, giving Ohio producers a marked advantage. The hearing here is a continuation of one opened in Columbus, O.

Testifying yesterday, B. F. Hoffacker, Pittsburgh mining engineer, said Ohio coal has a higher volatile content, more ash and moisture and less fixed carbon content than coal from the Pittsburgh, Connellsville and Southern West Virginia fields.

His testimony was intended to refute previous testimony that competing fields are able to produce coal of a generally similar quality to Ohio's.

Urging that the House pass legislation relaxing the Sherman anti-trust laws, Congressman Clyde Kelly, of Braddock, declared cut-throat competition is ruining the coal mining industry and "monopoly without protection for the public" will not remedy the situation.

SEIZED ROBBING NUMBERS MAN

A different kind of raid was made early today upon the confectionery of "Hunky Joe" Lewandowski at 2200 Arlington avenue, described by police as the lottery baron of the South Side.

Searching the confectionery on a "tip" a radio police car crew found Jerry Williams, 17, of Houston, Tex., they said, hiding under a counter.

Police said his pockets were filled with playing cards, cigarets and cigars. He also had $2. A companion is being sought. Entry had been effected through a broken window in the rear of the store.

Last week, Lewandowski's son, Aloysius, was held for court on a lottery charge after a hearing in Morals Court.

5 HELD IN AUTO LOOTING

Suspected of stripping automobiles parked in North Side streets, seven youths were being questioned in North Side Police Station early today. Two were arrested a short time after police said, they were caught robbing the car of Robert Fries, of 1632 East Ohio street, escaping in an automobile after holding Fries at bay with a revolver.

Later, two youths, who gave their names as Anthony Bittner, 24, of 3113 Spring Garden avenue, and Benedick Skasik, 21, of 520 Emlin way, were arrested by radio police at Chestnut and East Ohio streets. They were in a car which, police said, answered the description given by Fries.

A short time later five other youths were arrested as suspects in the looting of an automobile owned by City Detective William McCready, while McCready was attending a boxing show in Western avenue several days ago. The five were docketed as Louis Farrell, 17, 802 Tobin street; William Putz, 19, 1202 Howard street; Robert Boiner, 17, rear of 807 East street; Richard Danner, 30, 1401 Howard street, and Leo Ryan, 22, of 1525 Cambel way, North Side.

STREET LIGHT PACT REJECTED

Duquesne City Council last night rejected a five-year street lighting contract offered by the Duquesne Light Company. For five years the city has been paying $26,000 annually for street lighting, but this year only $9,200 has been appropriated.

Mayor James Crawford, backed by Council, said:

"They can supply street lighting for the money we want to pay or turn out the lights. That's final."

No representative from the Duquesne Light Company was present at the meeting.

Michael Herrington and John Ruby were appointed to fill vacancies in the police force caused when John Nelson was discharged and M. J. Shaughnessy resigned.

MAN BELIEVED HIT-RUN VICTIM

Martin H. Scholl, 71, of 7120 Edgerton street, was in Pittsburgh Hospital today with a broken nose, a probable skull fracture and lacerations, apparently a victim of a hit-and-run motorist, according to homicide detectives.

Scholl was found lying on a lawn of a residence in Richland lane last night by two boys who notified a neighbor. The victim questioned at the hospital, was unable to explain how he received the injuries, police said.

Police theorized Scholl had been struck by a hit-and-run car while crossing the street and hurled onto the lawn. His condition was serious.

Farmer Opens Fire On Chicken Thieves

Smith, believing he had injured one, called police. Although the chicken house door was peppered with shotgun pellets, no trace of the marauders was found.

GLEASON LAST OF ORIOLES ON FIELD

THE FAMOUS OLD Baltimore Orioles are now only a memory on major league ball fields. The death of Kid Gleason, coach of the A's, removed the last of them from the actual playing field in the big show. With Gleason gone to join Hughey Jennings, Willie Keeler, and Dan Brouthers in the Beyond, and Wilbert Robinson back in the minors, the only members of the three-time champions of 1894-95-96 still connected with major league clubs are John McGraw and Jack Doyle, and neither appears on the playing lot, McGraw being a Giant executive and Doyle a Cub scout. Seven of the famous ouñt managed other major league clubs after their Oriole days—Ned Hanlon, McGraw, Robinson, Jennings, Gleason, Joe Kelley and Frank Bowerman. Doyle managed the Giants before going to Baltimore.

John J. McGraw

Gleason, 67, and one of the last of the old baseball guard, was a pitcher when he joined the Phillies from Mt. Carmel in 1888, subsequently being converted into a fine second baseman. He went to the St. Louis Nationals in 1892, and then on to the Orioles and Giants and back to the Phillies before going to the American League, where he managed the White Sox from 1919 to 1923 prior to becoming one of Connie Mack's lieutenants to complete 45 years of major league service.

THE BASEBALL TRAINING layout for the coming spring is now complete, and the list of practice sites selected shows that 12 of the 16 major league clubs are sticking to their 1932 spots.

The Dodgers will shift from Clearwater to Miami; the Tigers, from Palo Alto to San Antonio; the White Sox from San Antonio to Pasadena, and the Red Sox, from Savannah to Sarasota. Nine clubs will train in Florida, four in California, and one each in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

FOLLOWING IS THE complete list of training sites:

NATIONAL LEAGUE	AMERICAN LEAGUE
Pirates—Paso Robles, Cal.	Yankees—St. Petersburg, Fla.
Cubs—Catalina Island, Cal.	Athletics—Fort Myers, Fla.
Giants—Los Angeles, Cal.	Senators—Biloxi, Miss.
Dodgers—Miami, Fla.	Indians—New Orleans, La.
Phillies—Winter Haven, Fla.	Browns—West Palm Beach, Fla.
Cardinals—Bradenton, Fla.	White Sox—Pasadena, Cal.
Reds—Tampa, Fla.	Red Sox—Sarasota, Fla.

ONE OF THE few former football players ever to make good in a big way in major league baseball is Frankie Frisch, of the Cardinals. He played on the gridiron as well as on the diamond for Fordham before entering professional baseball as a Giant in 1919 and he has never lost his love for the pigskin sport. Frisch has followed football closely ever since he left it, and admits that he has a hankering to go back to the fall pastime as a coach when his active baseball days are over, though the guess of most fans is that he will stay right in the big diamond show as a manager.

Tuss McLaughry

WHILE HE DID not present it as a recommendation to the rules committee while the football coaches were in session in New York last week, Tuss McLaughry, Westminster product now coaching with great success at Brown, offers a suggestion on the side that will be heartily approved by many followers of the game.

It is not a new idea, as it has been advanced many times without success, but it may have a chance to get somwhere now with a figure of McLaughry's prominence behind it. The proposal is to do away with the kickoff at the start of the second half, and have the ball put in play where it was at the end of the first half.

IF A TEAM rushes the ball to a point near the enemy's goal line at the end of the first quarter, it gets a chance to continue its drive from that point when the second period starts. It's the same at the end of the third quarter.

But if the rush is made just before the first half expires, all that gain is taken away from the attacking side and the ball goes back to the kickoff point for the second half. Tuss argues, and rightly, that often it may cause the loss of a touchdown or the loss of a game.

M'LAUGHRY IS SO fine a sportsman that it may be taken for granted he is speaking for the general good and is not actuated by his own team's defeat, but it is true that, if he cared to do so, the Brown coach could cite the experience of his eleven against Colgate on Thanksgiving Day as an example of how unfairly the present rule may work out. In the final minutes of the second quarter, Brown had rushed the ball to a point within inches of the Colgate goal line, but was deprived of almost a certain touchdown by the expiration of half time. A score at that juncture probably would have changed the complexion of the entire game, but the ball had to go back for a new kickoff, and Brown's great drive was wasted and Colgate won out. It would be only fair to put the ball in scrimmage in the third period at the same point where it was when half time expired, with the same side holding it, down and distance remaining unchanged.

IT'S HARD TO keep an old-time basketball player out of the game. Sooner or later he'll try to break back in again. The latest to yield once more to the lure of the floor sport is James (Soup) Campbell, well remembered hereabouts as a Homestead star of the bygone.

Campbell is going to try a comeback in the Eastern League, in which he was a standout for many seasons. He has joined the WPEN team, representing a Philadelphia radio station, and Coach Allie McWilliams hopes to build a strong five around the veteran. Campbell holds the rank of the highest scoring forward ever to play basketball.

ARE THE RACE horses of today as fast in the matter of actual sprinting as those of a decade or two ago? W. C. Vreeland reports a negative verdict coming out of a discussion of the question by a group of Eastern racing men.

The majority voted for such horses as Man o' War, Sysonby, Colin, Osmund, Chance Play, Mad Hatter, High Noon, Iron Mask, Dr. Mund, Kingston, Banaster, Voter and Octagon as against the present-day crop of Equipoise, Hygro, Burning Blaze, Jack High, Hi-Jack, Vander Pool, Flying Heels, Mr. Sponge, Epithet and others of the sprinting brigade.

Clarence Kummer

OF THE TWO divisions, Man o' War and Equipoise were voted the kingpins. Though some maintained that Colin had no equal, and that Gallant Fox over routes and distances was greater than Man o' War, the latter got the vote for sheer speed, by reason of his brilliant performances through 1919 and 1920, when Clarence Kummer and Johnny Loftus rode him to many sensational victories. In 21 starts, Man o' War won 20 times and was second once, and five American time records still standing to his credit are likely to remain in existence for years to come. But while giving the vote to Man o' War as the speedster without a peer at various distances, the horsemen conceded that the only thoroughbred they had ever seen step one furlong in time as fast as 10 seconds was Sysonby.

YOUNG MENTOR TO GET BIG PAY BOOST

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—James H. Crowley—"Sleepy Jim" of Notre Dame fame—has been appointed head football coach at Fordham University.

Announcement that Crowley, head coach at Michigan State for the past four years, had signed a three-year contract was made last night by Jack Coffey, graduate manager of athletics at Fordham. He succeeds Maj. Frank Cavanaugh, who resigned two weeks ago.

Coffey declined to reveal salary terms, but it was understood Crowley would receive about $11,000 a year, some $3,000 more than he was paid by Michigan State.

GETS CONTRACT RELEASE

A star in the famous Four Horsemen backfield of the Notre Dame team of 1924, Crowley's contract at Michigan State had still another year to run, but he obtained his release, effective February 28.

He will have a free hand in naming his assistants. His chief aide, it was revealed, will be Glen Carberry, captain of the Notre Dame team of 1922, and Crowley's assistant at Michigan State. Others will be selected later, but whether or not Hiker Joy Cavanaugh's first lieutenant, would be retained was not known.

Crowley will find a ready-made team awaiting him when he takes charge. Of the powerful, but inexperienced eleven which lost only two games last season, only one regular, Joe Zapustas, will be graduated. The Rams will tackle a formidable schedule with major games against West Virginia, Boston College, Alabama, St. Mary's of Oakland, New York University and Oregon State.

HAS FINE RECORD

Crowley made the Notre Dame team of 1922 and was a regular in 1923, but gained his principal football-playing fame as a member of that great backfield combination of 1924. Rounding out that quartet were Harry Stuhldreher, Elmer Layden and Don Miller.

After his graduation, Crowley was signed as an assistant coach at the University of Georgia and then was called to Michigan State as head coach in 1929. In his four-year tenure there, the Spartans won 22 games, lost eight and tied three.

THE GREAT OUTDOORS

—By GIB MARSH—

While the trapshooting sport may not attract recruits this year in the same large numbers as formerly, there is no doubt that the new form of clay target breaking, skeet shooting, will increase its patronage. Already it commands thousands of devotees, having added thousands to its rolls during the past year. It is a sport of merit, includes just the practice the average hunter desires to improve his skill as a field shooter and provides a splendid form of competition.

A round of skeet, 25 targets, provides all forms of wing shooting, duplicating the flights of the quail, woodcock, grouse and the pointing necessary in waterfowl shooting. Now the trapshooting sport does not include those forms of practice, probably with the exception of quail shooting. When quail take flight they fly straight away or offer a quartering angle shot. These two shots are provided in trapshooting. The flight of the grouse or waterfowl are not possible in practice for the average small game hunter who desires to become an expert field shot.

In skeet shooting the sportsman uses his field gun, constructed for upland game hunting, probably 26-inch barrels, boring of cylinder and improved cylinder, throwing wide patterns and with more drop of stock and pitch of barrels than the regulation trapshooting gun. Trap guns are of straighter dimensions and unfitted for any other service except trapshooting.

Expert trapshots would experience a lot of trouble in scoring 25 straight hits at skeet without some practice. And there are many experts at skeet who could not compete favorably with the expert trapshooters.

The leading features of skeet shooting are that it includes all forms of wing shooting, straightaway and quartering singles, hard-thrown, incoming targets overhead, which is a difficult shot and also doubles, just the practice the ambitious small game hunter desires. Skeet shooting now is under national control. National and state championships are held annually. Skeet ranges have been established in all localities where groups of sportsmen reside and at country clubs.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE MARTYRDOM OF A FINANCIAL GIANT—In the tragedy of his life's conflicting climaxes one cannot conceive of a figure more extraordinary than that of James Swan, Boston merchant prince, American patriot and lieutenant colonel in the War of 1776. Having emigrated to America from his native Scotland at an early age, he soon acquired great wealth and influence in his adopted country. Between 1776 and 1783, the French government of Louis XVI had made a series of loans to the United States, which by common agreement were fixed at a total of 11,156,473 livres, or $2,024,900—January 25, 1795. The liquidation of this debt was most extraordinary. Swan assumed the entire debt of the United States and single-handedly extinguished it, so that he was able to report on July 9, 1795, that "the entire American debt has been paid and does not exist any more." Thirteen years after this gigantic undertaking, the French authorities cast Swan into a debtor's prison, where he spent the last 22 years of his life, 1808-1830, rather than pay a commercial judgment for $150,000, which he considered unjust. When Swan emerged from his record imprisonment the bells of revolutionary freedom again were ringing for France, but the sturdy old patrician only survived his liberation by three days, dying July 31, 1830. A SNAKE BIRD—The English wryneck also is known as the "snakebird" for the curious way in which it twists its head around, hissing most vigorously, darting out his two-inch tongue and spreading out the feathers on its head.

GAMES TONIGHT

Thiel vs. Alumni at Greenville.
Waynesburg vs. Fairmont at Waynesburg.
West Virginia vs. Salem at Morgantown.
Penn State vs. Susquehanna at State College.

By JESS CARVER

"What my team needs is a licking. I can't tell 'em anything more. They know it all. What a life!"

So spake Coach Chick Davies, of the Dukes, between halves of the inaugural tilt last week with Adrian College, a game eventually won by the Dukes with points to spare. Last night, in the Pitt Stadium Pavilion, Westminster's classy Titan quintet obliged Chick as the United Presbyterians and Dukes resumed court relations after a two-year layoff.

Today, the Dukes are nursing the sting of a 25-to-23 defeat, served up by a well-drilled and accomplished Westminster team and are wondering if it might not have been just as well to have put off for another year resuming relations with the Titans. With the season only started, Duquesne hopes of an unbeaten record have gone smash and the Titans held the center of the district spotlight.

TITANS SHOW CLASS

The Titans won last night through the simple expedient of scoring the most points. Maybe their passing wasn't as good and maybe their ball handling as pretty to watch as that of Messers MacDougall and Reiter, but they fetched home the points and the ball game and it happens they still are paying off on the most points.

Led by a brace of clever forwards, Gerald Newton and Bill Douglass, the Titans stepped out in front to an early lead and with the exception of a short minute early in the second half when the Dukes led at 15 to 14, were either even with the favored locals or a point or so to the good. The count was tied on six occasions, but every time the deadlock was broken, it was a Titan who broke it.

Marty Reiter, highly touted guard of the Dukes, was assigned to the task of watching Newton, but the lithe Titan grabbed off five points in short order and put Marty on the spot by causing him to commit three personal fouls and necessitating his being taken out of the action and held in reserve until the very last minute. When he did get in, he missed a foul try and was fooled by Newton on another field goal.

DOUGLASS' POINTS WIN

Westminster led at 14 to 12 at the half. The teams battled on even terms until the last three minutes of play, when four consecutive foul tosses by Douglass put Westminster four points to the good. Art Feldman let a long one go from near the middle of the court to cut the advantage to two points just before the final gun.

The Dukes tried to take the ball in close past the sturdy zone defense set up by the rangy Titans and failed. Westminster, on the other hand, popped away from outside and from the corners with telling, and to the Dukes, disastrous effect.

Newton tallied 10 points and Douglass eight for the Titans. Capt. Bunk McGeever led the home forces with six.

The lineup:

PANTHERS HEAD FOR HOME

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 4.—Tired and not very cheerful, the Pitt Panthers are scheduled to begin their homeward trek this noon, leaving Pasadena for Williams, Arizona, where tomorrow a full day's stop at the Grand Canyon will be made.

The Panthers have been pretty busy after suffering their crushing defeat at the hands of Southern California, a banquet the evening of the game and a sightseeing tour yesterday taking up all of the time.

VISIT MOVIE LOTS

Yesterday's sights were confined to those to be seen in the Hollywood movie studios, where the Pitt party was taken by Regis Toomey and Joe E. Brown.

Before leaving this morning some of the Pitt group made a trip to San Pedro to see the battle fleet of the United States Navy.

The Panthers are leaving California still high in the graces of local sports critics, despite their defeat. Warren Heller was classed by Southern California gridders as the best halfback they hit all year, and the big argument around town is as to which was the better end, Ted Dailey or Muggsy Skladany.

PITT FIGHT LAUDED

The fight put up by the Panthers in face of heavy odds, and despite the succession of cruel breaks, won the admiration of all who saw the game.

Of course, it's hard to tell people back home who didn't see the game, that Pitt deserved a better break and really had the Trojans scared for three quarters, but such actually was the case.

SPORT VIGNETTES

When Pitt lost to Southern California, 47-14, in the Rose Bowl game three years ago, everybody said it wouldn't happen again . . . It didn't . . . It was two points worse, 35-0, last Monday . . . The reaction is swell, if you like arguments . . . Everybody has his own pet theory of what happened to the boys and what should have been done and what was done that was wrong, etc.

If you didn't get your letter on the subject in the mail before five minutes before last midnight, it won't be considered . . . Everybody already has taken pen and pencil and typewriter in hand to beat you to the postoffice, anyway . . . And just when the poor letter carriers were looking for a letdown after the holiday rush.

There's the fellow who wants the scalp of Head Coach Jock Sutherland because this thing happened again . . . Another one says they ought to let Jock stay as line coach, because he always was a good line coach, and then comes a dissenting voice, which says what the heck, didn't Jock himself say after the game the Southern Cal. line overpowered his forwards? . . . Then there's the fellow who has it all doped out that Pitt played a dopey sort of a game from the start and didn't deserve a better fate . . . How about that pass for the first touchdown which got away from Sebastian, and how about those fumbles and that blocked kick and Heller passing over the end zone into the next county on second down after Weisenbaugh's long run had put the Panthers in a position to drive on for a tieing score in the first half? . . . What? Southern Cal. got all the breaks? . . . Well, did you ever hear of a winner that didn't? . . . A winner makes its own breaks, or so they say.

Come to think of it, with what was Pitt supposed to win this football game? . . . Even if it had held the Trojans scoreless, how was it going to win? . . . Including this game, the Panthers scored only two touchdowns in their last four starts, one against Carnegie Tech and the other one against Stanford, and none against Nebraska or Southern Cal. . . . And how about the weather? Is that an alibi, or isn't it? . . . Well, it all depends upon whether you win or lose. . . A smart answer, that.

Then up speaks Joe Malone to ask how about giving the boys a big hand, anyway; they played bangup football for three quarters, and after that the ball game didn't exist so far as they were concerned. . . . Sure, why not a big hand for those first three quarters? . . . And don't forget they went through a tough schedule undefeated to earn this Rose Bowl game (a fine reward when you have to play those Trojans). . . . Anybody can cheer for a winner, but it takes a good sport to stick with a fellow who drops one once in a while . . . The trip back home'll be long enough for the boys. . . . No use asking 'em to explain, the result was up there on the scoreboard for all to read, and the last thing the players will appreciate is sympathy.

Everybody seemingly got a big kick out of the broadcast of the Rose Bowl game this year . . . Even Carl Shatto, of this sports department, who was all thrilled with the break the announcers

W. VA., LIONS IN OPENERS

West Virginia and Penn State inaugurate their 1933 basketball campaigns tonight with home tussles; Thiel faces its alumni in the '33 opener at Greenville and Waynesburg's Yellow Jackets play their second game of the season, meeting Fairmont in a return battle at Waynesburg.

The Mountaineers have a tough one on hand in Salem. Penn State engages Susquehanna as a new coach and a new system is introduced by the Lions.

Here in Pittsburgh, Coach Max Hannum, of Carnegie Tech, is drilling his Tartan quintet hard in preparation for the inaugural Saturday with West Virginia at Morgantown. Hannum has cut his squad to 14 men, all of whom will be carried throughout the season. It is unlikely that Red Fergus and Lou Jagnow, star members of the troupe, will be able to play Saturday, and Red Silverman was injured in practice Monday and may be out of the action against the Mountaineers.

Athletic Director Frank Wolf, of Waynesburg, has added Juniata to the Yellow Jacket court card, the game to be played at Waynesburg February 9. The wrestling match with West Virginia, originally scheduled for January 6, has been moved back to January 25.

Bill Kern, assistant coach and scout at Pitt; Jimmy DeHart, present mentor at Wash-Lee and former Duke University coach; Cal Hubbard, former Geneva end star, and Gus Welch, assistant coach at Virginia, have been added to the list of those after the head football coaching job at Geneva.

It was rumored today that if Hubbard was signed, that Red Grange would assist Cal for the first month of the season.

SEALS TO GIVE TENNIS TALK

A talk on the plans of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association for the year, preceding its annual meeting next week, by Paul G. Sullivan, secretary of the association and tennis, squash and handball writer for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, will feature the weekly radio program of the Trained Seals of the sports department of the Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight.

Herb McGee, WCAE announcer, will tell of his mythical career as a six-day bicycle racer in another of his series of believe it or not sports adventures. Harry [illegible], sports editor, will be ceremonies and Miss M[illegible]mon will be at the pian[illegible].

TUNNEY REVEALS PLOT TO DISCREDIT HIS VICTORIES

WILLS CLIQUE TRIES TO HALT TITLE DRIVE

In previous chapters, the author has described his career from active-fisted days as a Greenwich Village office boy, through New York fight clubs prior to the war, his winning of the A. E. F. light-heavyweight championship as a U. S. Marine, his capturing that American professional ring title via victory over Battling Levinsky and his loss of it, badly whipped in one of the bloodiest contests ever fought in old Madison Square Garden, to Harry Greb early in 1922. After a rest and several good tune-up bouts, Gene changed managers (paying Doc Bagley $5,000 for his contract and signing with Billy Gibson) and finally cornered Greb for a return bout in the spring of 1923. Gene regained the crown, winning a close decision from Greb in 1923, repeating decisively in a third encounter; and during the summer of 1924 he stopped Erminio Spalla, European heavy champ, and Georges Carpentier in thrilling open air bouts at New York City. Financing of the latter match led to friction with Jimmy Johnston and also with the New York State Athletic Commission. In their final (fifth) meeting, Greb concedes Tunney's mastery and Gene finally schedules bout with Tommy Gibbons for June 5, 1925.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

All during the year of 1924 and the early part of 1925, Gibbons gave me no rest. He hurled challenges and defies at me wherever he went. I bided my time. I did not feel I was ready for him in 1923 or 1924.

Gene Tunney

Though Gibbons was unaware of it, I was training to fight him from early 1923. Under the pretext that I wanted Jock Malone to help me train for the second Grab match, I sent to St. Paul for him. I knew that Jock boxed a great deal with Tommy Gibbons and believed he was acquainted with his style. I asked Jock numerous questions and had him demonstrate the different blows that Gibbons used. I never told Jock the reason of my curiosity. I had a close friend secretly ask Jock what he thought my chances would be against Gibbons. Jock said:

PRIMED FOR GIBBONS

I practiced defenses and counter offenses for Tommy Gibbons' lead and punches almost constantly. On my long hikes I would practically shadow-box the whole distance imagining situations that might occur in a ring with Gibbons. In 1924, having learned that Jimmy Delaney helped train Gibbons for his Carpentier match at Michigan City, I sent to St. Paul for him to help me train for my match with Carpentier. I was looking for any added information I might get about Gibbons. Jimmy Delaney was of great help. He also knew Tommy very well. His style, caused by constantly boxing with Tommy, took on some of the Gibbons mannerisms. With the added information I got from Delaney, I felt that I knew Tommy Gibbons.

On June 5, 1925, when Gibbons walked into the ring, he never suspected I had had him in a test tube for over three years. To have his feints and leads foiled and blocked was baffling to him. He could not understand how he was being beaten to the punch. Not only was he baffled, but his seconds, newspapermen and the ringsiders all shared in the confusion. Tommy was so completely routed and beaten that when the final knockout blow came in the twelfth round, he seemed to accept it as inevitable.

TOMMY SURPRISED

Gibbons had a keen fighting brain and realized he was being whipped at every department of the game. Even his famous double-feint and slip-in with a terrific left hook to the liver or chin, as his opponent would paw out a left hand to protect himself, was foiled every time. I knew after the second feint that Tommy would advance his left foot, slip in with his head down and try landing that awful jolt with his left. Before the left could get started I would drop a short right in on his forehead or left eye and then step back out of danger. This particular trick of Tommy's was his stock in trade. After landing several of these terrific lefts on an opponent's liver eventually the recipient would drop his elbow to protect himself from an expected repetition, whereupon Tommy never failed to change the attack from the liver to the chin. That is why at one time he had about 20 straight knockouts, most of them in one or two rounds.

HEAT IS INTENSE

The night of June 5, 1925, was the hottest June fifth in New York since weather records have been kept. Added to the natural heat was that of the powerful Kleig lights above the ring which had been installed to take moving pictures of the match. The canvas covering on the ring was as hot as a griddle. I had blisters on both feet at the end of the first round and a dull headache from the second to the finish. I have never experienced such heat or discomfort. Fortunately, it did not seem to affect my execution. I realized that it was just as hard on my opponent, and, having had an advantage in age, I made myself believe it was worse for him.

For that fight I weighed 181½ and Gibbons about the same. Knocking out Gibbons in 12 rounds, which Dempsey had failed to do in 15, boosted my stock tremendously. It brought my name to the attention of the boxing world. Even Dempsey cabled me contratulations from Germany, where he was engaged in a series of exhibition matches. For a while it put into the shadow the dark, menacing figure of Harry Wills, the Boxing Commission's pet challenger. It also disappointed and made uneasy several of the split-commission men who had "pieces" of Harry Wills.

WILLS COHORTS FRANTIC

The newspapers began the next day to talk about a Dempsey-Tunney match. One tabloid in an editorial demanded that Dempsey come back from Europe to fight me. The chiselers around Harry Wills became frantic. Something must be done to get Tunney out of the picture. He was menacing the "dark menace's" chances. Here Harry had been put in a position of comparative security by the Boxing Commission and now this upstart, Tunney, had come along to threaten the best-laid schemes of the kindly parasites hoping to live off the Negro. Something must be done to discredit him.

Then were started the most cowardly and contemptible whisperings:

"Didn't you know Gibbons took a dive for Tunney?" "It was in the bag, I tell you." "They're building Tunney up for a Dempsey fight." "Dempsey'll kill him if the public ever stands for the match, but it won't."

The whole thing was preposterous, and no one knew it better than Tex Rickard. There is a peculiar absence of any appreciation of ethical standards among certain elements of the boxing game. It might be added, however, that this particular development does not seem to be entirely monopolized by the boys of the boxing profession. Everyone knows that to engage in any boxing contest where people have paid to see a fight and not to put forth one's best efforts is to take money under false pretenses. It is fraudulent. Such a spectacle is a fake. Yet there have been a few prominent fighters who would rather have the public believe they had been faking than that they tried their best and failed.

DISCOUNTS ALIBIS

As an example of this, there was the Jack Johnson-Jess Willard fight in Havana, Cuba. Six years earlier, Johnson, at the age of 34, at the peak of his prowess, met and defeated Jim Jeffries, who had been termed by the press agents "the hope of the white race." During the intervening six years, Johnson, as far as dissipation went, lived 60 years. He traveled to the capitals of Europe, being wined and dined by the officials, sportsmen and shady characters of every country. He never took the trouble to train. In his 20-round fight with Frank Moran, in July, 1914, in Paris, he entered the ring fat and out of condition. Moran, a comparative novice, went 20 rounds with him and was never in danger of being knocked down.

One year later, in Havana, he met a bigger man than Moran, one who had trained conscientiously with good heavyweights for a whole year in preparation for the fight. Jess Willard was six inches taller than Johnson and had an advantage of 20 pounds in weight and about a foot in reach. Johnson was at least 40 and unable to get into condition. He was fighting a young, strong, well-trained, 240-pound giant. It has been said Johnson intentionally lost the fight. Johnson subsequently in an autobiography, "My Fights and Loves," confesses it was a fake. It always has seemed strange to me that he went 26 rounds in a broiling hot Cuban sun before taking the dive. The fact of the matter, as I see it, is that Johnson realized he could not knock out this young fellow or make him quit, so quit himself. Yet he would rather have "admirers" and fans believe he sold out than that he was all washed up. One has only to understand physical condition to appreciate the nonsense of Johnson's so-called confession.

A PECULIAR CODE

At this writing, there is a rumor going the rounds which Jack Sharkey has made no attempt to stop. It attempts to deprive little Mickey Walker of a hard-earned, honestly-won victory (though the official decision was a draw) over Sharkey, by saying that Sharkey was "under wraps."

Another element of professional boxing that adheres to the "highest" code of ethics can be found among the managers. There is a certain group of these fellows who like to be known as shrewd, cunning pilots. They are more jealous of a reputation for cunning than for honesty. These managers hate to make a match in which their fighters unexpectedly lose. This is a reflection on their cunning and ability. When a rumor starts—which occasionally they see to—that one of their fighters was "under wraps," or faked a fight, they make no attempt to check it, but rather acquiesce by a knowing wink or refusal to discuss the thing. To be mysterious is to be considered wise, they reason.

Read tomorrow how the late Tex Rickard "kiddingly" told Tunney, "You are going to win the championship from Dempsey" when negotiating that match with Gene and Gibson: how Tunney offered to fight Wills and how the latter refused to battle any topnotcher save the then champion.

BOOTERS AWAIT TITLE CLASH

With the title in the Central District Soccer League as the prize, the Lawrenceville and Clan Douglas elevens are booked to battle at Leslie Park Saturday afternoon.

As matters stand at present, Douglas can win the title by beating the Strip aggregation, but this situation may be changed, for Mt. Lebanon has lodged a protest over a game lost to Lawrenceville. If this protest is allowed, then the Strip team will have to win on Saturday to force the issue into a playoff status.

Gleason Funeral Services Saturday

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Funeral services for William (Kid) Gleason, coach of the Philadelphia Athletics, who died here Monday night, will be held here at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Robb. Burial will be at Northwood cemetery.

The services will be attended by the entire Philadelphia team, including Manager Connie Mack, and John J. McGraw, former manager of the New York Giants and team mate of Gleason on the old Baltimore Orioles.

Ponzi Holds Lead Over Cue Champion

COLLEGE QUITS GRID

WILMINGTON, O., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The board of trustees of Wilmington College yesterday voted to abolish football from the school's 1933 sports program. The action was recommended by Dr. Walter L. Collins, president, who said a survey had shown the game was not paying for ... He indicated it may be revived depression."

GARDEN SIGNS THREE BOUTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Three matches that have been under consideration, definitely have been closed by Madison Square Garden.

The first is one between Frank Battaglia, Winnipeg, and Ben Jeby, who were signed for a 15-round bout January 13. Jimmy Johnston, Garden promoter, will ask the New York Boxing Commission to designate it as a title fight.

Billy Petrolle, the Fargo Express, and Bep Van Klaveren, of Holland, were signed for a 10-round scrap to be held January 20.

ROSS TO BOX PETROLLE

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Should the terms be satisfactory to Billy Petrolle, he will meet Barney Ross, the Chicago lightweight, in a 10-round bout at the Stadium here, January 27, it was announced today. Ross already has accepted the match.

Stagg's Condition Is 'Satisfactory'

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The condition of Amos Alonzo Stagg, suffering from bronchial pneumonia, was reported "unchanged and satisfactory" at the Medical Arts Sanitarium today.

A clearing up of the congestion in Stagg's chest was reported by Dr. Max Rohde last night. Dr. Rohde said if the veteran football coach continued to improve at the same rate he should be out of danger in two or three days.

Stanford to Name Coach Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Stanford's board of athletic control is due to go into a huddle down on the Indian campus tomorrow and come out with the name of the successor to Glenn S. (Pop.) Warner as head football coach.

CITY LEAGUERS BAN VISITING STUDENTS

By JULIUS LEVIN

Owing to the lack of seating facilities, the members of the City High School Basketball League have adopted a rule whereby all games will be limited to home school students.

In past years a limited number of students from the visiting school was permitted to see the games away from home. In many instances students of the home school were denied admittance when the visiting students gained possession of the available seats.

As each team plays one game at home and one abroad with all members, the new rule should not work a hardship to the students enrolled in the City League schools.

The City League, like the W. P. I. A. L., has discarded the 10-second rule.

SCOTT WINS NINTH

John A. Reed's Scott High, of North Braddock, basketball team, W. P. I. A. L. and state champions two years ago, has compiled as fine a record as any team in the district during the pre-campaign tussling, which was concluded last night.

The Scott passers won their ninth game in a row and in as many starts by beating Munhall, 41 to 19, last night.

In other games, Wilkinsburg broke into the victory column by beating Allegheny, 17 to 14; Crafton took over the alumni, 21 to 20; Ambridge evened matters with Swissvale, winning a return game at Ambridge, 21 to 19; Braddock defeated Norwin, 34 to 20; Rankin downed Central Catholic, 27 to 22; Freedom beat Mars, 24 to 13; East McKeesport walloped Franklin Township, 37 to 8; Homestead upset Canonsburg, 27 to 25; East Pittsburgh trimmed Springdale, 23 to 14; Turtle Creek won over Pitcairn, 24 to 15, and Har-Brack downed Ford City, 24 to 21.

KEN HIGH VICTOR

New Kensington defeated Vandergrift, 40 to 24; Waynesburg nosed out Mapletown, 13 to 11; the alumni took over Butler, 21 to 19, and New Castle also lost to its alumni, 23 to 21; Oakmont won from Avalon, 30 to 22; California took over Bentleyville, 27 to 13; Edgewood beat Aspinwall, 28 to 8; Washington beat Charleroi, 17 to 8; Monessen won from Centerville, 26 to 15, and Claysville toppled Hickory, 50 to 19.

WOLVERINES RATE AT TOP

(Editors' note: Prof. Frank G. Dickinson, of the University of Illinois, whose system of picking a national football champion has created a storm of controversy, in the following article explains why he cannot change his decision giving the 1932 title to the University of Michigan.)

By PROF. FRANK G. DICKINSON.

(Written Expressly For and Copyrighted by International News Service, Inc.)

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Jan. 4.—(INS.)—If I lived on the Pacific Coast it would be difficult for anyone to convince me that the 1932 gridiron season ended several weeks ago, even before Thanksgiving for some colleges.

Being a football fan, I would enjoy a good football game no matter when or where it was played. Because post-season competition is denied most colleges by tradition and climate, it is obviously unfair to allow colleges in mild weather areas additional chances to win national honors. A Michigan-Colgate-Purdue series would have been interesting.

Having witnessed the 1929 and 1932 Rose Bowl games, I am convinced that teams do not play November football in January.

Although it is somewhat paradoxical for me to exclude post-season games and in the same paragraph answer your editors' question regarding the effect of last Monday's splendid and surprisingly decisive victory upon Southern California's national rating, I will answer it.

Howard Jones knew on December 14 that victory in Monday's game would add enough "points" to place U. S. C. at the top in my rating if I would include post-season games.

Also, Washington State would have become one of the first 11 teams. But I don't rate post-season games.

U. S. C. RATED CHAMP

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—After spending about $1,500 and wearing out a voice recording machine in correspondence with coaches, William F. Boand, author of the Azzi rating system, figures Southern California is the national football champion for 1932.

The system strikes an average between 0 and 200 for each team's season performance. Here's how they finished in Boand's ratings:

Southern California, 166; Michigan, 158; Purdue, 151; Pittsburgh, 150; Texas Christian, 143.4; Tennessee, 142.4; Notre Dame, 138.8; Colgate, 136.1; Auburn, 134.1; Centenary, 133.7.

SCHOOL STAR WEDS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 4.—Lou Bell, one of the stars of the Canonsburg High School basketball team, has married Miss Muriel Young, of Canonsburg, it was revealed here today. The marriage service was performed December 29. The W. P. I. A. L. has ruled Musser will be eligible for schools sports teams.

IOWA STARS ELIGIBLE

IOWA CITY, Ia., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The University of Iowa board of athletics last night reinstated Ivan Blackmer and Edward Break, two Hawkeye basketball stars, and declared them eligible for further competition pending investigation by the Western Conference.

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The annual indoor athletic meet and national interscholastic track and field championships conducted by the Newark Athletic Club will not be held this year.

White Sox Drop Stripes, Seek Better Luck

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—No more superstitious ideas for Lou Comiskey and no more striped sox for his White Sox.

In midseason last year, the owner of the White Sox decided after some urging by superstitious friends that his team might get a change of fortune if the stockings of the players were set off with single red stripes instead of being plain white.

So for 1933, Owner Comiskey has ordered a return to the plain white stocking. The suits for home play will be plain white, with gray ones worn on the road.

DUAL WINDUP AT ARENA

There'll be a double windup at the Arena, on the North Side, Friday night, with Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, being matched with Frankie Jarr, of Fort Wayne, Ind., in the first 10-rounder.

Battling Gizzy, stablemate of Thomas, boxes Louis DiSantis, of Cleveland, in the main bout. An opponent is being sought for Curley Klaas in the second bout, and Petey Jahn meets Shorty Washko in the opener.

Between Rounds

Motor Square Garden was supposed to use Moose Rutch against Fidel LaBarba, Pete Sanstol or Lew Feldman next Monday night, but, on account of the poor turnout for its New Years night show, it probably will cancel the arrangements and remain dark.

James (Red) Mason, former local fight manager, now residing in Chicago, has a half interest in Frankie O'Brien, who knocked out Tait Litman in two rounds at Milwaukee, Monday night, and would like to bring him here for a fight with Frankie Goosby.

Ray Lyle is in good health again and would like to box Davy Grove or Billy Hoist here. His brother, Mickey, a 160-65-pounder, also is ready for action. They are managed by Bill Heckman, who also is handling Casey Rhodes, Georgie Schlee and Sammy Burns.

Ray Winbush, Negro welterweight, of the Hill, who has beaten Max Elling, Tony Constantino and Joey Speigal in recent starts, is seeking bouts. And why not?

PHILS RELEASE FRIBERG

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Barney Friberg, who came to the Phillies in June, 1925, after four years of work with the Chicago Cubs, today was unconditionally released. Friberg captained the Phils in 1931.

An overcrowded second base department was given as the explanation of Friberg's dismissal. Friberg, Delker and Mallon, with Finn and Warner, recently acquired from Brooklyn, gave the Phils five keystone sackers.

Friberg was a jack of all trades for the Phils, playing every infield and outfield post except catcher. He even pitched one game for the Phillies.

Local Man Qualifies In Miami Tourney

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 4.—E. B. Newland, of Pittsburgh, is playing his first-round match in the annual mid-winter amateur championship golf tournament over the Miami Country Club course today. He is opposing L. Jarrett, of Chicago, in the third flight. Newland qualified yesterday with a card of 48-43—91.

Matching par for the course, Tommy Goodwin, 19-year-old New York State amateur titleholder, won the medal by a four-stroke margin with 35-37—72.

VANITIES IN OHIO

The Goldenson Vanities will make their out-of-town bow tonight when they travel to Struthers, O., to meet the strong Booster Girls. This will be the second meeting of the teams and as the first game was decided by a four-point margin in favor of the local girls, the Ohio club will do its best to even the score.

HARPSTER SPEAKER

Howard Harpster, recently appointed head football coach at Carnegie Tech, will be the principal speaker at a banquet to be given the members of the New Castle High school football squad in New Castle tonight. Many former stars at New Castle will be among the guests.

SWIM HEADS TO MEET

The Pennsylvania Swimming Pools Association will hold its annual meeting tomorrow evening in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

CUT IN SALARY LOOMS FOR BABE RUTH

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—The New York Yankees may shave a few nickles off Babe Ruth's $75,000 salary for next season, but rumors that $25,000 might be whacked off seem to come under the head of speculation, pure and simple.

When told there were reports he would be offered $50,000 for 1933, Babe said:

"That wouldn't be a cut. That would be an amputation."

Ruth said he had, as yet, had no conversations whatever with Col. Jacob Ruppert over salary terms, but added that he expected to have no trouble coming to terms again.

Ruppert said he had not seen Ruth since the last game of the world series and had given no thought at all to the annual question of what salary to pay the big fellow.

The consensus among baseball men was that Ruth would not sign for less than $60,000 or $65,000 unless Ruppert should offer him a contract for more than one year.

The Babe signed a two-year contract at $80,000 a year for the 1930 and 1931 seasons but last season, when he took a $5,000 cut, the agreement was for only one year.

SPORTS PROBED AT HASKELL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—A report from the Indian Bureau stating in substance that the athletic staff of the Haskell Institute is overmanned was received today by Senator Bronson Cutting (Rep.) of New Mexico, who is conducting a private inquiry into the failure of the school's athletic association to renew the contract of Frank McDonald, athletic director.

Reports that the contract was not renewed because of McDonald's activities in connection with the Young Men's Democratic League of Kansas led friends of Cutting to call the case to his attention and suggest an inquiry, which is being conducted for him by Edgar Puryear, his secretary.

Wash-Jeff Likely To Drop Marquette

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 4.—Unexpected developments have taken place concerning Washington and Jefferson's 1933 football schedule, it has been announced, with a 1932 opponent to replace Marquette University, scheduled to have been played in Milwaukee, Wis., October 14.

It is thought that Marquette will give way to Detroit University, the game to be played at Detroit. The Tittans were returned to the W. & J. card in 1932 and the game drew a large crowd in the Motor City. W. & J. alumni in Detroit have expressed a desire for the teams to meet again in 1933 and it is expected that Detroit will replace Marquette on the October 14 date.

Sharkey's Manager Denies He'll Retire

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Johnny Buckley, manager of Jack Sharkey, heavyweight champion, today denied a report that the former sailor would retire after one more fight. He said:

"Only the other day Jack told me he intends to fight for five more years. Why should he quit when he's young and with all that easy dough in sight?"

HAWKS ELECT GRAHAM

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Teddy Graham, star defense player, has been named captain of the Chicago Blackhawks, of the National Hockey League. Graham succeeds Helge Bostrum, who was traded to the minor leagues last week.

HOLIDAY CASH CIRCULATION SMALLER

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—(AP.) — A striking financial phenomenon of the holiday season was the small amount of currency withdrawn from the banks.

In part, it presumably reflected a smaller volume of Christmas shopping, than in recent years, but lower prices also undoubtedly had much to do with it.

Another factor in the modest withdrawal of cash may have been the use of currency which had been in hoarding, to supplement money taken from banks. With currency in circulation still somewhat above a year ago, and close to a billion dollars above two years ago, it appears that an abnormal amount of cash is still being "banked" in socks and tin cans.

MONEY FLOWING BACK

The Federal Reserve statements this year showed that money in circulation increased only $95,000,000 between November 23 and December 21. This was the smallest in years. Immediately after the Christmas holiday, money began pouring back into the banks, circulation decreasing $43,000,000 in the week ended December 28.

In the corresponding dates in 1931, currency in circulation shot up $254,000,000, or more than twice as much as this year. That, of course, was an abnormally large increase, reflecting the banking difficulties of that time, a situation largely stabilized by the operations of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Money failed to come back as fast as it was being withdrawn after Christmas in 1931, currency circulation increasing $1,000,000 in the week ended December 30.

REFLECTS STABILITY

At least, the action of the volume of money circulation around Christmas time this year, whatever it may indicate as to the volume of trade, was viewed as decidedly gratifying in contrast with last year, in showing the return of banking stability.

Estimates as to the volume of this year's holiday trade vary somewhat. Standard Statistics Company places the volume at about 10 per cent less than last year, with prices some 15 per cent lower. This indicates a dollar value of business more than 20 per cent under last year. This is borne out by the New York Federal Reserve report, which said reports from leading department stores in the New York City area indicated business as 22 per cent under last year, expressed in terms of dollars, in the first 24 days of December.

STOCK LEADERS GAIN IN QUIET TRADING

Trading was in relatively small volume, but many prominent issues rose from 1 to more than 3 points. Strength of the Chicago and Liverpool wheat markets evidently gave the signal for bullish operations in shares.

Brokerage sentiment remained mixed, but more bullish quarters expressed the view that some spring recovery in business was almost certain, and should be discounted in advance by the market. It was pointed out that spring recovery in 1932 was almost lacking, so that there had undoubtedly been an accumulated deficiency of seasonal consumers goods, which should in some degree be met, despite the low level of purchasing power. More skeptical quarters, however, continued to stress political uncertainties, and the low level of corporate earnings.

Wall street continued to watch Washington hopefully. The expressed determination of political leaders to balance the budget has met with enthusiasm in banking quarters, where a balanced budget has been widely urged as a prerequisite to sustained business recovery. Talk in Washington of devaluation of the dollar has also attracted much attention in the financial district, but fears of dangerous inflation have not been engendered, for gilt-edged bonds have continued to advance. The decision of House leaders to rush consideration of the domestic allotment plan also attracted keen interest. Wall street has, in the main, staunchly opposed to price fixing schemes, but the allotment plan has some supporters in the financial community.

GRAINS MAKE FRESH GAINS

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—Fresh advances in grain values prevailed early today from persistent strength of the Liverpool wheat market. Possibilities of a cold wave in domestic winter wheat territory southwest served also as a stimulus to buyers. Opening 3/8-3/4 higher, Chicago wheat futures continued upgrade. Corn started at 1/8-3/8 advance and subsequently rose further.

More than a cent a bushel advance for wheat was soon attained, among the incentives were statements by a trade authority that indications pointed to increased world shipments the ensuing seven months, and that importing countries had used their native wheat to an unusual extent of late.

Corn and oats moved up with wheat. Provisions were responsive to hog market upturns.

WORLD WHEAT PACT URGED BY CANADA

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—After President-elect Roosevelt takes office on March 4, Canada will doubtless press for consideration its plan for an international agreement among leading wheat exporting countries to limit production of the cereal.

The idea was recently suggested at a meeting of the premiers of the three prairie provinces in Canada, whose gross income has been reduced from $500,000,000 a year to $200,000,000 by the decline in prices of agricultural products. The plan tentatively formulated involved Canada, the United States, Argentine and Australia.

Mr. Rukeyser

WATCH AMERICA

Canadian authorities, who are extremely wheat conscious, have been following with great interest proposed agricultural remedies in this country. The suggested domestic allotment plan, to which Mr. Roosevelt is understood to be sympathetic, would not be applicable to the Canadian situation, for the prairie provinces there raise wheat primarily for export, whereas in the United States nearly three-fourths of the crop is produced for domestic consumption. The domestic allotment plan for getting a higher price for that portion of the crop intended for domestic consumption would have no application to the Canadian situation.

In connection with the quiet interchange of ideas which has been going on among leaders in the two two neighboring countries, American executives have been studying Manitoba's debt adjustment act.

As amended in the last year, the act gives farmers and other home owners protection from the epidemic of foreclosures. It is provided that no foreclosures may take place without a certificate from the Board of Mediation. The two other prairie provinces are understood to be considering enacting legislation of a similar kind.

BLOCK FORECLOSURES

In Manitoba, where farmers experience difficulty in meeting their obligations under existing depression conditions, the mediators look into the facts in each case, and decide what the farmer's capacity to pay under existing conditions is. If the farmer or home owner lives up to the emergency stipulations of the mediators, then there can be no foreclosure. There can be a foreclosure, however, if he fails to live up to the revised terms fixed by the mediators.

Moreover, provision has been made in the province to obviate wholesale foreclosures for tax delinquencies. Those in arrears can be assured that they may hold their property if they will pay current taxes and one-sixth of the arrears annually (without interest or penalties).

FARM DEBT URGENT

Manitoba has gone to these extremes to protect farmers and home owners because its government has been dominated by the farmers' party under Premier John Bracken for 10 years. When the party first emerged triumphant a decade ago, it found itself without a leader. Accordingly, it drafted as premier Mr. Bracken, who was then head of the agricultural college. He had lived in the province only two years, and had not yet voted in the province. Now the party itself is called by his name.

In the United States, the question of adjustment of burdensome farm debt is especially urgent. But under present conditions all debt, industrial as well as agricultural, has become burdensome as the price level and the gross volume of business have fallen. If debt could be brought into balance with existing conditions, much progress would be made toward breaking the persistent economic deadlock.

WHELPLEY RAPS COSACH BAN

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Medley G. D. Whelpley, president of the Cosach Nitrate Combine, which was ordered dissolved yesterday this evening gave out a statement severely criticizing the action of the government in ordering the organization liquidated.

Mr. Whelpley said that in order to avoid any damage or hindrance to forming a reorganized company, the Cosach board will deliver the entire combine to the government's committee of liquidation as ordered in President Alessandri's decree of dissolution Monday.

He added however, that "the board goes on record as not being willing to assume any responsibility for the immediate or future consequences of this act of the government of Chile."

Mr. Whelpley declared that the President's decree was contrary to all deeds and papers of organization signed with legislative authority by the government of Chile in the past.

Whelpley noted that the decree did not apply to the two concerns controlled by the Guggenheim interests, the Anglo-Chilean and the Lautaro companies.

AUTO INDUSTRY SUSTAINING STEEL

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Aside from increased tin plate specifications and heavier releases from the automobile industry, the new year opened with few indications of an impending seasonal rise in iron and steel bookings, says the Iron Age. Little replenishment buying has yet put in an appearance.

Unless steel demand from miscellaneous sources shows a gain similar to that of last autumn, it seems likely that mills will remain, for some time, dependent on the motor car and container industries for their main support. These two influences are almost entirely responsible for a rise in steel ingot production from last week's rate to 13 per cent to a current average of 14 per cent. Among the steel producing districts, the Cleveland territory and the Valleys alone registered gains, the Cleveland rate rising from 26 to 35 per cent and the Valley average from 10 to 15 per cent.

LOCAL RATE LOW

Detroit maintained its comparatively high rate of 34 per cent, and the Wheeling district continued on a 30 per cent basis, while Buffalo operations dropped from 16 to 12 per cent. Pittsburgh and Chicago operations remained unchanged at recent low levels of 12 and 9 per cent respectively.

Final figures on pig iron production for December, as compiled from returns from producers, were even more discouraging than preliminary estimates. Output last month was 546,080 tons, or 17,615 tons a day, as compared with 631,280 tons, or 21,052 tons daily, in November. The daily average barely exceeded the depression low of 17,115 tons, reached in August, and showed a decline of 16.3 per cent from the November rate.

HOLIDAY INFLUENCE

Ten furnaces were put out or banked during December and one was blown in, making a net loss of nine stacks. Part of this loss in active furnaces is accounted for by holiday banking and will probably be offset by early resumptions.

Pig iron production for 132 was 8,686,443 tons, the lowest output since 1896 and a decline of 52.4 per cent from the 1931 total of 18,275,165 tons.

Furnaces in operation on January 1 numbered 42, making iron at the rate of 15,810 tons daily, compared with 51 active stacks on December 1, producing at the rate of 20,860 tons adily.

Holiday Affects St. Paul Loadings

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—During the week ended December 31, the Chicago, Milwaukee St. Poul and Pacific Railroad handled 16,133 revenue freight cars (five loading days) as against 20,778 cars handled in the preceding week of six loading days, and 19,503 in the like period of last year.

BUSINESS :: Technocracy Statistics Wrong Editor Declares

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

CHARGES THAT Technocracy has used incorrect data in arriving at its conclusions have been made by John H. Van Deventer, editor of the Iron Age. In a recent article Mr. Van Deventer analyzed several of the pronouncements of Technocracy which have been widely discussed in recent months. He found glaring errors in factual data. He also charged that the proponents of this new school of economic thought have been unwilling to submit their data to unprejudiced fact-finding and engineering bodies.

Taking the iron and steel industry, Mr. Van Deventer quoted the statement of Technocracy that in pig iron production, one man working one hour can do what it took him 650 hours to accomplish 50 years ago.

* * *

Finds Facts Are Greatly Distorted

"The laymen's conclusion to this unqualified statement is that 50 years of mechanization, etc., have speeded up productivity per man 650 times in a half century in the making of pig iron.

"In 1929, the output, per annum, was 1,710 tons per worker. In 1879, production per man was 73.7 tons. Instead of productivity in pig iron having increased 650 times in 50 years, as Technocracy intimates, it has increased 23.2 times.

"Even if we gave Technocracy the benefit of a 12-hour day in 1879 and an eight-hour day in 1929, there remains an exaggeration of more than 20 times in its statement as compared with the facts."

* * *

Steel Plants Not Laborless

IN REGARD to the Technocracy statements that man hours per unit of product and labor cost unit have dropped in recent years to levels approaching zero and that a photograph of a steel rolling mill in operation shows the plant without a human being on the floor, Dr. Van Deventer declared:

"The layman's conclusion must be that technological advances in steel mill practice have virtually made this a laborless industry. Let's get at the facts. In 1879, 50 years before the present depression, there were 24 workers employed in the United States in steel works and rolling mills for each 10,000 of population. In 1909, the density of employment in this industry had increased to 26 persons per 10,000 of population. In 1929, it was 32 persons per 10,000 of population. Note what happens to theory and to broad assertions when confronted by facts."

Mr. Van Deventer also pointed to incorrect statements in regard to ramie, the new textile which Technocracy sees as the ruin of our existing textile industry, and in regard to a lifetime razor blade with a tungsten-carbide edge.

In both cases he presented evidence showing that problems in production and in the perfection of the product remain to be solved.

'Armco' Retiring Notes and Bonds

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—The American Rolling Mill Company has purchased in the open market and retired as of December 31, last, $1,000,000 par value of its three-year 4½ per cent gold notes due November 1, next, and $1,500,000 par value of its 5 per cent sinking fund debentures due 1948.

Forbes

More Selling Essential to Better Times

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

HOW CAN more sales be effected?

To regain prosperity, we must increase the volume of business done.

This column has received a most stimulating communication sent by the director of an important company to each divisional sales manager.

SELLING USED to be regarded as an art.

We used to accept the dictum "salesmen are born, not made."

It is now recognized that salesmen must be made, that salesmen must be taught, that salesmen must be trained. Also, that the more intricate selling problems must be solved by sales executives, not left to rank-and-file men on the firing line.

For example, it is not up to the salesman to analyze the potentialities of his territory; that must be determined by the higher-ups in a position to gather all pertinent data.

HERE ARE the high points of the letter:

When an army conquers a city, its first act is to survey the city and its resources that it may fix the taxes. So with your territory. You must fix your lines of contribution for your own and our support.

Every activity that can contribute must be lined up. Every interest that we can serve must be classified. Each, in its relative degree, must contribute to your business.

Have you ever arranged and classified your prospects and set opposite each name the probable reasonable amount, or degree, of support they can contribute to your business?

Have you then fixed upon the type of man power each will require? Until you do this you don't know your possibilities of business volume, the number of salesmen and the kind you can use, nor are you face to face with your job and its possibilities.

One doesn't shoot quail with a cannon—nor elephants with a quail gun. You can use low-powered and high-powered salesmen—your cost of power must relate to the probable return. You must not run a sales cost in excess of need. That we have done this is evinced by our attitude toward hundreds of prospects when we say:

What we only unconsciously say is that we haven't any adjustment in our management that co-relates the man and his job; hence good men fail and we lose our investment in them because we put them up against a load greater than their capacity qualifies them for.

"The higher we go, the rarer the air"—the harder the sales resistance. Each must co-relate, the man power for the sales requirement. No haphazard operation of a business pays. It requires great judgment in a manager to co-relate and co-ordinate the man power and the job he is to perform.

MANAGEMENT IS a thinking job.

Every salesman, if willing, thoughtful, observant and honest with himself and his job, can sell in proportion to his industry, knowledge of his business, and his adaptability to it.

No man gets far who doesn't think out himself and his job. Milling around isn't planning. Real hard work is the 95 per cent motor power that makes a man and his job.

A professional man, a craftsman, a leader or doer of any sort is but a developed user of himself, his labor, his discernment and application of his talents and labor in higher developed form.

A MAN MUST improve his capacities for increased results, because he needs and wants more as he goes on. For what he wants, needs or requires, he must give value received.

Cause and effect co-exist. You'll get, in the main, what your worth is in the use of yourself and your talent. You can't fool your job or your concern, but you can fool yourself.

I've been asked:

"How many salesmen do I need? What volume of business do you expect of me? What should a man do? How much is there possible in this field?"

And I suppose you've said to yourself:

"How much is there in me? How much can I earn? How high can I go in this business? How big a fellow am I, or can I be?"

I'm saying these things to myself daily. If there ever was a time to go up against the situation with all that's in us, this is that time!

GO TO IT!

NEW MODEL INTRODUCED IN PITTSBURGH

THE 1933 CADILLAC PHAETON . . . ONE OF THE NEW MODELS ON DISPLAY IN PITTSBURGH

AGENCY SHOWS LATE MODELS

Pittsburghers today are getting their first view of the new 1933 Cadillac and LaSalle automobiles at the salesroom of the Royston, Cadillac, LaSalle Company, 5607 Baum boulevard. A special salon exhibit of the new cars has been arranged by General Manager H. D. Eierman. The display will be open evenings.

The new cars, distinctly smarter in appearance, are said to approach the peak of mechanical excellence visioned by Cadillac engineers in pioneering the multi-cylinder power plant 19 years ago. The chassis and body reflect a decided change, rendering obsolete many former ideas of what constituted luxurious transportation.

All models have the recently introduced and revolutionary Fisher individually controlled ventilation — improved synchromesh transmission and new and distinctly modernistic design. An unusual motif is expressed, in the new air foil fenders and curving running boards. The general external appearance is one of lithe fleetness and great power.

SCHOOL LEVY SHIFT ASKED IN BILL

A second bill not yet introduced would make the school board in Philadelphia partially elective. Although no mention of Pittsburgh is made in this bill, it is understood that an effort will be made to amend the bill to include this city if any sentiment can be aroused for the measure.

The tax bill was to have been offered yesterday by a Philadelphia senator. In his absence a Pittsburgh senator was asked to introduce the measure, but he declined to have anything to do with the matter. The elective school board bill is to be introduced in the House by Representative Root, of Philadelphia.

Senator James J. Coyne, who has been in a state of war with the Pittsburgh school board, today said he would not introduce any bills dealing with educational agencies, according to a wire from Harrisburg.

The tax bill is understood to be an outgrowth of the recent controversy involving the Pittsburgh school board and Pittsburgh real estate interests, which demand, without avail, that the board reduce the tax millage after similar action had been taken by City Council on city real estate.

Accounting Firm Asks Apology from Aaron

A public apology has been demanded from Marcus Aaron, president of the Board of Public Education, for the reference which he made in a public statement to the accountants working for the Coyne legislative committee as "discredited auditors."

The request is made in a letter addressed to Mr. Aaron by Rush & McGonigle, certified public accountants. Mr. Aaron is asked to read the letter before the board.

The auditors say that they have not yet completed their report on the Board of Public Education, and that when it is made it will be made without prejudice, confusion or bias. The letter states:

"We trust that as we are in the profession where ethics, honor and honesty are the prerequisites of not only ability but business association, you will reconsider your position and retract your statement as it concerns us."

The auditors deny that they are being paid by anyone, stating:

"We are performing our duties in the same altruistic fashion and with the same avidity as you, and your honorable board, have been performing for these long number of years, that is, without any charge or hope of reward."

Love May Laugh, But Bill Would Tax Locksmiths

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Love may laugh at locksmiths, but Representative Stephen Denning, Philadelphia, considers them more seriously.

He proposed today to license all locksmiths and keymakers in Philadelphia.

PINCHOT WOULD EASE BLUE LAW

member of the Legislature two years ago. It does not repeal the blue laws, but extends to each city, county and borough local option on their observance. For example, if Pittsburgh wished Sunday baseball, and Wilkinsburg did not, then Pittsburgh could have the sport—and a large proportion of the citizens of Wilkinsburg would attend the game.

Schwartz's bill repeals the ancient statute, but extends to city and borough councils and township supervisors authority to regulate Sunday observance by ordinance.

Assurance has been given liberal members of the House that the Law and Order Committee will report out at least one bill on the blue law subject, and approval on the floor is assured. It is further understood that the Republican state organization has promised that there will be a liberal attitude on the part of the Senate committee, which two years ago buried a bill by Schwartz designed to take the curb off Sunday sports. It passed the House.

Munhall Council Reduces Pay 15 Pct

Salaries of Munhall Borough employes were cut 15 per cent by Council yesterday in order to avoid lay-offs. With the new salaries the borough will save about $750 a month. Last February employes of the borough were given a 10 per cent cut.

The 1933 budget has not yet been adopted, but the tax levy of 12 mills will probably remain in effect this year.

SUNDAY, REPEAL BILLS AMONG 128 OFFERED

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Pensylvania's Legislature went home today to rest after the busiest opening session in years.

Both houses held brief meetings today and adjourned until Monday night, when the flood gates will be reopened for another flow of bills.

The surprising wave of new legislative proposals which rolled over the Capitol yesterday, even before the preliminary pomp and fanfare had faded, continued today. The House received 80 bills; the Senate, 48 bills, in the two days.

RUM LAW REVIVED

Measures to repeal the state prohibition enforcement act and modify the Sunday blue laws were among those presented this morning.

A bill which in fact would revive the old Brooks liquor regulating act and give it modern dress was presented in the House by Patrick J. Connor, Philadelphia Republican.

With them came Republican organization proposals to slash the salaries of the Governor and all state employes receiving more than $4,000 a year and to abolish permanently 14 boards and commissions.

LOCAL OPTION ASKED

Bills to repeal the Snyder-Armstrong prohibition enforcement act were offered by Representatives Morton Witkin, Fred C. Gartner and Clinton Sowers, all of Philadelphia.

Changes in the Blue Laws of 1794, to permit local option on Sunday sports and amusements, were proposed by Representative Joseph G. Steedle, Allegheny.

Representative Louis Schwartz, Philadelphia, who, with Representative Sowers, championed the bill which passed the House but was killed in the Senate in 1931, proposed modification to permit operation of theaters after 2 p. m. Sundays. The change would permit payment of employes and, in the language of the bill, aid in "relieving worldly employment."

OUSTER BILL URGED

ELECTION LAW REFORM SEEN BY HARRIS

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—Legislation providing permanent registration of voters to thwart election thefts today was declared hopeful by State Senator Frank J. Harris, with ample support available in the present Legislature.

Citing independent Republican and Democratic members of both Senate and House were committed to reform as urged by the Pennsylvania Election Laws Conference, Senator Harris said many organization Republicans are unwilling to support the present evil systems. He said of election reforms:

"One of the most vital changes, and one which I believe can be accomplished at this session, involves permanent registration. Under the law proposed by the elections conference, the citizen would be listed once for all, without any need of re-registration, provided he continues to live in the same election district.

"Provisions of this law would make it impossible to include long lists of 'phantom' names on the rolls, and would automatically insure elimination of such names if they do appear."

Republicans Lose New Phila. Wards

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Philadelphia's Republican organization has failed to gain control of the city's two new wards, the forty-ninth and fiftieth.

In the election of Republican city committeemen from the two wards as well as complete slates of ward officers, combinations of anti-organization adherents and supporters of Gov. Pinchot last night elected their candidates over those of the organization of which William S. Vare is the leader.

Urges '32 Auto Tags Stand Until April

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—(AP.) Representative Harvey A. Surface, Snyder, would give motorists three months of untaxed transportation.

He submitted a bill today to permit passenger cars to operate on their 1932 licenses until April 1, this year.

PINCHOT ASKS FEE OFFICE ABOLITION

HARRISBURG, Jan. 4.—Demanding the abolition of all fee offices in Allegheny County and the mercantile tax office, Gov. Gifford Pinchot in his biennial message to the newly convened Legislature today had demanded a $70,000,000 cut in government cost during the next two years. He made no mention of the blue laws or prohibition.

He proposed six measures which he said will reduce the cost of local government by $35,000,000 each year, with a resultant decrease in taxes. He recommended changes in the tax collecting laws to save $20,000,000 and suggested a cut of $34,000,000 in the next two years in the state budget.

ROAD PROPOSAL

He proposed the state take over the remaining 53,000 miles of second class township roads for maintenance and construction to save at least $18,000,000 in local road taxes.

The message pleaded for the abolition of politics in legislation, saying:

"The people have the right to demand that you shall not allow political leaders through you to play politics with this emergency."

Departing from his text he pointed out that $750,000 had been received by the collector of delinquent taxes in Allegheny County, between 1928 and 1931, which, after deducting expenses, allowed the collector net fees of $331,000, a net fee of $106,000 in 1931.

SIX-POINT PLAN

His six-point plan for saving $35,000,000 local government costs include the state's taking over the township roads, authorization for the department of revenue to assess and collect the personal property tax, to appraise and investigate inheritance taxes through its own employes, and the appraisement and collection of mercantile tax; that a more accurate method be provided for allocating the proportion of capital stock taxable in Pennsylvania of foreign corporations doing business here and that the duties of 435 boards of the state be transferred to the county poor boards, where such do not exist.

He pointed out that Pennsylvania has no deficit. He said we must cut out all extravagances first and said no salary cut is required to balance the budget. Concerning unemployment relief he said:

"The least amount the present General Assembly can afford to appropriate for unemployment relief is $20,000,000 and that unless you are prepared to take it from the hospitals and other state and state-aided institutions, to pay the cost of relief out of economies in government, is out of the question."

TAX REDUCTION

Taxes should be reduced first and most on the poor and needy and not first on concentrated wealth. A sales tax is not necessary, he said.

The message suggested a suspension for two years of the automatic increase in teachers' salaries required under the Edmonds act and creation of a state tax equalization board, with authority to control assessments.

Concerning election laws, Pinchot suggested a law whereby the defeated candidate would automatically take office if fraud is brought home to the successful candidate.

RENEW SEARCH FOR M'COIN

HAGERTOWN, Md., Jan. 4.—(AP.)—Hunt for the body of R. S. McCoin, missing North Carolina attorney, was renewed today as E. B. Linthicum, nephew of McCoin, led a group of farmers into the mountains near Indian Springs, 15 miles west of here, where a blood stained handkerchief was found by a youth.

The handkerchief was being examined by a local chemist to whom it had been given by the state police for an analysis.

Merle Garmong, Indian Springs youth, brought the handkerchief to state police here yesterday saying he found it near the ashes of a camp fire, where he said he saw an automobile, which he described as similar to the one owned by McCoin, parked on a mountainside.

For more than a week the search for McCoin's body has been carried on along the National Pike to the west of Hagerstown. An anonymous letter from a "boy in distress" to a North Carolina judge said the body, after McCoin had been killed in Virginia, had been buried near Hagerstown.

Gunmen Shoot Three In Raid on Union

CHICAGO, Jan. 4.—(INS.)—Three union painters were shot and wounded in a raid on headquarters by four gunmen which police today characterized as an attempt by racketeers to gain control of the union.

Invading a meeting of Local 275 of the painters' union the four armed men opened fire on the 100 men present.

Ex-Butler Sheriff Ends Life With Gun

BUTLER, Pa., Jan. 4.—Former Sheriff Harvey Hockenberry, 54, fatally shot himself last night in the barn on his Cherry Township farm, near Harrisville, the Coroner was notified. Hockenberry, sheriff from 1922 to 1926, had been in ill health. He leaves his widow, two daughters and a son.

Reed Loses Fight For Constable Post

Revocation of the appointment of John W. Reed, Negro, as constable in the Thirteenth Ward by the Allegheny County Quarter Sessions Court today had been upheld in an opinion received from the State Supreme Court.

The opinion, handed down by Justice Robert S. Frazer, contended Reed's appointment was in violation of statutory requirements. Reed was appointed in January but the following month he was cited as ineligible because of residence in the Fifth Ward.

TWO-SENTENCE WILL FILED

By a two-sentence will filed today, L. W. Young, Jr., late president of the South Penn Company, left an estate of $25,000 to his widow, Mrs. Josephine Beam Young.

DECEASED

Pursuant to Order of the High Court of Justice Chancery Division in England, dated 23rd June, 1930, in re Smith, deceased, Smitheram v. Smith, 1930 S. 1151, enquiries were directed for the purpose of ascertaining whether Robert Smith, Thomas Smith, George Smith, Thornton Smith, Isaac Smith and Henry Smith, respectively the brothers of Joseph Smith late of Middlesbrough, Yorkshire, England, who died on 30th November, 1896, were living on 29th December, 1923, or if not then living whether any and which of their issue Henry Smith left a widow living on that date, and if such widow has since died, who is her personal representative, and if the said Henry Smith is dead, who is his personal representative. If any of such brothers (except Henry Smith) and their widows died before 29th December, 1923, enquiries were further directed as to what children if any of the said brothers (other than Henry Smith) were living on 30th November, 1896, and if any of such children have died since 30th November, 1896, who are their personal representatives.

Notice is hereby given that all persons claiming to be entitled under the said enquiries are on or before the 1st March, 1933, to send by post prepaid to Messrs. Arthur Outhwaite Knott, of 161 Albert Road, Middlesbrough, Yorkshire, England, Solicitors for their full Christian and surnames, addresses and descriptions and full particulars of their claims, or in default thereof they will be excluded from the benefit of the said order unless the Court or Judge on application otherwise orders. Claimants are to attend personally or by their solicitor before Master Mosse at the Chambers of the Judge, Room 163, Royal Courts of Justice, Strand, London, England, on Wednesday, 8th March, 1933, at 12 o'clock noon, being the time appointed for adjudicating upon the claims.

A claimant not residing in England or Wales must send with particulars of his claim the name and address of a person in England or Wales to whom notices to the claimant can be sent.

Dated this 7th day of December, 1932.

H. L. MOSSE, Master.

MARY FAITH

By BEATRICE BURTON

Kim Leaves His Young Wife And Mother to Look After Themselves

CHAPTER XXII.

There wasn't a shadow in his eyes or a line of worry in his face. He stood there, calmly breaking their lives to pieces as if he were a wilful child knocking over a tower of building blocks.

"The most unlucky thing that ever happened to us was seeing each other in Armbruster's store last Christmas." He was turning now to go out of the kitchen. "If that hadn't happened everything probably would have turned out all right. You'd have married Nesbit, and I'd have stuck to Janet."

"Janet." Mary Faith had formed the word with dry lips that made no sound. Janet . . . the "loyal little kid" who had left the offices of McIntrae and Westover when they had let Kim out—who had followed him to his own tiny office in the Towers Building.

"You're leaving me for that girl, Kim. You think you should have married her instead of me, don't you?"

"I shouldn't have married anybody," he said violently. "And don't try to hang all the blame on her. Our married life has been a flop all along and you know it as well as I do . . . What do I get out of it. I'd like to know? I sit all day in a two-by-four office, waiting for a lot of clients who never come. I sit all evening in this flat, staring at the four walls. It's a great life for a man, isn't it?"

PREPARES TO LEAVE

He swung round and started down the narrow hall that led to the sleeping rooms at the back of the apartment.

"I'm just through!" he corrected her. "I'm all through. And I'm getting out now while the getting's good. See?"

He pulled his suitcase down from the shelf of his closet and opened it on the bed. Then he began to take his clothes out of the drawers of his dresser — shirts, underwear, socks, handkerchiefs. He went into the bathroom and came back with his toothbrush and his shaving tackle in his hands.

"Kim, you're not going out tonight? You're not going now?"

"I sure am. I'm going to get it all over and done with before I weaken . . . I know it's the thing to do and I'm going to do it. Besides, it's the twenty-eighth of the month. You and my mother will have to step lively if you're going to be out of this place by the first. It's only three days off."

He laid a bill on the top of the dresser. "There's $50," he said. "Make it go as far as you can, will you? When you need more you know my phone number downtown . . . and tomorrow will you pack up the rest of my clothes and send them over to the Maldons'? They're going to let me sleep on their davenport for a few nights until I find a room. I talked to them about it tonight."

WANTS TO FORGET

He was picking out some ties from the dozens and dozens that hung on the inside of his closet door. Mary Faith watched him from the doorway. She wondered if he remembered that he had worn that plain dark green satin one on their wedding day.

"Kim, don't you remember the day we were married?" she asked him suddenly. "Don't you remember the first supper we cooked down in Aunt Ella's kitchen? And remember how we woke up on New Years Eve and listened to the bells? You can't say that our married life was a 'flop' then, Kim. We were awfully happy, weren't we?"

His shoulders lifted and fell in a careless shrug. "That wasn't our married life—that was our honeymoon," he said. "And listen to me, Mary Faith, why drag up the past? Why be sentimental? Why be sentimental about something that's all over? We made a mistake. Let's admit it and forget it. Let's wipe it off the slate."

After that she did not argue with him.

She slipped out of the house and sat down on the top step of the back porch. The stars were out, thick as water-lilies on the vast black pool of the night sky. The air around her was cool and sweet, and somewhere close at hand a bird twittered sleepily.

She found herself wondering how the world could be so beautiful and so peacefull when life could be so bitterly cruel . . .

"I'm going, Mary Faith." Kim's voice came to her through the doorway behind her. Turning her head she could see him standing in the middle of the kitchen with his suitcase in his hand and his new light overcoat over his arm. He was peering out into the darkness.

"Aren't you coming to say goodbye?" he asked.

"No—I'm not. I'm not leaving you, Kim. You're going away from me, and I can't say goodby—I'm sorry—"

TO KEEP HOUSE

She watched him as he turned and walked out of the bright little room without another word. Presently she heard the sound of his car as it started. When the murmur of its engine had died away in the distance she got up and went back into the kitchen.

Mrs. Farrell was sitting at the table in the dining room. She had been crying and her eyes were red and swollen. She gave Mary Faith a wild, dazed look as she came into the room and sat down across the table from her.

"Well, what are we going to do?" she asked. "I guess there isn't anything to do but what Kimberley told us to do, is there?—It kills me to think of giving up my home and going down to Garrettsville—" She put her face down into her hand and her broad shoulders began to shake with her sobbing.

"You aren't going to give up your home," Mary Faith said very quietly; but Mrs. Farrell heard her. She raised her face from her hands and stared at her.

"You're going to stay right here and I'm going to stay with you," Mary Faith went on. "I'll get some kind of work to do this summer—and I have seven hundred dollars that we can live on after I have to stop working. That ought to tide us over . . ."

Mary Faith drew a deep breath and went on: "You see, it's like this—I'm going to have my baby in January. And I think he ought to be born right here, where you and I can take care of him, don't you?"

There was a dead silence in the room for a minute or two after she stopped talking. Mrs. Farrell's eyes grew round and large with her astonishment and her mouth fell laxly open.

"A baby?" she repeated. "A baby?" She shook her head as if she couldn't believe it.

"Does Kimberly know this?" she asked sharply.

"No. I was going to break the news to him today—and then all this trouble came up. So I kept still," Mary Faith explained simply.

"But you couldn't have kept still! You should have told him! If he'd known about it he never would have left you the way he did just now. Never in the world!"

Mary Faith nodded. "I know it . . . That's why I didn't tell him. I didn't want to keep him that way. I didn't want to keep him at all if he didn't want to stay—and you must promise that you won't tell him."

Synopsis

Mary Faith, secretary to Mark Nesbit, wealthy businessman, gives up her position to marry Kimberley Farrell, shiftless young lawyer. She realizes he has an eye for every girl, but hopes that married life will sober him and make him successful in his profession. Instead, Kim is annoyed at Mary Faith's "Puritanism," and his friends, Claire and Jack Maldon, find her a dull companion. Learning that she is to become a mother, Mary Faith, for the first time, visits Kim's office. Kim is furious when Mary Faith finds him flirting with his blonde secretary. That night he informs his mother and Mary Faith that he is leaving.

Now Go On

"I'm getting out now while the getting's good," said Kim.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

When Mildred Rotthoff opened Saturday's meeting of the Rowland Theater Chapter, Sun-Telegraph Warner Theater Club, she wished all the boys and girls "A Happy New Year!" and the lusty chorus came back "Same to you" The Rowland orchestra seemed to be at its best and, although there was a long program in sight, the youngsters wouldn't let this unique and promising orchestra stop playing.

Finnaly, however, Miss Rotthoff got them away from the orchestra and put on one of the best entertainments of the year. It was furnished by the Martha Rose School of Dancing. There were tap dances by Martha Winkler and Betty Lang, a song and toe dance by Leah Bell and an adagio dance by Babe Byers and Elena Tropf; a song and tap dance by Laverne Messner and an added number by little Miss Tropf. The regular club yell brought this gay meeting to a close.

NOVELTIES AT DONORA

Manager Ken Hoel, as we predicted, is putting on some real novelties for the Donora (Pa.) Chapter. Saturday he introduced a horseshoe pitching contest and discovered that the kiddies really know a lot about this game. Strange to say it was a girl who captured the honors—Agnes Mullen. And it also has proved that they know a lot about Mickey Mouse. In a clever contest based on this comic character Gabriel Zeffrio was the winner.

McKeesport Memorial Theater Chapter is going like wildfire. The Saturday meeting was one of the largest in attendance in the history of the club and Manager Louis Gilbert deserves a lot of credit for building up this branch of the Junior Komic Club. His programs are the magnet.

There were 17 different numbers in Saturday's entertainment and it ran far over the allotted time.

ON PROGRAM

There were songs by Margaret Kardos, Stella Barton, Regina Razne, Richard Fetter, Molly Joskowitz, Lillian Paule, Dennis Smith, Betty Robb, Jack Russell, Marjorie Livingstone and Virginia Alton; songs and dances by Dorothty Gavollier, Madeline Curtis, Marie Peterson and Alva Urbansky.

Guitar selections by Robert Nelson, an Irish jig by Helen Sweeney and tap dances by Shirley Abels and Jeanne Abels.

On Saturday the South Hills Theater Chapter comes to the front with a new juvenile orchestra to be known as the South-Hills-Harris "Syncopaters." It looks like a corking good band with Joe Cardarelli, leader; Bob Weber, tuba; "Chuck" Cardarelli, clarinet; Jack Hanna, Bill Abbott and Don Wise, saxophone; Sam Lang, Earl Fowler, trumpet; Cliff Olendorf, drums; Bob Duda, piano; Tom Courtney, trombone, and Roy Baldwin, doubling with the accordion and trumpet. On top of this there is a big stage unit scheduled to appear Saturday from the Kiser Dancing School.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Short Biography of a Fat Boy

A good feature about the recent depression was that we all got healthy.

The life insurance companies are delighted with the results. People ate sparingly and lived longer for less reasons. We all got more fresh air and lived outdoors per request of our big-hearted landlords.

The result is that our eye is clearer and the brain clicking faster. Only one prognostication went wrong during the administration. The bird rate of the nation wasn't two chickens to every pot.

The writer himself reports individual progress. One year ago he weighed almost 200 pounds in his upholstered feet. Today he is down to 165 by the village clock as he rode into Lexington.

That means 35 pounds stuffed off in order to get the spirit of the affair. He feels better, looks worse and will accept any reasonable offer. He has lost the largest private collection of double chins in history.

There was one chin we were especially fond of. It started at the lower maxillary and continued south like a six-button vest.

It hung down like an awning full of rain. Punch us on that chin and we would cough up a fish like a pelican.

Now that chinstrap is all evaporated. But we expect to get it back if the Democrats keep their campaign promises. We certainly hope that this won't be another administration of boyish forms.

An accordion pleated neck is a sign of prosperity. The minute a banker sees your Adam's apple he closes down on your credit.

Caesar was leary of thin men and trembled when he heard the long, lean Cassius was on another toast-and-orange-juice diet. There are no plump villains in history because a fat boy is too busy wiping off his chin to bother about war.

We're going to start stoking up again this year and will try to pass the 200 mark about the time we meet Babe Ruth going the other way.

Don't Deceive Yourself about a COLD!

A Cold is Nothing to Take Lightly and Nothing to Treat Lightly! A Cold is an Internal Infection Calling for Specific Internal Medication!

A cold is nothing to trifle with. You can't tell where it will end. Many a case of Influenza has been preceded by a "slight" cold.

A cold calls for a COLD remedy. Preparations good for half a dozen things besides colds can't be equally effective for colds. Many of these preparations actually make a cold more difficult of relief because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

A cold also calls for internal medication. For, a cold is an internal infection. Local or outside applications only allay a few of the symptoms and do not reach the seat of the trouble.

Play Safe!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine deals with a cold decisively because it does the four things necessary. First of all, it opens the bowels. Second, it kills the cold germs and fever in the system. Third, it relieves the headache and grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Harmless!

Effective as it is, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is safe for young and old to take. It contains nothing harmful and may be taken with impunity whether you stay indoors or go out. For more than forty years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine now comes in two sizes—30c and 50c. Get yourself a package today and keep it handy all winter as your "safety first" measure. Ask for it by the full name and look for the initials L B Q stamped on every tablet.

NOTE: During Epidemics a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine every morning and night will do much to fortify your system against infection.

GOOD FOR BILL

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat)

Bill Wright, son of Boy Wright, went to a local doctor a few days ago with a pretty badly cut upper lip. The physician closed the wound with five stitches. There was little conversation, but when the doc got the young man all fixed up he asked in a friendly way, "Pretty bad lip, Bill. How in the world did you get it?"

"By talking when I oughta been listening," quoth Bill.

Hawley-Smoot Tariff Fails to Protect Home Market—Let Congress Act!

IT IS sincerely believed by some sections of our people that the United States has long pursued and is pursuing now a policy of EXTREME PROTECTION.

As a matter of fact, OUR HOME MARKET IS NOT PROTECTED AT ALL under the conditions that today exist in the world. It is RAIDED AT WILL by foreign producers.

* * *

WITH the depreciated currencies and the low wage-scales prevailing in Europe and Asia, the duties imposed upon imports by the Hawley-Smoot bill are no defense whatever of our market.

They neither arrest nor diminish the steady and increasing inflow of cheap goods at prices so far beneath the cost of their manufacture in this country that it is idle for our manufacturers to attempt to compete.

The result is that our producers do not even make the attempt. It is useless. They accept facts with which they cannot cope. They have closed down their mills and laid off their employes.

The foreign producer, with his cheap labor and his debased currency, has DISPOSSESSED THE AMERICAN PEOPLE of their home market and has MADE IT HIS OWN!

* * *

ALAS! The disregarded experience of the past! The oft-taught, the bitterly learned and apparently the forgotten lessons of our history!

We have been prosperous when we protected our home market, REALLY PROTECTED IT—when we recognized that it is our own people who MAKE our home market, SUPPORT it, DEFEND it and SUPPLY it.

In 1846, the United States veered to the English policy of free trade.

England had builded her greatness on the policy of protection. For five hundred years she had guarded by legislation and royal decree the preference of her subjects in her own markets against all the world.

One of the earliest steps was her prohibition against not only the importation of woolens but the exportation of wool. She did not intend that competing nations should have the raw materials with which to contend with her industries in the English market.

As the result of drastic legislation, embargoes, corn laws, navigation acts and prohibitive tariffs to safeguard her home market, England became the dominant country of the world, with almost a monopoly in the production of manufactured goods.

So undisputed became her industrial and commercial ascendancy under protection that she felt strong enough to try free trade, bitterly as she was destined to atone for it.

* * *

FOR fifteen years subsequent to 1846 we turned away from our sound and historic policy of protection that had its origin in almost the first official act of George Washington as President. We ceased to guard our home market. We thought our domestic trade could fend for itself.

Doubtless some fatuous statesman of the time felt, like the author of the Hawley-Smoot tariff of the present day, that all the American people were entitled to in their own market was EQUAL OPPORTUNITY.

We did not, however, long persist in such folly. Its results were too prompt and too tragic. President Buchanan, in his message to Congress in 1857, pictured the conditions that ensued.

"Our manufacturers," said he, "have suspended, public works are retarded and private enterprises of various kinds have been abandoned. We possess all the elements of national greatness in rich abundance and yet our country is in a deplorable condition."

He advised Congress it was imperative that they revise the tariff immediately, for he was unable to borrow money to meet the current expenses of the government at less than twelve per cent interest.

* * *

AGAIN, it is the IMPERATIVE DUTY OF CONGRESS to look to the dangers that beset the country.

THE AMERICAN HOME MARKET IS IMPERILED!

The advantage which foreign producers enjoy today by reason of their depreciated currency and low wage scales can be quickly overcome and nullified by COMPENSATING DUTIES IN THE NATURE OF SPECIAL TARIFF TAXES.

Why should there be a moment's delay in the institution of DEFENSIVE, REMEDIAL and PROTECTIVE action by the present Congress?

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE DEMAND IT. THEY EXPECT IT.

Pinchot's Bold Plan

The Governor Offers a Program for Financial Relief With a Confidence That Is Impressive

In his message to the Legislature yesterday Gov. Pinchot saw fit to ignore the people's demand for repeal of the Blue Law and the state prohibition enforcement act. With these exceptions he covered the field of the state's legislative needs adequately.

Overshadowing all else is the astounding plan by which he declared it to be possible to relieve municipal taxpayers to the amount of $35,000,000 in two years, find $20,000,000 for unemployment relief, avoid any new taxation, and at the same time carry on the operations of the state government.

Gov. Pinchot recommends that the commonwealth take over all the remaining 53,000 miles of second class township roads for maintenance and construction, that the Department of Revenue be authorized to assess and collect the personal property tax, to appraise and investigate inheritance taxes through its own employes, and to appraise and collect mercantile taxes through its own employes, and that the duties of the 425 poor boards of the state be transferred to county poor boards. In these ways, he says, a total of $55,000,000 can be found for the benefit of the people of Pennsylvania without endangering the soundness of our finances, and without imposing a single cent in new taxation.

The confidence with which he makes these claims for his plan is impressive, but the difficulties that must be overcome before he can win the assent of the Legislature are not to be underestimated.

A Billion Dollar County

But Pride in Our Wealth Is Tempered by the Poor Showing Made in Voting

Philip H. Dewey, secretary of Internal Affairs, reports that Allegheny County leads all the other counties in Pennsylvania in the amount of capital invested in industry. The amount is $1,179,985,800.

But another state report comes along at the same time which detracts from the pride that is aroused by these figures as to our wealth. It is a report on voting slackers at the last election.

In Allegheny County 74 per cent of the registered citizens voted; in Philadelphia 94 per cent voted.

There is some slight consolation in the fact that our poor showing was a trifle better than that of the state as a whole. Of 3,912,671 citizens registered in Pennsylvania, 2,859,021 cast their ballot. The other 1,053,650 waived the privilege—or shirked the duty.

The Death of Dr. Maits

The City Has Lost a Valuable Official in the Passing of the Director of Public Health

Mayor Charles H. Kline has put selfish political considerations first in some of his appointments; in others he has ignored political considerations and put the welfare of the public first. The appointment of Dr. Charles B. Maits as Director of Public Health was among the latter.

Dr. Maits was a valuable official, and in his untimely death Pittsburgh suffers a grievous loss. He was only 48, and much might have been expected of him if he had been spared.

Dr. Maits was ever on the alert to protect Pittsburgh's health. He was active in the prevention of every kind of disease. He sought no less earnestly to save hay fever sufferers from their annual affliction by enforcing the ordinance against weeds than he strove to protect children from diphtheria by urging their immunization.

The high regard in which he was held by his colleagues in the medical profession bears witness to his ability.

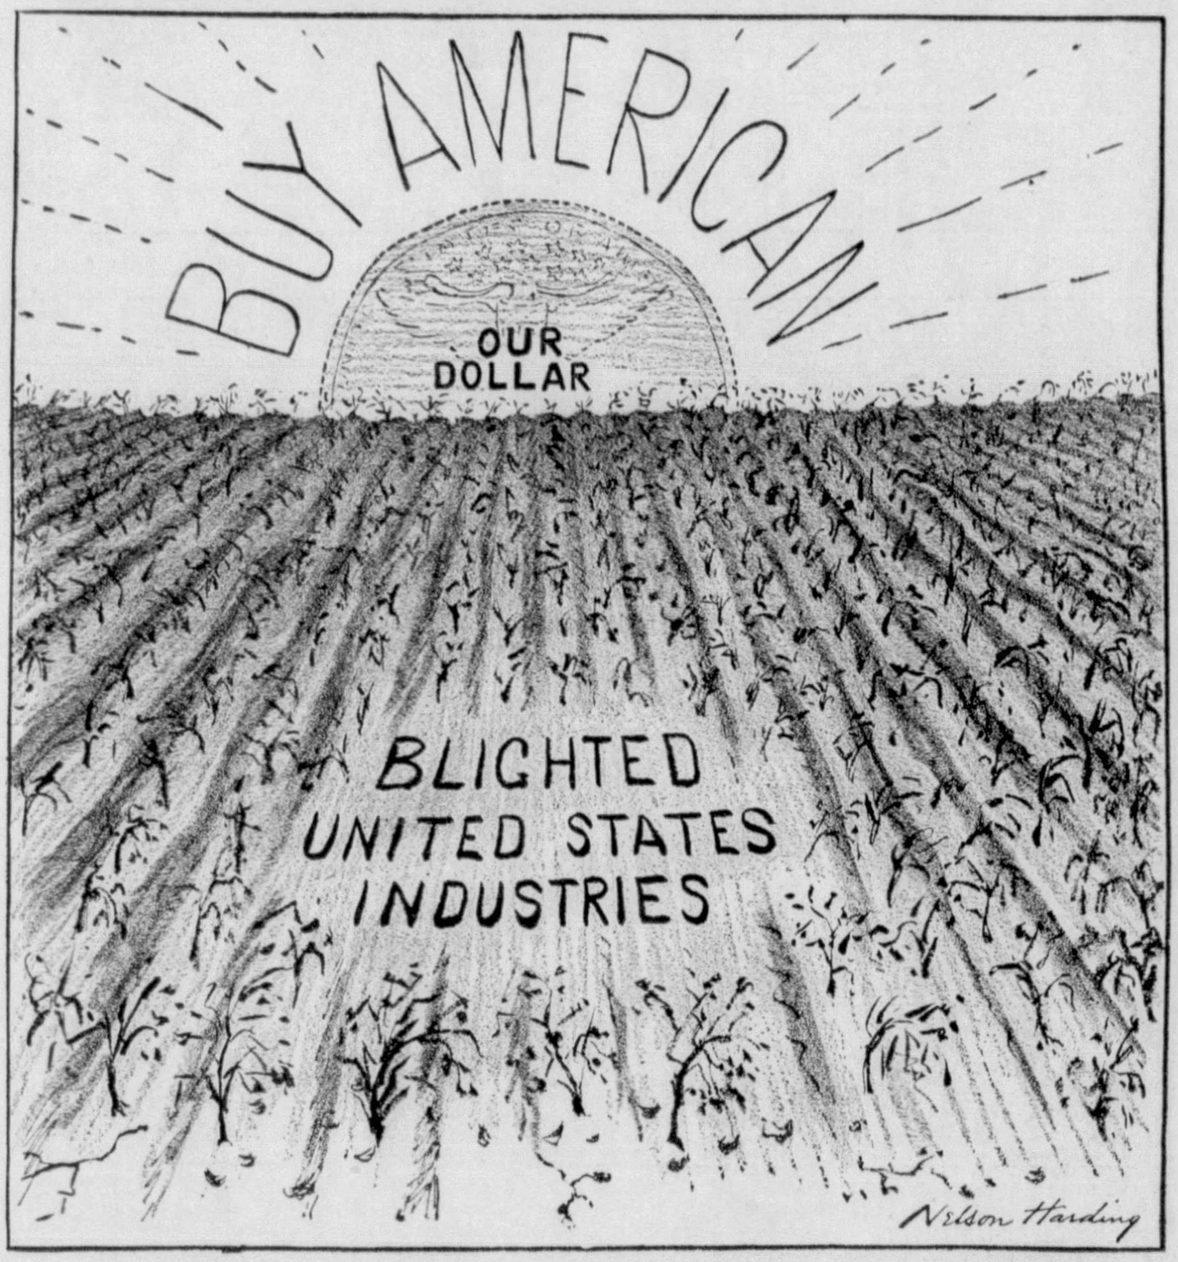
The Plants Need the Sun

By Nelson Harding



Too long have clouds obscured the sky,
While crops have languished in the shade,
And plants that flourished, strong and high,
Have slowly withered, leaf and blade.

The plants now drooping, row on row,
Will die for want of sunny days,
They must have light and heat to grow.
They need the sun's reviving rays.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Are modern men Gentlemen or just Unmannerly Males? And did a lady get a better break in the Days of Chivalry than she does in the Days of Equality?

Miss Lottie Lawrence thinks they are, and she did. And I'm going to let her say her piece, just as she and mamma wrote it. Dear Miss Robinson:

I'd like to know — WHERE HAVE ALL THE GENTLEMEN GONE TO? And whose fault is it that they seem to have disappeared?

My mother and I both think that modern men don't compare at all with the men of Dad's youth. Men used to show courtesy to women. If you met one you knew on the street, or in an elevator, he didn't just make a motion toward his noble brow—he took off his hat and bowed. If you went on a street car, you got a seat. If a woman came into a room where men were sitting, they got up until she was given a chair, as gentlemen should.

BUT NOW!! WELL, GO ANYWHERE WHERE A BUNCH OF MEN ARE SITTING AROUND, AND WHAT HAPPENS? NOTHING! They just act as if you weren't there—or weren't a woman.

I just wonder what ails them. Sometimes I think it's the women's own fault. They WOULD be Independent. They WOULD insist on being "One of the Fellows"—and they certainly are! Independent enough to do everything for themselves, and to be treated just too common for anything! It makes me furious, and I think someone should do something about it! Don't you think the women made a mistake when they let themselves in for such treatment? LOTTIE.

Have women made a mistake? They certainly have. Their chief one being this classic idea that WOMEN SHOULD BE TREATED DIFFERENTLY AND MORE DELICATELY THAN MEN.

That statement will doubtless jar many a feminine sensibility. But suppose We Girls stop being jarred, and use our heads for a change. Just WHY, when we get right down to brass tacks, should women expect to be Treated Special simply because they are females?

There is, it is true, a divine spark in all our mortal dust. But there's just as much of that spark in a man as there is in a woman. AND THERE'S NO MORE REASON FOR A MAN TO TAKE OFF HIS HAT TO A WOMAN, OR GIVE HER HIS SEAT, THAN THERE IS FOR A WOMAN TO ACCORD SUCH COURTESY TO A MAN.

As a matter of fact, the only REAL courtesy a man can show a woman is to treat her as he would wish to be treated himself—to give her the same break legally as he gives himself. Grandpa bowed and scraped to Grandma, and filled the local columns with poems in her praise. But when it came to practical action, his attitude toward females wasn't so pretty.

When Chivalry was in its fanciest flower a man could—right here in the United States—will away his unborn child, install his mistress under the same roof with his wife, beat his wife when she displeased him—and, whatever the provocation, the lady had no redress.

Grandma might have had all the romantic gestures, but, in actual practice, she couldn't call her soul her own. Those Good Old Days may look like a million valentines to sentimental females, but it's my hunch that no spunky, twentieth century gal would stand for them for a second.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

You have censured certain persons you know for their stinginess, for what you class as their lack of loyalty, because they have not contributed liberally toward charity funds and other fund-raising enterprises.

You think these folks well-to-do because they own much property so far as you and the outside world can see.

There is nothing to be said in favor of these people.

But not all those who seem "stingy" to you are in that class—they just haven't got the money—that's all.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Trade being as it is, gyp barber shops, comparable in rascality to the cabaret clip joints, have popped up all over town. Unless the shop is known, the casual dropper-in is due for a trimming and that doesn't mean a haircut. The majority are in the shadows of great terminals.

Surest suckers are the transients who often while away the tedium between trains with tonsorial ministrations. Such shops never expect the stranger to return, so they give him "the works." All are bulwarked with faked price lists to stop squeals of the outraged.

In the whirl of duplicities is one almost sure way of establishing the easy mark. This is by placing a towel over the victim's eyes while inspecting his coat collar to see if it bears an out-of-town label. The more obscure the city, the heavier the tariff.

A venerable trick is surreptitiously to rub a clean towel over a shoe sole, then pass it over the patron's hair and show him the smudge. This, as a rule, will result in a shampoo and perhaps a scented tonic. A thin scraping of soap on a thumb will suggest black-heads and a massage.

There is, indeed, a police record of one rascal bottling crawling horrors, a specimen of which he unloosed in innocent hair. After his pseudo-discovery, he would suggest a $5 "treatment" which was not only snapped up but a heavy tip would be bestowed as sort of hush money.

* * *

I grow increasingly churlish toward the art of Beatrice Lillie. Each season she comes back with a clashing of cymbals and an Algonquin accolade. Her faked stumbles, studied coyness and off key "Pulleze!" were amusing the first time but after a few years I am cloyed. And I don't like the rude claque at her first nights. It may be smart to be crazy about La Lillie's performances but I prefer to be dumb—at least until Britain is more cordial to Yankee worthiers.

* * *

After long absence, I idled through the Maiden Lane jewelry district. It's an alley-like spurt off Broadway below Fulton and once was one of the downtown's roarers. But now it's fraught with a semi-desolation, the pavements being only comfortably filled. In our noonday releases from the print shop, Hugo Halling and I used to dawdle before Maiden Lane windows just to see the derbied gents—private cops—whisk out of nowhere to your side.

* * *

In the narrowest of slits that is Nassau street, I saw a young girl clad in a daring mix of stabbing colors, cool and dazzling as an iceblink. With a Peggy Joyce property smile, she became a sort of Cressida selling dollar pens. Her frankness netted many sales. "I doll up this way," she explained, "so as not to appear begging. My pens are excellent value. If you need one, my profit is 18 cents which is helpful. But please don't buy from sympathy."

* * *

The lower East Side's Petticoat lane, brilliantly lit Division street, is dimmed by the economic blur. Snug under an elevated, its four-block length was solid with cheap dress parlors, where cash carriers sing on wire. A Paris model in a Fifth avenue atelier was displayed in low-priced replica on Division street 48 hours later. Chorus ladies went there for plumage Sunday, the busiest day. But store after store has been deserted until almost half are emptied. The rest carry on, but without even the mealy enthusiasms of a puller-in.

* * *

The blonde $50,000,000 heiress, Barbara Hutton, is the society butterfly of the moment, winging from New York to the Riviera and back to Palm Beach with the seasons. She is equally at home in the sedate Casino or on Broadway's coasts of lights and her slightest escapades burgeon into headlines.

* * *

Claire Luce tells me she definitely decided to abandon dancing this season and do only straight dramatic work. Her stage partner, Fred Astaire, was to execute all the nimble steps. But at rehearsals Astaire, clowning, would swing her off with him. Thus their routine in "Gay Divorce." All sudden improvisation.

From a South Dakota weekly: "McIntyre's wife has always written his column." They're closing in. I can't keep up this farce much longer.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Mrs. Solomon Says—

Hear now my plea, oh Fate, and bestow upon me the One Supreme Gift, which nature and heaven have accorded only to the few and the fortunate.

* * *

Yea, deny me whatsoever else thou wilt, but give me my share of CONCEIT, and I shall "get by." For modesty commandeth the admiration of the wise and the few. But vanity and conceit carry a woman wheresoever she listeth and get her whatsoever else she desireth.

* * *

Deny me charm and allurement, if thou must. But fill me with self-admiration, so that I shall THINK of myself as a siren and feel that I am "fascinating," and men shall be convinced of it. And I shall have no lack of admirers. For all men accept a woman at her own valuation, and she marketh her own price-tag.

* * *

Give my wit the dullness of a last year's rhinestone buckle, if thou so desirest; but let me chatter blythely, in the BELIEF that I am scintillating, and I shall not lack for hearers. And the dimwits shall call me "original."

* * *

Bestow upon me the feet of a ploughboy, if it must be so. But leave me the vanity to encase them in high-heeled satin slippers and to trip about with mincing steps, and the world will grant me "a dainty foot."

* * *

What though my shoulder-blades be sharper than swords and my backbone a row of knobs and mine elbows like unto button-hooks? So long as I possess the nerve to flaunt them boldly, I shall be admired for my "slenderness" and my "sex-appeal."

* * *

Let me be more commonplace than the lowly ashcan and less distinguished than the alley cat. But give me the hauteur of the snob and the aplomb of the four-flusher. Yea, fill me with a Superiority Complex, and the multitude will be impressed by mine importance and dazzled by my greatness.

* * *

What though my dwelling be a one-room apartment, my car be in pawn and my purse flatter than the last sardine in the box? If I can flash the latest thing in hats and wear my clothes with the strutting of a mannikin, and sport a broad "A," I shall still be "among those present" in the smart places.

* * *

Yea, verily, verily, though I be plainer than a Monday boiled dinner and duller than the Congressional Record, what doth it matter, so that I believe myself a beauty, a wit and a man-charmer? For my CONCEIT shall sustain me.

* * *

Go to. Modesty is a virtue which most men never SEE and few men prize. But conceit is an asset, which hath carried many a damsel to the altar with the "Big Catch" of the season, and led many a dumbbell to the seats of the mighty.
